CONSUMERS!

Numerous answers are now being sent in by competitors for the Boot Jack Prizes unaccompanied by the tobacco tags, correspondents claiming they have difficulty in finding them. They should bear in mind that under the conditions all such answers will be thrown out. The tobacco is now for sale or can be furnished by all jobbers in this city, as those who do not carry it in stock can readily obtain it from the manufacturer's supply depot at No. 5 Wabash-av., and consumers should insist that their retail dealers furnish themselves to meet the growing demand for this popular article. The prizes are offered to consumers as a means of bringing a superior article to their notice, from a conviction that its genuine merit when once tried will make it the most popular chewing tobacco in the country, and the inducements are offered to consumers rather than retail dealers, believing them to be better judges of what will suit their taste than the merchant, who often knows nothing about the real quality of the article purchased. This effort to reach them direct should be appreciated and encouraged.

The prizes are bona fide offerings for the best answer to the question, Why is Musselman's Boot Jack the most appropriate name yet adopted for a brand of extra fine plug tobacco? A Royal Worcester Dinner Service of 186 pieces, valued at $175, on exhibition in window of Ovington Brothers, State-st., is offered to the ladies, and for gentlemen a beautiful Marble French Clock and Bronze Statue, valued at $150, on exhibition in show window of Giles Bros.

Answers must be addressed, with a Boot Jack tag inclosed, to W. P. HARRISON, No. 5 Wabash-av. The award will be made Saturday, Sept. 30.

Magnetic (Cork) Insoles.

What They Do!

The Magnetic Insoles contain a series of magnets, scientifically arranged, that form minute batteries, recharging the blood with magnetism and exerting a tranquillizing influence upon the entire system through the CONSEQUENT IMPROVED CIRCULATION.

INSULATE THE FEET from the cold and damp earth, and thus prevent the abstraction of the positive force from the body.

Generate by their MAGNETIC ACTION an agreeable warmth and secure PERFECT CIRCULATION in the feet and lower extremities.

Cure Chilblains and remove all unnatural heat, perspiration, swelling of the feet and ankles.

Prevent, relieve, and in some cases CURE RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, AND KINDRED DISEASES.

In all forms of Chronic and Nervous Disease and Debility are invaluable.

Are a great conservor and direct promoter of the general health, and can be worn at all seasons of the year; being made very thin, take up very little room in the shoe.

One pair of the Magnetic Insoles will demonstrate the truth of these claims. Price $1.00 per pair.

50,000 Men, Women, and Children of the City of Chicago and the West are wearing them.

The Magnetic Insoles will convince the wearer of the power residing in our other MAGNETIC APPLIANCES.

Sent by mail on receipt of price and the size of shoe usually worn, by the MAGNETIC APPLIANCE CO., 218 State-st., Chicago, Ill. Sole manufacturer of the U. S.

Remittances can be made in one-cent postage-stamps or currency sent in letter at our risk.

SEA'S

Mammoth Millinery Department

As so many younger ladies do, and selecting from their beautiful stock of Hats, Bonnets, Flowers, Feathers, Ribbons, &c., &c., &c., just what I need for

HEAD ADORNMENT

I would consider it one of the greatest privileges of my life. Well! well! girls ain't the same now as they were when I was a girl, or they would embrace the opportunity every time they went down-town and go for Sea's Millinery Department.

Cheap! Well, I should say so! Why, I would spend nary a mill for Millinery anywhere else.

Such are the daily expressions of poor old Grandmother Grundy, who is confined to her home with rheumatism, and as old age is honorable a word to the wise is sufficient.

Carry the news to Mary before the leaves begin to fall, and let everyone be merry over our great sales. This will be such a great fall of Millinery that something is liable to go. It is a well-known fact that the backwardness of the season has left manufacturers overstocked with choice Hats and Bonnets.

Your friend SEA, always watching for chances for your benefit, has secured 300 dozen, which will be placed before the public, so that you cannot only get a Hat or Bonnet for almost nothing, but can laugh and grow fat over the absurdity of the price.

The shapes include the following:

Hats.	Bonnets.
ERELYON,	QUEEN,
FASHION,	YOLA,
PIRATE,	BANTA,
ARCHER,	ZINA,
BERLIN,	PRINCESS,
DRESDEN,	PHANTOM,
TYROL,	PAOLINA,
PATIENCE,	GENEVIEVE,
MASCOTTE,	ODETTE,
AESTHETIC,	CAMILLE,
WINDSOR,	WITCH,
ROSALIND,

And a great many others.

Our stock of Flowers, Feathers, Lace Crowns, and Beaded Laces for Bonnets, Ribbons, Bridal Wreaths, &c., &c., will be offered at unprecedented low prices.

Bonnets will be made up and Hats trimmed free of charge, as usual with us only.

FOR GENTLEMEN ONLY!

"RICHMOND STRAIGHT-CUT NO. 1" CIGARETTE.

There are a choice few among the millions of cigarette smokers who can afford the very best of everything, and will have it even at the highest cost. Such smokers use the "Richmond Straight-Cut No. 1" Cigarettes. They cost 20c per package of 20. A little higher, it is true, than other cigarettes, but then you know if you would have the good things of life you must pay for them. They are made of the most delicately flavored and Highest Cost Gold Leaf Virginia Tobacco grown, and are mild, delightful, and absolutely free from drugs and impurities.

The popularity of this brand has induced an unscrupulous imitation of this brand by an article called "Straight Cut," so be sure each package you buy bears our firm name.

FOR THE PEOPLE!

OUR

"LITTLE BEAUTIES,"

Patent PRESSED Cigarettes are something entirely new, and are made of rare old Virginia Tobacco, nicely blended with Turkish. The tobacco being pressed makes them burn slower and smoke cooler than ordinary round ones, as the combustion is perfect. The pressed feature prevents the unraveling of the tobacco in the mouth (which is so objectionable to many smokers), while the shape better fits them to the lips and fingers. The mouth end is saliva-proof (papier amber) and keeps the paper from sticking to the lips. The great popularity of this brand in England has compelled the manufacturers to inaugurate a factory in London, in addition to the immense works at Richmond, to supply the immense demand for them there. After one trial of our "Little Beauties" you will smoke them always. Ask your dealer for them and take no others.

STAR ROUTES.

A VICIOUS ATTACK ON THE PROSECUTION.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 12.—The Sunday Gazette, in an article attacking the prosecution in the pending star-route cases, and more particularly ex-Attorney-General MacVeagh and ex-Postmaster-General James, publishes a letter over the signature of ex-Senator S. W. Dorsey to President Garfield, in which it professes to find the animus of the star-route prosecution. The editor of the Gazette, Richard J. Hinton, was in charge of the compilation of documents for distribution through the Republican National Campaign Committee of 1880 under the supervision of Senator Dorsey. In his article he says he has in his possession a large number of letters from various sources, one of which he selects for publication. Following is the letter:

NO. 241 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK, Feb. 7, 1881.—My Dear General: Col. George Bliss called on me recently and introduced a Mr. Knox, who said he was a classmate of yours at Williams College, and further stated that he was about leaving for Mentor to visit you at your request, to discuss the question of the proper person to place in your Cabinet from New York. It cannot be possible that you would call upon George Bliss, much less upon Knox, to give advice respecting so important a question to you and to the people of this State. Both these gentlemen may be honest, true, and respectable—so far as I know they are; but Bliss and Knox do not represent the people or the leaders of the people of New York any more than I represent the King of Siam. All such advice as this is and if you are occupying your time in listening to men like these I wish to express in the most emphatic way that you and your Administration will prove a lamentable failure. You should take the bit in your teeth and decide for yourself who you want in your Cabinet. What do you want advice of men for, every one of whom has an ax to grind and a scheme to push? If you want advice in New York why don't you send for Conkling or Arthur, the two men who elected you with the aid of Grant? Why don't you consult with somebody who has a status, a name, and a following in New York? Now, I tell you, and I tell you without a grain of selfishness, that you cannot afford to have any friction arise between yourself and Conkling and Gen. Arthur. Whenever you determine to assail these men you drive the last nail in your political coffin. You can't ignore them to make peace with Curtis, Wayne MacVeagh, and others of that class. You can't disband an army to get recruits. We now have a great, well organized, active, and aggressive army. If you want to muster out that army in order to pick up sneaks, bummers, and deserters in the rear, go ahead, and I predict you will land in a surrendered camp. I am tired of this everlasting talk about MacVeagh to go into the Cabinet from Pennsylvania, and James, from New York. Such detestable rot should be smoked out at once, and you ought to do it in some public way, as I have repeatedly urged upon you. There is but one appointment you ought to make from New York, and that is Chief Judge Folger to be Secretary of the Treasury.

YOU DON'T NEED ANY BLISS OR KNOX to ascertain or to prove his character, capacity, and standing in New York. Running for Chief Judge on the same ticket with you, he received more than double the majority you did. Now, take my advice about this, and I ask you to do that because you know I have no earthly interest except to see a successful and honorable Administration, and my advice is this: When you get ready to select a citizen of New York for your Cabinet send for Senator Conkling, Gen. Arthur, Gov. Cornell, J. D. Warren, of Buffalo, ex-Gov. Morgan, Thomas C. Platt, and men of that class, and get their best judgment. Bliss and Knox! What nonsense! I beg you not to permit Knox to run around this State inquiring about men fittest for the Cabinet and pretending to represent you. By acts of this kind you injure yourself and cast unpardonable reflection upon men who can and ought to be the best judges, and who represent the Republicans of this State.

I don't wish to be put in the position of being obliged to lecture the President-elect, and especially in regard to the formation of his Cabinet. You have repeatedly urged me to tell you whenever I should think you were going wrong. I write you when I think you are about to make a mistake, and I have not and shall not mince words in pointing out your errors.

You drop all this stuff about Conkling. He doesn't want to fight you or any one else. He is not prancing around with a chip on his shoulder challenging all mankind to battle. All Conkling wants, and all that Gen. Arthur desires, is a fair show and an honest deal. These two men, with their friends, represent the intelligence, the progressive and aggressive elements of New York Republicanism. They possess that wisdom, force, and courage that people of this country and all countries always admire. You know my interests and purposes are solely to see a successful consummation of our great work. I have presented to you some frozen facts, and I sincerely hope you will give them your candid and careful attention. Your friend, S. W. DORSEY.

To Gen. James A. Garfield.

TO CROSS THE BOUNDARY.

MUTUAL AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND MEXICO REGARDING PURSUIT OF INDIANS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 12.—The following are excerpts from a general order from the headquarters of the army:

By direction of the Secretary of War the following agreement, providing for the reciprocal crossing of the international boundary line by the troops of the United States and the Republic of Mexico in pursuit of hostile Indians, is published for the information and government of all concerned:

ART. 1. It is agreed that the regular Federal troops of the two Republics may reciprocally cross the boundary line of the two countries when they are in close pursuit of a band of savage Indians upon the conditions stated in the following articles:

ART. 2. The reciprocal crossing agreed upon in Art. 1 shall only occur in the unpopulated or desert parts of said boundary line. For the purposes of this agreement the unpopulated or desert parts are defined to be all those points which are at least two leagues distant from any encampment or town of either country.

ART. 5. The pursuing force shall retire to its own territory as soon as it shall have fought the band of which it is in pursuit or have lost its trail. In no case shall the forces of the two countries respectively establish themselves or remain in the foreign territory for any longer time than is necessary to make the pursuit of the band whose trail they follow.

ART. 6. The abuses which may be committed by the forces which cross into the territory of the other nation shall be punished by the Government to which the forces belong, according to the gravity of the offense, and in conformity to its laws, as if the abuses had been committed in its own territory, the said Government being further under obligation to withdraw the guilty parties from the frontier.

ART. 7. In case the offenses which may be committed by the inhabitants of the one country against the foreign forces which may be within its limits, the Government of said country shall only be responsible to the Government of the other for denial of justice in the punishment of the guilty.

ART. 8. This agreement shall remain in force for two years, and may be terminated by either Government upon four months' notice to the other to that effect.

BROWNBACKS.

PREPARING TO PRINT THE NEW NATIONAL-BANK BILLS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 12.—The work of preparation for printing of the new currency "brownbacks" is going on quite satisfactorily at the Bureau of Printing and Engraving. Under the recent act of Congress authorizing National banks to renew their charters, all banks doing so must turn in their old circulation and take out new. This new money is to differ in many respects from the present National-bank notes. The plate from which the face of the note is to be printed has been engraved new, and differs materially from the old. The backs are to be printed in brown instead of green and black, as the old ones. They will be printed, of course, on the fibre paper, which has made counterfeiting of our National currency so difficult, but it is not improbable that there will be difficulty in obtaining the fibre paper fast enough to print it, as called for. There will expire within the next year the charters of probably one-third of the National banks, and they, too, of a class which have a large circulation, the smaller ones of later date having but a small circulating medium. In addition to this demand, there is another in the printing of gold certificates, under this bill, for which there is now so great, indeed, that Secretary Folger, after arriving there the other day and interviewing the bankers and business-men, telegraphed back urging that the printing of these be begun as soon as possible. Then, besides this, and perhaps greater than all, is the demand for this same fibre paper for the new 3 per cent bonds to be issued under the bill in exchange for the old 6 per cents so recently converted into 3½ per cents. All these will make an immense demand for this paper, and as only one mill in the country makes it there may be some delay in obtaining a sufficient quantity to meet the demand. The manufacture of this paper is a profound secret, as carefully kept as the combinations to the great vaults where the Government's millions lie awaiting further River and Harbor bills. As stated above, it is made only at the Dalton mill, which dates back almost to Colonial days. What its combinations are nobody knows except those intimately connected with its manufacture. The secret of the paper-making is jealously guarded, as is also the paper itself. From the moment it is made until it gets into the Treasury vaults it is carefully guarded. It comes here in small iron safes, the sheets carefully counted, and all precautions against its loss being taken both by the Government officials and by the express companies which carry it.

A VIGOROUS DEMAND IN NEW YORK,

CATTLE.

ESTABLISHMENT OF QUARANTINE STATIONS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 12.—Acting Secretary of the Treasury French today addressed a letter to the Collectors at New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Boston, and Portland calling their attention to the act of Congress making provision for the establishment of cattle quarantine stations, and stating that it is the desire of the department to provide proper shelter for imported cattle at those ports as soon as convenient. The Collectors are instructed to consider the best method of doing this, and also where such quarantine stations shall be established. The Treasury Cattle Commission has been authorized to advise with the Collectors upon the subject. Judge French's letter says:

"It has been suggested at some of the ports that transportation companies may be willing to aid in furnishing the accommodations desired, and also that the place selected for a quarantine station should be accessible by water carriage, and such that cattle in quarantine may be isolated from other cattle, and that each importation may also be isolated from other importations."

THE CAMPAIGN.

MR. HUBBELL HARD AT WORK.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 12.—Mr. Hubbell, of the Congressional Campaign Committee, will remain about Washington pretty closely during the canvass which must set in soon, especially in those States where the election takes place in November. The Democrats, if they are making any progress with their Campaign Committee, are doing it in a very quiet way. Nobody seems to know where their headquartes are, if they have any, and the Congressmen who contributed their tariff speeches to the campaign stock of the organization seem to be sending out the speeches at their own expense. So far, the fight for the Congressional election on the Democratic side seems to have been a genuine "still hunt." The Republican headquarters on Thirteenth street are in full operation, actively engaged in pushing the canvass where it has begun, and despite the attacks from all sides is accomplishing something at least. A Virginian, it is said, came here the other day to look for the Democratic headquarters and was unable to find them.

SOUTHERN POLITICS.

SOUTH CAROLINA AND VIRGINIA.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 12.—Representative Manning, of Mississippi, professes great confidence of his ability to defeat Gen. Chalmers for Congress in spite of the departure which Chalmers has taken. While Manning speaks very slightingly of the new movement in his district, it seems to be well understood among his friends that he is considerably disturbed by quite a defection from the regular Democratic ranks to Chalmers' support.

The Readjusters and Republicans of the Richmond, Va., District have made quite a popular nomination in the person of John Ambler Smith. He was elected to the House in the Forty-third Congress as a Republican over the present Democratic nominee. His majority then was a little over 500. The last Readjuster candidate, however, was beaten by the present opponent of Mr. Smith by 2,300 votes, but the Republican candidate did not then command as full support from the Republicans as is now expected for Mr. Smith.

NOTES.

EXPULSION OF ISRAELITES FROM RUSSIA.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 12.—The State Department has received, through the Legation at St. Petersburg, a copy of the circular issued by the Russian Ministry in relation to the expulsion of Israelites, in which local authorities are directed not to expel Israelites established prior to 1880 and residing there in virtue of regular permission, and, on the other hand, directing them to take measures to prevent new authority being given Israelites who have not the right of residence.

Acting-Secretary-of-State Davis has been in communication with Minister Lowell at London in reference to the case of Stephen J. Meany, of New York, who was arrested at Ennis, Ireland, for alleged violation of the Repression act. Secretary Davis yesterday telegraphed Minister Lowell to give the case immediate attention, and to investigate and report to the department. An answer was received from Minister Lowell today stating that the Foreign Office has no official information on the subject, but he understood Meany had been released. Secretary Davis thereupon telegraphed Minister Lowell to get exact information as to whether Meany is free or not.

A SAD PICTURE.

Mrs. Banning, of Cincinnati, the widow of Gen. Banning, who came here to join her sister, Mrs. Donn Piatt, some time ago, is at Narragansett, with Mrs. Piatt, but sadly broken in health. Gen. Banning's sudden death was a very severe blow to her, and she has never recovered from it.

Mr. J. Stanley Brown, the private secretary of President Garfield, has gone West, with the hope of gaining health and strength. Mr. Brown is a very popular young man here, and his illness is regretted by all who know him.

THE WHITE HOUSE.

Cleveland Leader.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 11.—The White House is a good deal of a "Whited Sepulchre" just now, at least so far as life and activity is concerned, most of the clerks there employed having arranged to avail themselves of their leaves while the President is absent. Mr. C. M. Hendley, executive clerk, left for Lake George last night, and Mr. Crook, the disbursing officer, left for Loudon County, Virginia, where he will remain for a couple of weeks. Messrs. Phillips and Pruden, private secretary and assistant private secretary, will remain here in charge of the White House during the absence of the President. The private part of the house will undergo a complete renovation, although there will be little refurnishing. The usual double coat of white paint, elegantly denominated by the citizens the "annual whitewashing," will be applied to the exterior. After repeated efforts on the part of successive Commissioners of Public Buildings, Col. Rockwell succeeded in securing from Congress this year an appropriation for concreting the roads leading through the grounds. These drives are now of gravel, and caused much annoyance last year while the President lay sick by the sounds which they gave out under carriages. In winter they are lakes of mud. They will be concreted this summer. Under the provisions of the executive bill the salaries of J. S. Balway, Walter Duke, Charles Loeffler, the President's doorkeeper, and Alexander Powell, the President's messenger, were raised. All except Powell are old employés at the mansion.

THE GARFIELD RESIDENCE IN WASHINGTON.

Cleveland Leader.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 11.—Judge Lawrence, First Controller of the Treasury, today addressed a letter to Mrs. Garfield, stating that, as Chairman of a committee of the Ohio Republican Association, he had been requested to communicate to her that they had examined the house belonging to her lamented husband in this city, and found that a hall could be made in the upper stories suitable for the purposes of the association, though at considerable expense, and that he was requested to ascertain her wishes as to the purpose to which it should be applied by the purchasers. The letter states that the association would, if they should conclude to purchase, need the aid of outside friends in the city and Ohio, but would be gratified to make the endeavor to raise the necessary amount. It was also suggested in the letter that if Mrs. Garfield desired the property to be persevered in its present condition, as a memorial to her illustrious husband, as Mount Vernon is to the memory of Washington, it would be difficult for the association to take charge of so important a work, which could be more appropriately and effectively carried out by an organization more widely known, and with greater means and influence.

BETWEEN THE DEVIL AND THE DEEP SEA.

Cincinnati Commercial.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Aug. 11.—"We are between the Devil and the deep sea on this woman question," said the head of a department this afternoon. "Last night a lot of angry females denounced everybody in general, and Teller in particular, for not appointing some of them to office, and then turned right around and denounced some other people for appointing women to office for their own bad ulterior purposes.

"Now, this morning a man threatens to break all the mirrors and heads in the room of the Treasury Department Appointment Clerk simply because the Appointment Clerk will not discharge the man's wife. What are we going to do?"

"I give it up. Why did the fellow you speak of want his wife discharged?"

"Because she would not give him the money she made. It seems that though living with another woman ever since he was himself discharged from the Treasury Department he has expected his former wife to provide him with money for his pleasures. She finally refused and he set to work to get her out of the department. So far he has only succeeded in being himself kicked out for the second time. But what troubles me is how we are to please the ladies."

CHAUTAUQUA.

First Annual Commencement of the Literary and Scientific Circles—A Letter from John G. Whittier.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 12.—The attendance today was immense. The feature has been the exercises of the first annual commencement of the Chautauqua literary and scientific circles. The grand procession, composed of several thousand persons, was formed at 10 o'clock at the hotel Athenæum, and, headed by a band, marched to the Hall of Philosophy, where the members of the first graduating class, 803 ladies and gentlemen, were admitted at the Bronze Gate and seated in the hall. Very beautiful and appropriate responsive services, conducted by Dr. Vincent, were read at various stages of the proceedings. Dr. Vincent presented the class a magnificent silk banner bearing a painting of the hall and appropriate mottoes, the gift of Miss Jennie Miller, of Akron, O. At 11 o'clock the procession reformed and marched to the great amphitheatre, where, after an introductory responsive service, an eloquent oration was delivered by Bishop Henry W. Warren, D. D., of Atlanta. This afternoon Dr. Vail presented the circle a silk American flag which had gone twice over Europe and Asia and once through America. Addresses were made by Dr. L. H. Bugbee, President of Allegheny College, John B. Gough, and others. Dr. Vincent read the following letter from the poet John Greenleaf Whittier:

DANVERS, Mass.—To J. H. Vincent, D. D.—DEAR FRIEND: I have been watching the progress of the Chautauqua literary and scientific circle inaugurated by thyself, and take some blame to myself for not sooner expressing my satisfaction as regards its object and its work thus far. I wish it abundant success, and that its circles, like those from the agitated centre of a lake, may widen out until an entire country shall feel their beneficent influences. I am, very truly, thy friend, JOHN G. WHITTIER.

Dr. Vincent, after an able address, gave diplomas to over 800 graduates, and it is thought 600 more will be issued by the 1st of October—possibly 1,200 more.

FAIR TRAMPS.

Arrival at Hendersonville, N. C., of the Six Young Ladies Who Are Making a Tour Through North Carolina on Foot—Lots of Fun and Sore Feet.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C., Aug. 12.—The half-dozen fair tramps whose advent in this State was noticed in these dispatches a short time ago have arrived in this place. They are all in excellent condition except one, Miss Lillie Madoc, the youngest of the party. She is suffering from blistered feet and a slight illness. The gentle pedestriennes have walked about 214 miles since they started, but sixteen days ago. They have made excellent time, and are greatly pleased with what they have seen along the route. Three of the girls are amateur sketchers, and another has some talent for painting. The Captain of the party says they are fully repaid for the privations they have suffered by the grand scenery they have witnessed in their travels. Besides during the sunburning and sore feet, they have had a splendid time. During the sixteen nights they have been out they have camped out with no roof overhead but that offered by Nature for five nights. Two of these were in the forests of Surry County. While resting in their hammocks in that dreary and lonely section one night they were disturbed by some animal. A council of war was speedily summoned, and the discovery made that the intruder was only a young bruin that had wandered off from his parental care. The girls say they have met with the utmost kindness from the North Carolina people wherever they stopped. No one has molested or interfered with them in any way. All of the gentle tramps are dressed in the most sensible and comfortable style. As soon as Miss Madoc's feet are well, which will be in a day or so, the party will resume their journey. They are making for the Bald Mountains, but if the scenery in other sections offer greater inducements they may change their program accordingly.

A LIQUOR CASE.

The Citizens' League of Aurora Waterlooed After a Six Days' Trial.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

AURORA, Ill., Aug. 12.—For over a week the city has been in high turmoil over the trial of a liquor case between the Citizens' League and Jack Short. Never before has such excitement been manifested in the trial of any case before a Justice in the history of the city. The office of the Justice furnished but paltry accommodations to the masses in waiting, and when Justice Powell withdrew to the court-house the hall was packed and continued so during the entire week. On the Sunday previous announcements were given in the various churches and a major part of the audience in court was ladies. Hitherto the league had been victorious in every conflict or dictated terms without a trial; but in this instance it was generally known an obstinate struggle would ensue. Short was arraigned under the State law for selling liquor on Sunday. The evidence of the prosecution was denied in toto by the defense, and the determination for the jury was to be made solely upon the relative credibility of the witnesses. The instance for complaint seemed unwisely chosen, and several of the witnesses for the prosecution lent an unhealthful and unsavory influence. In truth, this case was to be in a sense a key to two others; one now pending in the United States Court in Chicago, and another in the Ottawa court. In these three cases Wiley and Wisner, league detectives, are important witnesses. This case being the first of the three, a great effort was made to impeach their veracity and shadow their characters. For this purpose a large number of witnesses were brought from Earleville and Ottawa, both to derogate and sustain their reputation. After a long, exciting, and stubborn trial, the cause was give to the jury last night, and, after three hours, they returned a verdict of acquittal.

THE STEERAGE BILL.

A Grand Banquet at Milwaukee in Honor of Congressmen Deuster and Guenther for Their Success in Behalf of Desirable Legislation.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 12.—The German Association of Milwaukee tonight welcomed home Congressmen Duester and Guenther, of this State, the welcome taking the form of a grand banquet at the Exposition Building in recognition of the successful efforts of the gentlemen named towards securing the passage of the "Steerage bill" through Congress. The immense hall was brilliantly lighted by electricity and decorated with an immense number of American and German flags. At the head of the hall was stationed Bach's band. Dr. George Koepper, editor of the Germania and President of the Association, presided. The speeches were entirely in German. Col. Henry Baetz, Secretary of the State Board of Immigration, responded to the sentiment, "The United States." Ex-Senator F. W. Cotzhausen responded to "Our Guests." Messrs. Deuster and Guenther were received with immense enthusiasm, and made eloquent speeches of thanks for the honor paid them. Responses were made to other toasts by Gen. F. C. Winkler, Hermann Raster, editor of the Chicago Staats-Zeitung, and many others of distinction. Letters and telegrams of regret at inability to be present were read from Carl Schurz, ex-Gov. Salomon, of Wisconsin, now in Germany, Secretary-of-State Timme, of this State, and others. The immense gathering was made up of men of all shades of political opinion. Mr. Deuster is a Democrat and Mr. Guenther is a Republican.

MISCEGENATION IN MICHIGAN.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 12.—A trial of considerable interest has just been concluded in the Criminal Court of this city of a colored man and a white woman, who have been married for some time and lived together as man and wife. Both are entirely respectable and worthy people. They were complained of under the statute for lewd, lascivious cohabitation. An old State law makes all marriages between white and colored people unlawful. Under the charge of the court the jury convicted. The case will probably be taken to the Supreme Court. The case affects probably a hundred married couples in this city, and perhaps more.

WHEAT DEAL SETTLED.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 12.—The June wheat deal has been settled at the price fixed by the Board of Directors of the Exchange a day or two ago—$1.18¼ and 5 per cent.

PARDONED.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 12.—A special from Jefferson City says Gov. Crittenden has pardoned William H. Heath, who was sentenced about three years ago to ten years in the penitentiary for the embezzlement of some $40,000 of public money while he was City Auditor of St. Louis and custodian of the school funds of St. Louis. He was immediately released from prison and will return to his family here tonight. The petition for his pardon was signed by many of the most prominent and influential citizens of St. Louis and the State.

CASUALTIES.

An Overdose of Chloroform.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

ELKHART, Ind., Aug. 12.—Charles Paine, a draughtsman at the Lake Shore shops here, was found dead in bed this morning. An empty bottle of chloroform beside him showed the cause. It is supposed to have been an accidental overdose, as no reason can be attributed for suicide, and he was accustomed to use it for pain. He was a nephew of ex-Superintendent Paine, of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway.

Explosion of the Boilers of the Joliet Water-Works.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

JOLIET, Aug. 12.—The boilers of the Starr Water-Works Company exploded this afternoon, destroying the boiler-house. No one was hurt. Receiver Page is in charge. An effort will be made to sell the remainder of the plant for what it will bring. A meeting of citizens will be held to decide on a course of action for the best interests of the people.

Burned to Death by the Explosion of Kerosene.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., Aug. 12.—A ladle of melted solder exploded and ignited a can of kerosene, which exploded and burned Mrs. Lautsch so she will die. Maria Smith, 7 years old, was burned to death by the explosion of a can of kerosene which she was using to kindle a fire.

A Man's Head Blown Off at a Shooting-Match.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 12.—Today while Robert Parker and Hiram Neiswinter were engaged in shooting a pigeon-match, one of the birds flew towards Parker, when Neiswinter fired and killed Parker, tearing the top of his head off and scattering the brains in all directions.

YELLOW-FEVER.

A Reassuring Message from Brownsville, Tex., Not Borne Out by the Facts.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 12.—Surgeon-General Hamilton, of the Marine Hospital Service, today received a telegram from Acting-Collector Goodrich, dated Brownsville, as follows:

The first case of yellow-fever occurred in Matamoras a month ago, introduced through Bagdad, Mexico, by railroad tramps from Tampico. Average daily deaths in Matamoras, the past ten days, ten. The disease appeared in Brownsville two weeks ago. Total number of deaths, ten or twelve. Several distinct types of fever prevail in both cities at present. No new developments today. Total number of all classes of fever cases in Brownsville, sixty-two. The disease is in statu quo.

BROWNSVILLE, Aug. 12.—Twenty-one Mexicans and four Americans have new cases of yellow-fever; one death. It is the opinion of physicians that the fever is materially exhausting. There were eight deaths and several new cases in Matamoras.

Quarantine Stations Will Be Immediately Established in Mississippi.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 12.—The State Board of Health will establish immediately a quarantine station at Osyka, on the New Orleans & Chicago Railroad; at Fort Adams, on the Mississippi River; and at a point in Hancock County, on the Mobile & New Orleans Railroad. A certificate of the Board of Health will be required from all persons traveling.

CRIMINAL NEWS.

A Mechanic at Decatur, Ill., Murderously Assailed by a Drunken Farmer—The Daily Collection of Breaches of the Law.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

DECATUR, Ill., Aug. 12.—Thomas McCabe, a machinist, with a wife and eleven children, is at the point of death, the result of a murderous assault upon him this evening by Hay Sharon, a farmer, while drunk. The two men quarreled, and McCabe was cut in the abdomen several times and stabbed in the back repeatedly. Sharon was promptly arrested and is now in jail.

PROVIDENCE, Aug. 12.—Stephen R. Rathburn, formerly a clerk in the office of the Geneva Woolen Mills, and who was discharged on suspicion of stealing, appeared at the office this morning disguised and applied for work. While the clerk was absent he made his way into the rear office, where there were $5,000 ready to pay the help, and attempted to run away. A milkman tried to stop him, but he drew a revolver. Rathburn was finally caught by the Secretary and Treasurer of the mill after firing two shots at him.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 12.—John Metzger, a molder, was murdered late tonight by his stepson, Charles Wagner, aged 17, during a family quarrel which originated between the parents, by taking his mother's part. The mother was very drunk, and all were intoxicated. The boy killed his father instantly by a stab in the heart with a knife.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 12.—John Green, the leader for six years past of a gang of horse-thieves through Texas, was decoyed and captured last night at McKinney.

DIABOLICAL.

An Attempt to Wreck a Train on the Northwestern Road Near Milwaukee—A Scoundrel Caught While Placing Rails on the Track.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 12.—As the 6 o'clock train on the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad coming north crossed the boundary line between Racine and Milwaukee Counties the engineer discovered a pile of ties on the track just ahead of the engine. The train was stopped so quickly that no accident occurred. The ties were removed and the train proceeded. On arrival here the police authorities were notified of the affair. A number of officers immediately started for the spot, where they found a man piling rails upon the track. He ran for the woods, but the officers gave chase and overtook him. He was brought to this city and locked up in the Central Police Station. He gives his name as William Johnson and his occupation as a teamster, but refused to give any reason for his conduct.

AN ECCENTRIC SPINSTER.

She Loaded a Shotgun with Powder and Pebbles and Attempted to Kill a Couple of Neighbors.

CANTON, O., Aug. 12.—An eccentric and probably demented spinster of 40, named Minnie Krueger, has complained recently that boys fire guns at night near her house, disturbing her sleep; but this story proves to have been an invention to divert suspicion from her own strange and murderous freaks. Last night Gottlieb Summers and wife were awakened by a loud report and the crashing of glass in their bedroom window. Investigating, they found that Miss Krueger had deliberately gone to their house with a shotgun heavily charged with powder and pebbles, and fired through the window at them. Her aim was high, and the pebbles lodged in the wall above the bed. Miss Krueger was arrested today and committed for trial. No reason for her singular action is known.

CANADIAN NEWS.

Montreal Trying to Suppress the Smoke Nuisance.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

MONTREAL, Aug. 12.—Suits are being pressed here in the Superior Court against owners of factories to suppress what is designated the smoke-nuisance. The city by law requires all manufactories to consume their own smoke. The injury to the health of the citizens and the disfigurment of buildings by the dense volumes of black smoke emitted from the chimneys are the cause of great discontent.

Knights of Labor.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

TORONTO, Aug. 12.—A prominent local unionist has been in the United States arranging for establishing branches of the order of Knights of Labor in Canada. The recent strikes here have had considerable bearing upon this step.

Princess Louise's Favorit Evening Promenade.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

QUEBEC, Aug. 12.—The Princess Louise appears to have chosen the River St. Charles, which falls into the St. Lawrence here, as her favorit evening promenade. In a splendid canoe which she obtained from the maritime provinces she ascends and descends it almost daily with members of her suite.

A KENTUCKY VENDETTA.

CATLETTSBURG, Ky., Aug. 12.—On election-day in Pike County a bloody affray occurred between the McCoy and Hatfield families, in which one of the Hatfields was shot and cut so that he died. His friends banded together, caught three of the McCoys, tied them to trees and shot them dead. More bloodshed is expected, as the families are numerous and vindictive.

THE SITUATION AT TAYLORVILLE.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 12.—A dispatch from Taylorville, Ill., says that the town is greatly excited over the events of last night, but a reaction in public sentiment is fast taking place and much regret is expressed at the lawless proceedings of the mob in their efforts to lynch Montgomery, Pettis, and Clementi. The opinion that these men are not guilty is fast gaining ground, and the disposition is now pretty general that whether they are or not they are entitled to a fair trial, and this in all likelihood will be accorded them.

FIRE RECORD.

Two Business Blocks and Several Dwellings in a Suburb of Quebec Destroyed—Loss $80,000.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

QUEBEC, Aug. 12.—A fire this morning at St. Sauvenur, a suburb of this city, destroyed two business blocks and a number of dwellings. It was thought for a time that a great disaster could not be averted, owing to a scarcity of water, but the flames were finally arrested. Most of the buildings were of wood, and the flames for a time spread in the most alarming manner, and there was a perfect panic among the poor people, who fled for their lives, leaving their household goods and clothing. Thieves in the mean time, profiting by their misfortunes, made off with everything they could lay their hands on. So far as ascertained the losses and insurances are as follows: Piamondon's block, occupied by him as a dry-goods store and residence, loss, with stock, $8,000; partially insured. J. M. Pelletier, occupied by N. Q. Ruel, painter, Dorval, artist, and Parent, architect; loss, $6,000, besides effects of tenants. Mr. Gaynor's buildings and stock of furniture; loss, $9,000; insured in the Sovereign and Scottish Commercial for $5,000. Mr. Lecierc's property, occupied by him as a boot and shoe store; loss, $6,000; insured for $4,500 in the Royal and $1,200 in the Queen. The adjoining block was owned by Pierre Giroux, joiner, and occupied by Mr. Nolet, notary, and Moses Castonguay & Baillancourt, booksellers. McHugh, a laborer, small wooden house, loss $600. Blouin, butcher, loss $1,000, and Dion, self-raising flour and grocery, from $3,500 to $5,000. In endeavoring to save the effects of the last named two men were badly injured. Mr. Gaudias Fucher had to jump from a window and was picked up unconscious. He received the last rites of the church, but regained consciousness and may recover. Arthur Dion, son of the proprietor, was also severely burned on the neck and back. A man named Beland is reported slightly burned. Total loss probably $80,000.

Chicago Blazes.

The alarm from Box No. 324 at 3:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon was caused by sparks from a chimney setting fire to shingles on the roof of No. 173 West Seventeenth street, a dwelling occupied by John Enright. There was no damage.

The still alarm to Engine Company No. 1 and Insurance Patrol No. 1 at 5 o'clock last evening was caused by a small fire in the Steuben County Wine Company's building at No. 170 East Madison street. The fire was caused by a defective flue. No damage.

OBITUARY.

Abraham Hirsch.

Mr. Abraham Hirsch, a prominent commission merchant and member of the Board of Trade, died yesterday morning at Irving Park. Mr. Hirsch was born in Germany in 1838, and came to this country when a child. His family settled in New Orleans, where he engaged in business and remained until about three years ago. Mr. Hirsch has been an invalid for a considerable time, and his death, though deplored, was not unexpected. He leaves a wife and three children. The Board of Trade yesterday adopted the following resolutions in regard to his death:

WHEREAS, We have learned with deep regret of the decease of our fellow-member, Abraham Hirsch; and,

WHEREAS, We desire to express our sense of deep affliction at his loss; therefore,

Resolved, That in his life as a merchant, and in his standing as a member of society, we recognize the characteristics of the true merchant and the true gentleman, and that we hereby extend to the afflicted family our heartfelt sympathies, commending them to the care of Him who cares for the widow and the fatherless.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of this association, and a copy of them transmitted to the bereaved family.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 12.—The death of Abraham Hirsch in Chicago this morning has caused much regret in the commercial circles of this city, where he was highly esteemed. He was born in Bavaria, and came to this country with his father when a child. He commenced business before the War in Bayou Sara, in this State, and at its close came to New Orleans and entered the crockery business. In 1867 the firm of Schwabacher & Hirsch was formed for the Western produce trade. After establishing a large field for his business in the South, he conceived the idea of establishing a house in Chicago in conjunction with the New Orleans establishment. He accordingly went to Chicago in 1879 and carried out his plan, remaining in that city until his death. He was 43 years age. His remains will be brought to this city for burial.

Handen Stevenson, a Kentuckian, at Cincinnati, O.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 12.—Mr. Handen Stevenson, a farmer of Concordia, Ky., 74 years old, died at the Cincinnati hospital today under the surgical operation of removing the lower jaw to remove a cancer of many years' standing. Dr. Walker was the operating surgeon. The body was taken home this evening.

SUICIDAL.

A Jew Driven to Self-Destruction by Eight Years' Sickness.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 12.—The mystery attending the death of a stranger at a small hotel on the South Side last night was explained by a note found on his person today. The note stated that the man was a Jew named C. Webber, a native of Germany, who had no relatives in this country, and, having been sick eight years, had become tired of life and taken poison. Enough arsenic was found on his person to kill a dozen men.

A Retired Congregationalist Minister.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 12.—The Rev. Joseph Bartlett, a retired Congregationalist minister, of Gorham, committed suicide by drowning in the Little River, while temporarily insane. He was a brother of Samuel T. Bartlett, President of Dartmouth College.

MEXICO'S TRADE.

St. Louis Proposes to Make a Break for It by Establishing a Mexican Commercial Exchange.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 12.—The project of establishing a Mexican Commercial Exchange in this city is revived, with a good prospect of its being carried out. John F. Cahill, Mexican Consul in St. Louis, who is the originator of the scheme, laid the matter before the Board of Directors of the Merchants' Exchange this afternoon, and the board adopted a resolution indorsing the project, not only as one of interest to merchants and manufacturers of St. Louis, but of the entire Mississippi Valley, and worthy of general support. The purpose is to furnish a commercial medium between the United States and Mexico, and afford quick and prompt means for the transaction of business between the two countries through a well-devised exposition of the leading products and manufactures of each, which shall be open to inspection at all times.

RIDDLED WITH BULLETS.

The Campbell Boys, Noted Desperadoes of Kentucky, Killed by a Mob.

PADUCAH, Ky., Aug. 12.—Intelligence is just received that a mob attacked the Campbell boys, the desperadoes, in a house in Caldwell County. The Campbells killed one of the mob. The house was then fired, and as the Campbells were driven out they were riddled with bullets.

THE GALLOWS.

Elijah Franklin, a Consumptive, Executed at Silver City, N. M.

SILVER CITY, N. M., Aug. 12.—Elijah Franklin was hanged here yesterday for the murder of Deputy-Sheriff Johnson. Strong efforts were made to obtain a respit, as Franklin was dying of consumption, but the Governor declined to interfere.

A PRIZE-FIGHT BROKEN UP.

BROCKTON, Mass., Aug. 12.—A prize-fight was fought this afternoon between Michael Rudden and John Donnelly. The mill occurred in a vacant lot near Salisbury River. After pounding each other for an hour the contest, in which Donnelly was badly bruised, was brought to a sudden close by the appearance of police. The bruisers leaped into the stream, but were after a long struggle captured by the officers.

SICK UNTO DEATH.

DANVILLE, Ky., Aug. 12.—The venerable Dr. R. W. Landis, the well-known author, divine, and theological professor, is seriously ill at his residence in this place, and his death may occur at any time.

EGYPT.

A DIPLOMATIC SUCCESS FOR ENGLAND.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The New York Tribune received the following special cable on Egyptian affairs tonight:

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The Foreign Office claims a diplomatic success over the Russo-Italian scheme for international protection of the Suez Canal. The reservations as to force majeure, and the plan ceasing with the present crisis, make the scheme no more than this: Foreign vessels may assist the British in maintaining the passage, but nothing prevents the canal from being the base of military operations.

The text of the Turkish proclamation against Arabi Pasha is deemed satisfactory, if published before the arrival of Ottoman troops.

The Anglo-Turkish convention is so stringent that it may be haggled over until England has done her work.

ENGLAND DOES NOT DEMAND THE COMMAND, but insists that Ottoman troops shall not be moved without the previous assent of Sir Garnet Wolseley. Turkey will perhaps overcome the difficulty by putting the Ottoman troops under the command of the Khedive.

Mr. Gladstone's two speeches this week on Egypt greatly reassured the Radicals, who feared that England was plunging into a policy of aggression. His declarations are interpreted as meaning that England, acting with clean hands and pure purposes, will not depart from the status quo except to provide for the protection of Egyptian improvements of administration and government, with European assent.

JENNINGS' VIEW OF THE SITUATION.

Special Cable.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Jennings' special says: Whatever differences of opinion may be entertained about the justice and wisdom of the British Government's policy in Egypt, it is admitted on all hands that its preparations for doing any fighting which it may be called upon to do, by land or sea, are most complete and effective. It is not too much to say that everybody, friend or foe, at home or abroad, has been taken by surprise by the energy which the Gladstone Administration has displayed in this matter. Indeed, had there been the least reason to anticipate this some months ago, there would, in all human probability, have been no Egyptian crisis. Mr. Gladstone seems fully resolved to prove to all Europe that it will not do to jump to the conclusion that England will not fight because the Liberals are in power. He is certainly not taking any half measures, but, as I have already said in these dispatchss he might do, is "DOING THE BUSINESS ONCE FOR ALL. I am informed on very good authority that fully 40,000 men are now either in Egypt or on their way—a far more complete and efficient force than was dispatched to the Crimea or than Wellington commanded at Waterloo. The "peace party" evidently mean to show that when they do go to war they mean it.

It is reported, and the rumor is entirely credible, that Mr. Gladstone interested himself in selecting some of the corps dispatched to the East, and it was owing to his advice that the Horse and Foot Guards were sent to Egypt. He perhaps wishes to show those massive warriors that their presence in London is not so indispensable as they have fondly fancied.

For the first time within my recollection of London, the sentinels posted before the royal palaces and the public offices are not in red coats, the Sixtieth Rifles having been chosen to mount guard. Many people take the riflemen for volunteers, the uniforms being practically the same. All the guards are now away on service, either in Ireland or Egypt. The Government and its supporters are now very sanguine that there will be no prolonged war, and

THE DIFFICULTY ON THE NILE will be over in a few weeks. Turkey has given in, and Bismarck seems to be determined that on this occasion the "Eastern question" shall be minimized. It is, however, feared by the radical element that the real trouble will begin after Arabi Bey has been suppressed. A large section of the party demands the exercise of a permanent control in Egypt, while others contend that such an intervention is contrary to all true principles of Radicalism. Many influential Liberals anticipate grave dissensions on this point.

Mr. Gladstone is at present believed to be in favor of doing the work of pacification, and then giving the other Powers an equal share in the benefits; but many of his followers, even of the Radicals, will demand both present compensation and guarantees for the hereafter.

It is only fair to state that meanwhile all the military critics on the continent, who usually name England's army and military system but to blame them, express their SURPRISE AND ADMIRATION at the ease and rapidity with which she has placed a large army in the field, at the same time leaving strong defenses at home. It is decidedly a feather in the cap of Mr. Childers, whose system of army reform, much ridiculed by the general public, and treated with unconcealed prejudice by the mass of "old-school" military men, has proved a success, though subjected to a severe test before it had been fairly carried out.

THE SITUATION AT ALEXANDRIA.

Special Cable.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 12.—The Herald's special says: The Scots Guards landed and paraded through the city this afternoon.

Less frequent and promiscuous outpost firing is shown by Arabi's troops. Today I managed to approach within less than 400 yards of his cavalry videts, who merely covered me with their carbines without firing, as they have hitherto done at 800, even 1,000, yards. My object was accomplished—namely: to pick up a load of Remington cartridges dropped by the Arabs during the night attacks. As I suspected, these cartridges bore marks of being made at the Tourah factory, near Cairo, and the discovery was important as proving that the Tourah works are in operation, which are capable of turning out

SIXTY THOUSAND CARTRIDGES DAILY. There is an active movement of trains in the rear of Arabi's outposts. Gen. Alison's last reconnaissance had the intended effect of making Arabi mass his troops within striking distance of Ramleh. It is incomprehensible why the English have yet no balloons for reconnaissance work. Ramadan, the religious fast, in which there is no eating, drinking, or smoking from sunrise to sunset, ends on Tuesday, when Arabi is expected to show more activity, for, although there is dispensation from fasting in time of war, yet Arabi tried in vain to prevent his men from fasting, even by threats of shooting.

Judge Farman is designated as the temporary President of the Court of Appeals and Tribunal.

FIRM WORDS.

To the Western Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The Times, in a leading article, says: "When the army of Arabi Pasha has been dispersed, and its leaders brought to account for their misdeeds, we shall have to make sure that the difficulty will not recur in a new form. Egypt will be in our hands. It will not be open to us to retire from that country and leave events to take their own course. This is the resolve of England, and when it becomes necessary to seek the sanction of other Powers for this result the concert of Europe will be invoked in a sense very different from that with which we have lately been familiar."

SPECIAL COMMISSIONERS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 12.—The Turkish delegates to the conference have informed Lord Dufferin that no troops will be landed in Egypt until the arrival of Turkish Special Commissioners.

What Dufferin insists upon in order to secure harmony in action is, that no movement of Turkish troops, when they are in Egypt, shall take place without the preliminary consent of Gen. Wolseley.

The Ambassadors, upon the initiative of France, made urgent representations to the Porte in regard to agitation against the Christians in Syria and other parts of the Turkish Empire.

France has now accepted, under certain reservations, the proposal for collective protection of the Suez Canal.

THE SULTAN has directed that an addition to the proclamation be made declaring Arabi Pasha a rebel unless he shall submit on the ground that, in resisting, Arabi acts contrary to the precepts of the Koran. Importance is attached to this express mention of the Koran against Arabi.

The Ministers sat throughout the night discussing the terms of the proclamation against Arabi Pasha. Dufferin telegraphed to London the Porte's modifications of the military convention, and Granville sent a reply accepting them.

Dervisch Pasha is the Turkish member of the future International Commission to consider measures for the protection of the Suez Canal, which commission will perform functions similar to those of the Danubian Commission.

NEWS FROM THE SEAT OF WAR.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 12.—The Cold Stream Guards and Grenadier Guards have arrived here.

The British Government has purchased a large hotel and mercantile premises at Port Said for use as a hospital.

The Scots Guards and the Grenadier Guards landed today (Saturday) and marched to Ramleh. Thousands of Arabs collected along the line of march and were much impressed by the appearance of the troops. Europeans regret their having to meet such an unworthy foe, as it is believed many must fall victims to the rifles of Arabi Pasha's troops, who are now intrenched in such a strong position.

CALM AND RELIANT.

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—The Granzboten, an officially-inspired organ, says: "Germany cannot risk the loss of the good will of the other Powers by paralyzing or contracting their policy unless she is absolutely forced to do so. She has neither wish nor right to play the part of a European censor. She will neither give a mandate to England to act on the Nile, nor will she hinder her from doing what she may think necessary for British interests. The interests of Germany have not been menaced. If they are menaced hereafter she will have plenty of time to take her resolution. Her only aim is European peace, which will be maintained."

MALTA, Aug. 12.—Gen. Sir Garnet Wolseley arrived here en route to Alexandria. He is quite well.

MADRID, Aug. 12.—The Spanish corvet Tornado, which arrived at Alexandria yesterday, will go to Port Said, replacing the frigate Carmen. Subsequently the Tornado and Consuelo will proceed to Ismailia to protect Spanish merchant vessels traversing the Suez Canal.

GREAT BRITAIN.

THE ARREARS-OF-RENT BILL.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The New York Tribune received the following cable dispatch tonight:

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The action of the House of Lords has been the chief item of interest this week. The House of Commons made important concessions to the second of the Peer amendments making a tenant right an asset for rent under limitations, but refused by an enormous majority to yield on the first amendment, requiring the tenant to obtain the landlord's assent before applying for the benefits of the arrears bill. So recently as Monday the Marquis of Salisbury declared that dissolution would be necessary for the indorsement of such an outrageous bill; but at a private consultation of the Peers after the decision of the House of Commons, five-sixths of them declined to follow him in creating a crisis. He had nailed his colors too tightly to the mast, and his followers proved refractory. When the House of Lords considered the Commons' amendments, the Marquis of Salisbury declared he would have thrown out the bill if he could. In HIS BITTER DISCOMFITURE he aubsed the measure in terms showing his shortcomings as a leader. Unlike Lord Beaconsfield, he has neither patience, steadfastness, nor the spirit of concession.

At the private meeting the revolt was led by the Duke of Richmond, who openly warned his colleagues of the dangers of the proposed course. Lord Salisbury's lack of self-control and obstinacy are jeopardizing his leadership at the moment when his great rival's foreign policy strengthens the Liberal party. There are rumors of the Tories rallying around the Duke of Richmond and Sir Stafford Northcote, Lord Salisbury sulking and refraining from attendance upon Parliament.

The Government are blamed for underrating the Irish police grievances. By neglecting to distribute the special grant an opportunity was given for an agitation largely fictitious, according to the formula long recognized in Ireland, "Ask and it shall be given." All accounts agree that the state of Ireland is greatly improved under Earl Spencer and Mr. Trevelyan.

THE ARREST OF HENRY GEORGE is sharply commented on in the press, and has given great annoyance to the Government. His so-called association with suspects arises from visiting a shop to purchase a shirt-button. A copy of his well-known pamphlet was deemed a piece de conviction.

Cetewayo's illness, which is rather serious, is attributed to a sudden fall in the temperature. Though he eats three pounds of beef daily, yet he cannot stand cold. His presence in London has given a great impetus to the demand for his restoration. Florence makes an hysterical appeal to Mr. Gladstone. Public feeling favors his restoration under two or more residents, the only serious objection coming from Dunn and two other chiefs.

The news from the Transvaal shows the convention to be an utter failure.

It is expected that the Queen will open the new law courts in November. This enormous pile shows to greater advantage with the removal of the scaffolding.

When the young Princes crossed the line in the Bacchante they were subjected to the usual horse-play, one of the sea gods bunging their eyes with soap-suds. This incident has led some of our serious papers to demand the abolition of the silly custom in the navy.

THE CHANNEL TUNNEL.

It has been discovered that Sir Edward Watkin, one of the promoters of the Channel tunnel, has driven the heading seventy yards seaward in spite of the order of the Court of Chancery. The Board of Trade will take legal proceedings against Sir Edward to insure obedience to the court.

The St. James Gazette, in a disparaging article on foreign correspondents, alludes to the fewness of good correspondents, and states that American journalists are frequently heated partisans, or write for the Irish vote. Private American opinion on Ireland is always contrary to the American press. An intelligent, impartial survey of England from an American pen is most useful to English politicians.

A large meeting of oarsmen yesterday protested against the present system defining amateur oarsmen. It was maintained that the Hillsdale crew fulfilled every requisit laid down by the Henley committee.

Though the sending of conscience-money to the Chancellor of the Exchequer may not always be due to the highest honor, it is creditable to the moral sense of the community that £500 of this voluntary tax paid last year was made up mostly of small sums.

There has been a great rush of aristocratic sportsmen to the Scotch moors for the glorious 12th. The grouse are reported to be healthy and numerous.

THE ARREST OF HENRY GEORGE.

Special Cable.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Jennings' special says: The arrest of Henry George causes but little remark here. I have reason to believe that the arrest was not part of any settled plan to interfere with the dispatch of news from Ireland to your side of the Atlantic, but arose chiefly from the fact that the authorities had received repeated warnings concerning his errand. Some of these may have been—and probably were—sent by his enemies; but, at any rate, the local authorities were informed that he was engaged in an enterprise which would lead to a disturbance of the peace. Under the new Coercion bill any American or any citizen of any foreign State may be arrested on mere suspicion, and the local authorities are not perhaps so greatly to blame if they carry out the provisions of the act. Mr. George's arrest was evidently a blunder, and it is most unlikely that American citizens will be subjected to special inconvenience. If the British Government is applied to for explanation, it will probably point to the terms of the Coercion act.

LORD SALISBURY.

I am in a position to say that the rumors of the Marquis of Salisbury's intention to resign the leadership of the Conservative party are altogether without foundation. His party really wanted him to oppose the Arrears-of-Rent bill, and then, when the pinch came and the Radical lion began to roar, they turned tail ignominously and ran. Lord Salisbury has been bitterly attacked by the press, but, after all, he has not been treated worse in this respect than Lord Beaconsfield was a dozen times during his lifetime. It is only since "Dizzy's" death that the Liberals have found out how wise a statesman he was.

The Daily Telegraph is still under a cloud owing to its publication, last week, of its egregiously false story about a display of rank cowardice by a company of the Sixtieth Rifles. The offending correspondent, Mr. Gay, who has represented the Telegraph for some years in Canada and the United States, and went to the East for that journal during the last war, was instantly recalled, and is of course professionally ruined. Nevertheless, the Telegraph has suffered severely in public estimation, while the feeling against it in army circles is very bitter.

GAY'S PLACE IN EGYPT has been taken by the Hon. Lewis Wingfield, a rather successful novelist and unsuccessful dramatist, who visited you in September last. He is a brother of Lord Powerscourt. The most successful correspondent thus far, by all odds, is Mr. J. A. Cameron, of the Standard, which paper be represented in the Afghanistan and Boer wars. The Standard is beating all the other London journals in the fullness, promptness, and accuracy of its news from Egypt.

Dr. W. H. Russell, the veteran king of war correspondents, has gone out to Egypt, but not as the correspondent of the Telegraph. He makes the trip on his own account to see what is going on, being a firm enemy of "the Anglo-French clique" who want to run Egypt and rob it. He will probably push on to Mosul, where his son is living as the English Consul.

Mr. Michael Davitt is, I hear, about to settle in Dublin with his sister.

Mr. Parnell goes to Cork next month to deliver an address, which, I am given to understand, will be worth reading.

The Irish organizers and organizations here look upon the action of the Land-Leaguers in Philadelphia in sending money to Arabi Bey as ridiculous in the extreme, and say that Ireland has infinitly more need of help than Arabi.

LORD SALISBURY'S SURRENDER.

Special Cable.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The Herald's special says: With the passage of the Arrears bill the session of Parliament practically closes, its remaining business being merely formal. Unless some disaster or foreign complication arises out of the Egyptian campaign the members will be allowed to enjoy a holiday until the end of October. The assent of the Lords to the amended bill as returned to them from the Commons was a formal termination of the political crisis and contest between the two Houses. It was marked by a remarkable party incident—namely: the surrender of Lord Salisbury, the Conservative leader, to the will of his followers in the House of Lords, who declined to defy the Liberal majority in the Commons on the question of the compulsory composition of arrears of rent. Lord Salisbury's speech in the Lords caused great consternation in the ranks of his party. Having denounced the bill as an act of simple robbery, and most pernicious, he proceeded to state that he had conferred with the Lords who formed the majority of the House when his amendment was carried, and that by an overwhelming majority they decided that

IT WAS INEXPEDIENT that the Arrears bill should be thrown out. "I do not share that opinion," declared Lord Salisbury, "and, if I had had the power, I would have thrown it out. I find myself, however, in a small minority. Therefore I shall not divide the House." Amid cheers and ironical laughter the bill as returned to the Commons was agreed to, and a matter which for a moment had diverted the attention of the British people from the all-absorbing affairs of Egypt came to an end with a great triumph for the Liberal party in the House of Commons, and to the great satisfaction of the Irish party. By the Arrears bill Irish tenants pocketed not less than $50,000,000 to achieve what Roman agitators regarded as the highest political and social blessing—viz.: tabulae novoe. It is a result for which no one dared to hope two years ago.

The Times comments savagely on

LORD SALISBURY'S BAD JUDGMENT.

Here is an extract from a long leader in which the "Thunderer" goes for the noble Marquis:

"Comment on the rashness, lack of judgment, and willfulness with which Lord Salisbury has dragged his party along strange paths only to land them in a pass is needless. His position on Thursday night is unprecedented. It requires no acumen to discern the magnitude of this error. He had forced his followers into a course of strenuous opposition, and he had gathered them at his own house to exhort them to stand by him to the end. He was deserted, and that too by his nearest political friends, men of his own station, alive to the interests and subject to the feelings of his own class. This is not a check—it is a crushing defeat."

THE ARREST OF MR. JOYNES on a charge of being in Ireland under suspicious circumstances has amused the House of Commons. One of the most respected of Eton masters is Mr. Joynes' father, and the notion of his son having any criminal intent in Ireland probably tickled some of his pupils. Mr. Joynes the younger is himself an assistant master at Eton, and a clergyman said the mistake arose partly from his habit of wearing a soft felt hat—a kind of headgear terribly suspicious in the eyes of the constabulary just now.

THE TELEPHONE LINES.

To the Western Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—In the House of Commons today the Postmaster-General stated that there was not the slightest chance that the Post-Office Department would ever purchase the telephone lines.

The annual convention of the Irish Land League of Great Britain is sitting at Manchester today with closed doors. Commins, member of Parliament for Roscommon, presides.

The cricket match this morning between the English and Australian teams resulted in favor of the Englishmen, who defeated the Australians in one inning, and had thirty-four runs to spare.

The Standard says several Irish members of Parliament intend to address their constituents during recess, with a view of testing the extent to which the Government will allow freedom of speech.

THE LAND LEAGUE.

Three hundred delegates were present at the sitting of the annual convention of the Irish Land League at Manchester today. A resolution of sympathy was passed relative to the death of Miss Fanny Parnell. A report was presented stating that the Highlands of Scotland are ripe for land agitation. It was resolved to alter the title of the Land League to the Land and Labor League of Great Britain.

Upon a resolution for enumerating the peasant proprietary as among the objects of the league, an amendment was proposed embodying the principles of the Davitt land nationalization scheme, but after an animated discussion the original resolution was overwhelmingly carried.

A resolution was passed recommending to farmers in Ireland the justice and expediency of aiding the cause of the laborers, and recommending payment to the Irish members of Parliament for their services in the cause of the Land League.

In the Commons it was stated the constabulary ceased their agitation unconditionally.

THE MOSEL'S PASSENGERS.

FALMOUTH, Aug. 12.—The steamship Hermann will take 500 steerage passengers of the wrecked steamer Mosel. The cabin passengers of the Mosel will await the arrival of another steamer.

CORK, Aug. 12.—In the event of the remains of Miss Fanny Parnell being interred in Ireland, there will probably be a great demonstration at the funeral.

LONDONDERRY, Aug. 12.—The Sub-Commissioner of the Land Court here has given judgment in the first case yet heard of an application by tenants of Irish society to fix fair rent. He reduced the aggregate rent from £149 to £126. In the case of another applicant, a tenant on the estate of the Marquis of Londonderry, the rent was reduced £34.

THE DUBLIN GARRISON REINFORCED.

DUBLIN, Aug. 12.—The garrison here has been strongly reinforced, probably to guard against any outbreaks during exhibition week.

Parnell and other Irish members of Parliament arrived today to attend the festivities in connection with the approaching opening of the exhibition. The streets are already extensively decorated.

Francis Hynes has been found guilty of the murder of John Doloughty, a herder, near Ennis, a few weeks ago, and sentenced to be hanged a month hence. This is the first trial under the Crimes act before a special jury. The crime was of an agrarian character, Doloughty had continued in employment at the farm from which Hynes had been evicted.

HAVANA, Aug. 12.—A dispatch from Jamaica says that Westgate, the self-confessed assasin of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Bourke, has arrived there, and that the evidence implicating him in the crime is strong.

FRANCE.

A MURDERER SENTENCED TO DEATH.

VERSAILLES, Aug. 12.—The court here has sentenced to death Fenayron, the retired apothecary who murdered his wife's lover, another apothecary, named Aubert, at Chaton. Fenayron's wife, who at her husband's instigation inveigled Aubert to visit her on the night of the murder, was sentenced to penal servitude for life, and Fenayron's brother Lucien to seven years' servitude. The trial excited extraordinary interest, as the Public Prosecutor did not press for the extreme penalty in the event of the jury considering that Fenayron was actuated solely by jealousy. It appears the jury must have adopted the view favored by the prosecution—namely: that Aubert was murdered to prevent his divulging the guilt of Fenayron in some case of poisoning or felonious use of drugs.

COREA.

TROUBLES WITH JAPAN.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The Pall Mall Gazette says there is good reason to believe that troubles of the most serious kind have broken out in Corea, whose relations with Japan are not altogether friendly. There is also a very powerful party in Corea that is strongly opposed to the recently-concluded treaties with the United States and England.

ITALY.

ANTARCTIC EXPLORERS WRECKED.

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 12.—A dispatch from Buenos Ayres states that the vessel conveying Lieut. Bove and the members of the Italian antarctic expedition has been wrecked off Cape Horn. All on board were saved.

RUSSIA.

GEN. IGNATIEFF NOT ARRESTED.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Gen. Ignatieff has not been arrested.

WHAT PETROLEUM IS.

Various Theories of the Origin of the Oily Staple.

Philadelphia Times.

The casual visitor to the Pennsylvania oil region, as he views the greasy fluid gushing from its rich reservoirs, 2,000 feet below the surface, finds himself involuntarily asking the primal question, Where does it come from, and how and where was it formed? A puzzling question, surely, and if propounded to any competent and thorough geologist, would only elicit a shake of the head, and the brief reply that he didn't know. But however careful the scientific man may be about advancing a theory that the discoveries of tomorrow may knock higher than a kite, the average Yankee never allows a conundrum of this kind to be propounded to him without making several attempts at guessing it. The difficult question of the origin of petroleum has not seemed to his prolific mind too big to be grappled with, and at present two popular theories exist in regard to this interesting subject, each of which has its strenuous advocates.

The first of these theories holds that the rock in which the oil is now found is the parent rock in which it originated. The Pennsylvania oil rocks are a series of sand-rocks of varying thicknesses, scattered somewhat irregularly over the northwestern part of the State and prolific in oil at depths below the surface, varying from 500 to 2,000 feet. Originally they were deposited by the action of water, either as long stretches of sea beach or immense sand-bars formed by eddying and whirling currents. The advocates of the parent-rock theory maintain that along with this sand was deposited organic vegetable or animal matter, which, by the chemical action of the succeeding ages, has been transformed into oil and gas, and kept stored in these hermetically sealed reservoirs until the searching drill of the enterprising oil operator should penetrate its hidden chambers and bring it forth to light an inquiring and busy world.

In confirmation of this theory its advocates point to the coal deposits, which are now generally conceded to have originated from a vast deposit of vegetable matter, which grew and decomposed for ages, and then, by the combined action of heat and enormous pressure, were packed away in solid masses to provide for the future fuel of the world. A chemical analysis of the two articles, coal and petroleum, discloses the fact that they contain nearly the same elemental ingredients, in slightly different proportions perhaps, but practically the same, the only real difference consisting in the fact that one is now a solid and the other a fluid. As the oil is found at a distance of from 1,000 to 2,000 feet below the prolific coal measures, and, if deposited along with the sand-rock in which it is now found, must be many ages older than the coal deposits, it is argued that the immensely longer period since its original deposit and the higher temperature to which it is subjected by its greater depth below the surface may easily account for the chemical action necessary to make it a fluid instead of a solid, as in the case of coal.

The second and more generally accepted theory is that the petroleum is formed by the constant distillation of gas from the underlying carbonaceous shales of the Silurian period, which in the Pennsylvania oil region are supposed to lie at a sufficient depth to be subjected to a high temperature and to be constantly generating gases. If this theory is accepted, the conditions necessary for the formation of petroleum deposits are threefold: First, a geological horizon deep enough below the surface to generate gases by the operations of internal heat; second, a horizon of proper temperature for the purposes of condensation; and, third, a reservoir for storing the condensed petroleum. The advocates of this theory claim that these lower shales lie at the proper depth to fill the first of these conditions, and that the gas thus generated, being very light and of a peculiarly penetrating nature, rises through the crevices and fissures of the overlying rocks until it reaches the horizon of condensation, which they claim, according to developments made by the drill, varies in distances from 500 to 2,000 feet below the surface. The third condition is fulfilled according to this theory by these sand-rocks, which, lying within the horizon of condensation and being of a porous nature, hold the condensed petroleum as a sponge holds water. These rocks are hermetically sealed at the top by an impervious shell, which prevents the lighter portions of the oil and gas from escaping to the surface until this shell is penetrated by the oil operator's drill, when it gushes forth with astonishing force. If this theory is correct, then in all probability the process of formation is constantly in operation, though proceeding at a very slow rate, the immense deposits lately discovered being the slow accretion of untold ages.

The advocates of this theory fortify themselves by the statement that the series of Devonian rocks in which the oil deposits are now found extend over a great deal of territory in which the drill fails to find oil, and that if the theory of original deposit of the petroleum-producing matter along with these same deposits were true, then the oil should be found wherever the rock is found. On the contrary, they claim the rock may exist where there are no underlying shales to produce the petroleum gases, or the overlying strata may be upheaved to such an extent that the gases may escape to the surface through vertical fissures and thus mingle with the atmosphere and be lost. In proof of this they cite the fact that no oil has been discovered eastward of the line which marks the beginning of the Allegheny upheaval, and that the vertical fissures caused by this upheaval have rendered the formation of petroleum deposits impossible in that locality. They also cite in support of this theory the further fact that no oil has been discovered at a depth exceeding 500 feet below sea level, although the drill has penetrated far greater depths in many instances and succeeded in tapping the petroleum gases. They argue from this that if the gases are found at great depths, but no oil, then if follows that oil is the product of condensation, which can only take place where a sufficiently low temperature exists, and that this is to be found only within the limits above described. The inquiry is full of interest to the inquisitive mind, and we simply present to the readers of the Times these two popular theories for what they are worth, without comment or expressed opinion.

An Eye-Opener for Neal Dow.

Portland (Me.) Press.

An engineer on the Eastern Railroad was bitten on the thumb by a spider a few days ago as his train was passing over the Lynn marshes. The thumb began to swell, and reached to such a size that he visited a doctor in Boston for treatment. The remedies first applied proved ineffectual, and the physician stated that it might become necessary to amputate the hand, which at this time had become affected. On the doctor's advice the engineer commenced to drink copiously of whisky, which had no effect on him as far as intoxication was concerned. The swelling, however, was soon reduced to such an extent as to promise that all danger will soon be over.

NEW YORK.

Arrival of President Arthur on the United States Steamer Dispatch.

The Weekly Bank Statement About What Was Generally Expected.

An Advance of 20 Per Cent in Southern Freight Rates Agreed On.

The Paper House of J. W. Lyon & Co. Placed in the Hands of Receivers.

An Attempt to Be Made to Raise Oysters in the Great Salt Lake, Utah.

A Paymaster of a Large Firm Robbed of Two Thousand Dollars by His Brother.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR.

HE ARRIVES ON THE UNITED STATES STEAMER DISPATCH.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—President Arthur, accompanied only by members of his family and his private secretary, arrived in this city from Washington this noon on the United States steamer Dispatch, which anchored off Twenty-seventh street, in the North River. The President remained on board the vessel till 2:30 o'clock, when he embarked in the barge with his party and was rowed to the landing at the foot of Twenty-third street. Carriages were in waiting at the landing, but in deference to the President's wishes none of his friends were there to meet him. Aside from the coachman, a policeman, and two reporters, nobody seemed to know that the Presidential party were expected to land there. The barge touched the float at 2:45 o'clock. As President Arthur walked up the steps leading from the float the bystanders doffed their hats, a mark of respect which was acknowledged by the President raising his own hat. The members of the party were driven to the President's residence, No. 128 Lexington avenue. The Dispatch will remain here awaiting the President's orders.

THE BANK STATEMENT.

NOT DIFFERENT FROM WHAT WAS EXPECTED.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The statement of the average condition of the New York banks for the six days ending yesterday is not far different from what was expected, or, perhaps, what was guessed by those most competent in the matter. The net result of the changes in the various averages during the week is that the surplus reserve has been increased $1,147,875, it being now $3,832,300, against $2,087,500 a year ago. The changes are as follows: Loans, increase, $1,591,600; specie, increase, $1,744,600; legal tenders, decrease, $82,300; deposits, increase, $2,057,700; circulation, decrease, $55,800.

SOUTHERN FREIGHT RATES.

AN ADVANCE AGREED ON.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—At a meeting of the Southern Railway and Steamship Association today the advance of rates agreed on yesterday was confirmed. The basis agreed on is an average advance of 20 per cent on freight in general, and an advance of 15 to 20 per cent on cotton, the rate being governed by the distance. The meeting had for its chief object the consideration of the advance of the rates on cotton, and especially whether any changes should be made in the basis of advance agreed on the day before. It was decided that no change should be made. It will take some time to make up the new table of rates, and it will probably not be ready for publication before the 20th or 25th inst.

RECEIVERS APPOINTED

FOR THE FIRM OF J. W. LYON & CO., PAPER-DEALERS.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—There was much surprise in the paper-trade today at the announcement that the firm of J. W. Lyon & Co., wholesale dealers in paper-stock at No. 44 Duane street and at No. 35 Park street, had been placed in the hands of Receivers. Bradstreet's reports state that it was on account of a quarrel between James W. Lyon, John H. Lyon, and Philip M. Knight, and that the firm was conceded as entirely solvent. Three Receivers were appointed by Judge Donohue, of the Supreme Court, each partner being represented by one of the Receivers. The partners were restrained from interfering with the affairs of the firm, and the business is to be liquidated by the Receivers, who have taken charge of it. J. H. Lyon and P. M. Knight have sent out circulars to the trade that they will form a new firm. The business had been established for over twenty-five years, and the house was regarded as one of the largest in the trade, the firm estimating their worth at from $250,000 to $300,000.

ROBBED HIS BROTHER.

A PAYMASTER ROBBED OF $2,000 BY HIS BROTHER.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Erasmus D. Garnsey, paymaster for the large firm of Robinson & Wallace, masons and builders, whose office is at No. 229 East Thirty-first street, ran breathlessly into police headquarters this afternoon and said that he had just been robbed of $2,000 by his own brother. The Superintendent hurried him into the detective office, where he told his story as follows: Mr. Garnsey drew $3,500 from a down-town bank at noon today to pay off the men, and took the money to his house, at No. 238 East Twelfth street, to make it into the various sums due the workmen. On the way he encountered his brother, John A. Garnsey, who is a night-watchman in the employ of the firm.

HE OFFERED TO ACCOMPANY HIM FOR PROTECTION, and went with him to the house. The two brothers went into the front parlor, and Erasmus drew from his breast-pocket the money as he had received it at the bank—in two bundles. One contained $2,000 in $20 bills. This he put on the table first, with his revolver. His brother took up the package of money, and balancing it in his hand, said, with a curious smile: "What is to hinder me from taking this money now?" "Nothing," answered Erasmus, with a laugh, not for a moment suspecting that he was in earnest. The table was between the two. John took a step or two toward the door, and looked back over his shoulder with a smile. He had taken up the revolver as he moved, and held it in one hand, the money in the other. Quick as a flash he sprang through the open hall door and closed it after him with a bang. Half STUNNED WITH AMAZEMENT, his brother looked after him. The noise of the outer door being violently slammed aroused him, and with a shout of "Stop thief!" he darted after his fleeing brother. The latter was already half a block ahead of him toward Second avenue, moving like a deer. Panting and shouting the paymaster ran after. The crowd in the street stopped and stared. At Third avenue the fugitive, still swinging the money in one hand and the pistol in the other, turned southward and disappeared. When Erasmus Garnsey reached the corner he was not in sight. It is supposed that the robber has made an effort to get out of the city, but the best detectives are after him.

OYSTERS.

AN ATTEMPT TO RAISE THEM IN SALT LAKE, UTAH, TO BE MADE.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Fish-Commissioner Eugene Blackford has received an order from Henry House, at Corinne, Utah, for three barrels of seedling oysters. Mr. House wrote that he intended to plant them, and make an attempt to cultivate oysters in the Great Salt Lake. Mr. Blackford said today this was the first attempt made to cultivate oysters in the Great Salt Lake, and that he had no doubt but that the experiment would have a satisfactory result, provided a proper bed for the young oysters could be found where the minute animal life upon which the young oysters feed was plentiful. The oysters would live till they reached Utah, and the water of the Great Salt Lake was, without doubt, suited to them. In a year's time, these young oysters, if they do live and thrive, will be fit for food, and it is said that should the experiment result successfully, many more will be planted next year.

PLEASURE-SEEKERS.

CHICAGOANS AT SUMMER RESORTS.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The following named Chicagoans were registered at Eastern resorts today: At Newport, E. A. Lancaster and family, E. C. Race, J. M. Norman, Mrs. T. Sherman and family, Arthur Ryerson, F. N. Gage, C. F. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. Jones. At Saratoga, C. A. Fullerton, Mrs. A. N. Fullerton, Miss M. Hill, F. R. Free. At Long Branch, James Leahy and family.

BATH.

England's Famous Watering Place, and Reminiscences of Those Who Have Figured There.

"Gath" in Cincinnati Enquirer.

Bath is one of the most interesting places for an American to study the social life of England about the time of our Revolution and for a century previous. It is a place of more than 50,000 inhabitants, on the Avon River, which has previously run past Shakspeare's birthplace. The mansions of the aristocracy, who have long spent portions of the year here, surround it, and it is the original Saratoga of the English race. It is only 107 miles from London. The bathing establishments were built in their present form during Washington's Administration. The Queen of James I., in whose reign Jamestown and Plymouth were settled, came here to drink the waters. There are twenty churches in the town, and it has a great assembly-room, and a ball-room 106 feet long. There are nine bridges over the Avon at Bath.

The principal man who figured here was "Beau Nash"—Richard Nash, who was called the King of Bath. He came from the region of Wales, and was born there 100 years before the opening of the American Revolution. Having a cavalier descent he was sent to Oxford University, where he made a miserable student, and was dismissed before he took his degree. He ran in debt, leaving his creditors a pair of boots, two volumes of plays, a fiddle, and a tobacco pouch. He then borrowed enough money to buy a small commission in the army, and dressed in his uniform, he began to cultivate persons in high life with a civility and deference that won their gratitude and ultimately opened their houses to him. He was a very adroit flatterer, and particularly careful about his clothes, while his real business was playing cards with his rich friends. You will recognize this character of man as by no means extinct at the present day—the smooth, oily gallant, or social parasite, or the petty courtier with unlimited assurance, and considerable powers as an actor.

Nash would occasionally fall in love with the daughter of some rich man, or affect to be in love with her, and then would arrange with her father to let her marry some other suitor, who had not stood well in her father's regard. As soon as real war was about to begin Nash sold his commission and undertook to be a lawyer. He soon found that the dry study of the law was not as congenial to him as dancing attendance on rich and titled people.

The King of England—old William III., the Dutch Prince of Orange—was invited to come to the Temple among the lawyers on a certain occasion, and Nash, being the most presentable man there, was asked to make the speech to his Majesty on behalf of the lawyers, and he did it so magnificently that the King offered to make him a Knight. Nash, however, proffering a delicate hint to make him a Knight with an estate, declined the honor. He soon gave up the law for gaming and society.

He would lend money, but never paid his debts. He now resolved to go through England, picking up the country gentry and skinning them at cards; but, starting in at York, a lot of sharpers lay for him and took every cent he had, and then agreed to give him $50 back if he would stand in a white sheet for half an hour at the cathedral door, which he did, stating to the priest that it was "Yorkshire penance for keeping bad company." It is also stated that he rode naked through a village upon a cow to get a large wager.

Nash finally hit upon Baltimore as the place to make his fortune, very much as John Morrissey selected Saratoga for a similar purpose. There he won so much money the first season that he bought a coach and six gray horses, and so identified himself with the pleasures of that town that he lived in it to the age of 88, dying in 1761—about the time the American colonies began to take a stand against the Crown.

He was not a vulgar gambler, but a master of ceremonies, and his fastidious taste reqited for his want of real principle, and put him in comparison with Ninon de L'Enclos, the famous French courtesan, who was mistress of almost all the great men of her time in succession, and bore children to many of them, yet never made a mistake in taste or outward refinement. The children of the nobility were sent to her to learn behavior.

Nash established a fixed rule that dancing should begin at 6 o'clock in the evening and stop at 11 o'clock, and even Princesses of the royal family were refused a longer time to dance. He forbade swords to be worn either in the ballroom or at the baths, and made several rules, which were printed and stuck up, such as the following:

"No gentleman shall give his ticket for the balls to any but gentlewomen. N. B.—Unless he has none of his acquaintance."

He was prodigal in giving away money, impossible as it was to collect a debt from him. One night, when he had won $1,000 at piquet, he heard a man say: "My God! how happy that money would make me." "Take it, then, and be happy," said Nash, and handed over the money.

He would hunt a better church for a needy clergyman, and go around himself with the plate, begging subscriptions for some deserving object. He often made marriage between an heiress and a deserving lover. Earl Townsend, a young man with a propensity for gaming, lost everything he had to Nash—his estate, his carriages, and his furniture. Nash handed it all over to him again on the promise that he would never play, and would pay Nash £5,000 if he should ever stand in need. After the Earl's death, Nash applied to the heir, saying that the need had come, and the heir then paid him the $25,000.

He also established a large hospital in Bath. As he grew old he showed much terror of death. The day after he died the corporation of Bath voted $250 officially to bury him, and put an inscription on his tomb (still standing) which says that he raised the City of Bath into a province of pleasure, and held sacred decency and decorum; that he had a noble public spirit and a warm, generous heart.

Nash must not be confounded with Beau Brummel, the fastidious dresser. Brummel was born after Nash was dead. He was a son of the Secretary of Lord North, Prime Minister of England, who undertook to tax America prior to the American Revolution. His father, by patronage and jobs, acquired some $300,000, and sent Beau Brummel to Eton and Oxford. There he seemed to divine that the time was coming when exquisit dress would give a man as much celebrity and followers as talents and principles, and he was right in the supposition.

The profligate era of George IV. was at hand, and that Prince saw Brummel at Windsor and desired to make his acquaintance. Lord Byron said that Brummel's dress was only remarkable for its exquisit propriety. He was the ancestor of the modern exquisit, and said cool, dry things, which were repeated around the kingdom. He was also a social parasite, and believed in cultivating the society of people above him.

He entered the army as a cornet in the Prince of Wales' own regiment, and rose to be a Captain. When he came of age he inherited $150,000, and resolved to be a Sybarite and an epicurean. He took a house in London, and began to tie his white neckerchiefs with elegance. That discovery, how to set his tie, made him the pet of society. A nobleman once asked him what he would take to give him the secret of those beautiful neckties. Beau Brummel named a sum, which was promptly given, and then wrote: "Starch is your man."

No dinner or ball was complete if he did not come. He was very fastidious about his introductions, and would have nobody but peers for his friends. To the father of a young man he bilked at cards, he said: "I did very much for your son, sir: I once gave him my arm for half a mile up Oxford street."

Noblemen invited him to their castles, and he even quarreled with the Prince Regent, saying to him at his house: "Wales, ring the bell for wine." The Prince rang the bell, and said to the servant: "Order Mr. Brummel's carriage!"

He fell into debt in the course of a year, and crossed the Channel to Calais to keep out of a debtor's prison, and there levied contributions on his English friends for years. To keep him out of jail in France he was made English Consul at Caen at $3,000 per year in 1835. There he memorialized Lord Palmerston to abolish [illegible] the ground that it was of no [illegible] expecting to get a better one. The [illegible] was abolished, and then his French cr[illegible] threw him into jail. His intellect fi[illegible] gave way, and he was sent to a hospital and died an idiot.

It was at Bath that Fannie Braddock, sister of Gen. Braddock, who was killed near Pittsburg, committed suicide. She was a daughter of Edward Braddock, an army officer, who left her $30,000. The word Braddock is said to mean broad oak. Fannie Braddock was a beautiful woman, with a fine mind, and at her sister's death she also received her allowance; but, falling in love with a worthless man, she obeyed an impulse to pay his debts. She then obeyed another impulse to go to the gaming-tables, where women at that period sat down as freely as men. She soon ran through her money, fell into despair, and hanged herself with her garters to the door of her chamber. Her inhuman brother made a joke upon her death, saying: "Poor Fannie! I always thought she would play until she would have to tuck herself up." When a person had run in debt at the card-table, and could not play until the debt was paid, she was said to "tuck herself up." This was in 1731.

Her brother, Gen. Braddock, was for some time kept at Bath by a celebrated prostitute, and went there by the name of Capt. Bilkum. Braddock fought a duel at Bath with the Earl of Bath, who threw him his purse on the field, saying: "You are a poor duck; if you kill me you will have to run away, and then you will not have a shilling to support you." This so exasperated Braddock that he could not fight well, and his sword was struck out of his hand.

Under such a man as this Gen. Washington learned the art of war. Braddock was buried, as we all know, on the road between Pittsburg and Cumberland, Md.

THE FRENCH BOURBONS.

A Love-Affair of Henry V.'s Father.

New York Graphic.

The Count de Chambord, known to a faithful few as Henry V., King of France, is ill with fever at his Frohsdorf chateau, and although he by no means causes the French Republic as much disquietude as he caused the Second Empire, he is still a very important public character. He is the chief of the elder branch of the Bourbon family, the direct descendant of Louis XVI., who lost his head by a stroke of the guillotine during the reign of terror. His father was Charles Ferdinand, Duc de Berri, the younger son of Charles X., who had to leave his throne in a hurry one July day, fifty-two years ago. His mother was the famous Duchess de Berri, known before her marriage as the Princess Caroline Ferdinande Louise of Naples.

The Count de Chambord's father was mortally wounded on the night of Feb. 13, 1820, as he was leaving the Paris Opera-House, by a man named Louvel. Seven months after this event the son was born. His mother left France in 1830 with Charles X., but in 1832 she returned for the purpose of stirring up an insurrection and claiming the crown for this son. She landed at Marseilles, but finding no support there she made her way to La Vendee, where she succeeded in rallying a few adherents. They were quickly subdued, however, and she tried to make her way secretly out of the country. She was betrayed, however, to Louis Philippe's Government and imprisoned in the castle of Braye, where she gave birth to a second son, the fruit of a secret marriage between her and a young Italian nobleman. The publication of this fact made her harmless in the eyes of the Government, and she was released in June 1833. She retired to Sicily, where she lived up to her demise in 1870, with her husband and his relatives.

The legality of the marriage of the Duc de Berri with the Princess Caroline Ferdinande Louise, of Naples, has been questioned by English Protestant writers, and if their views were to be accepted as the correct ones, the two daughters born to the Duke by Amy Brown are the only legitimate representatives of that gay and gallant nobleman, while, had certain formalities been complied with by the Duke immediately after his marriage to Amy, in 1806, a quiet gentleman who lived until recently, bearing the commonplace name of George Granville Brown, would have stood in the Count de Chambord's shoes in the eyes of these same writers.

The Duc de Berri, after the revolution, served in the French Legitimist army, and subsequently in that of Russia, but in 1801 he went to England, and three years later he made the acquaintance of Amy, the daughter of Joseph Brown, vicar of the Church of All Saints, Maidstone. She was a great beauty and he was a dashing, handsome fellow. He was 26—she 21. They fell madly in love with each other, and in April, 1805, she gave birth to a son, the George Granville Brown here mentioned. A year after the two were married in the Catholic chapel in King street, Portland Square, London, according to English law, in the presence of witnesses, and without objections from the relatives on either side. The son was not legitimated, however, as the mother doubtless expected he would be. Amy gave birth to one of the two daughters in 1808 and to the other in 1809. They were taken by her to France, and educated and married there, the husband of one being the Prince Faucigny Lucinge, the other the Baron de Charette. They are still living and have large families.

When the Duc de Berri married Amy there seemed to be little chance of the Bourbons ever coming to their own again. As their prospects brightened his passion for Amy cooled, and when Louis XVIII. came to the throne that monarch formally petitioned the Pope for annulment of the marriage on the ground that it had been contracted without the consent of the head of the family. This petition was granted after some delay, and in 1816 the Duc de Berri married the mother of the Count de Chambord, the heroine of the episodes that culminated in Castle Braye.

It must be said in justice to the Count's father that he took excellent care of Amy and her daughters. The three of them were invited to come to Paris after his second marriage, and every afternoon up to the time of his death he came to see the daughters. The son, George Granville, was, however, not allowed to come to France to see his mother even, until after the revolution in 1830. According to Mr. Theodore Child, writing in the Philadelphia American, he lived nearly forty years in the house No. 7 Rue Saint Pierre, at Montes, having married Miss Charlotte Louise Brown, and, spending a fair income, doubtless given to him by his father, in works of charity.

Lay a Fainting Person Down.

Medical Journal.

It is surprising how everybody rushes at a fainting person and strives to raise him up, and especially to keep his head erect. There must be an instinctive apprehension that if a person seized with a fainting or other fit fall into the recumbent position death is more imminent. I must have driven a mile today while a lady fainting was held upright. I found her pulseless, white, and apparently dying, and I believe that if I had delayed ten minutes longer she would really have died. I laid her head down on a lower level than her body, and immediately color returned to her lips and cheeks, and she became conscious. To the excited group of friends I said: Always remember this fact—namely: fainting is caused by a want of blood in the brain; the heart ceases to act with sufficient force to send the usual amount of blood to the brain, and hence the person loses consciousness because the function of the brain ceases. Restore the blood to the brain and instantly the person recovers. Now, though the blood is propelled to all parts of the body by the action of the heart, yet it is still under the influence of the laws of gravitation. In the erect position the blood ascends to the head against gravitation, and the supply to the brain is diminished, as compared with the recumbent position, the heart's pulsation being equal. If, then, you place a person sitting whose heart has nearly ceased to beat, his brain will fail to receive blood, while if you lay him down, with the head lower than the heart, blood will run into the brain by the mere force of gravity; and, in fainting, in sufficient quantity to restore consciousness. Indeed, Nature teaches us how to manage the fainting persons, for they always fall, and frequently are at once restored by the recumbent position into which they are thrown.

Monkey Tricks.

An old monkey sat cozily asleep in a snug corner, with a friend nestling against him and indulging likewise in a comfortable snooze. Presently a young skylarker approached them somewhat timidly, and, squatting beside the friend, sat quiet for some seconds, then suddenly, as if possessed by some malicious inspiration, he reached his arm out cautiously behind the slumbering friend and gave the elderly monkey a whacking box on the ear. He, waking in just wrath, and unsuspicious of the truth—for the culprit was now shamming sleep and looked the picture of innocence—flew upon his friend with an indictment for assault, and chivied him with monstrous clamor round and round the cage, while the culprit sat regarding them and jabbering with joy. Some little time after the performance was repeated, the old monkey and his friend having settled in the corner, and the assault and wrongful punishment occurring as before. Once again the trick was tried, but the friend who had twice suffered was shamming sleep this time, and caught the culprit in the act, and with the help of the old monkey gave him a good drubbing, which, indeed, he well deserved.—All the Year Round.

SUNDAY, AUGUST 13, 1882.

WARMER and rainy weather is indicated for this region today.

CONGRESSMEN DEUSTER and Guenther were last evening tendered a banquet in Milwaukee in recognition of their successful efforts in behalf of the Steerage bill which was recently passed by Congress, mainly through the untiring energy of these gentlemen.

LICENSES for 3,000 saloons in the City of Chicago have already been taken out for the current year. There have been 500 or 600 more licenses granted than at this time last year. When all the licenses are out it is estimated the number of saloons in the city will be 4,000. The business must be in a very flourishing condition; it ought to be able to stand an increase of the license fee from $52 to say $300. If the municipality hasn't the "sand" to make this needed change, the Legislature will have to take hold of it. There are about three times too many saloons in Chicago. A $300 license fee would weed out a good many of the doggeries and disreputable resorts, and be a blessing to the community.

THE dispatch announcing the arrest of Gen. Ignatieff shows the uncertainties of official life in Russia. It is only a little more than a year since he ousted Gen. Melikoff and took his place as the confidential adviser of the Czar, completely reversing Melikoff's policy, which the Czar had agreed to carry out. His administration was a brief one, and failed to satisfy either the Czar or the people, and he in turn was compelled to step down and out, the announcement shortly after following that Gen. Melikoff had been made the supreme head of a commission to make certain popular reforms, and now the disgraced favorit is under arrest and on his way to St. Petersburg. The cause of his arrest has not been stated.

> CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 8.—Don't you think it is about time to remind our President about the large number of petitions which came to him from all parts of the country in behalf of Sergt. Mason for a pardon? ONE WHO SIGNED.

"Our President" is not thinking at present of the sufferings of Sergt. Mason, nor yet of those of Betty and the baby. This is the vacation season at Washington, and the President and his Cabinet and all the martinets in the War Department are off on their annual vacations. Some of them are seeking the cooling breezes of the ocean on Government vessels. They care little or nothing for "the common soldier" who did what ninety-nine out of every 100 right-feeling men similarly situated would have done—took a pot shot at the miserable assasin who had deprived the Nation of its Chief Magistrate. Sergt. Mason will have his "vacation" in Albany penitentiary.

YELLOW-FEVER is epidemic at Matamoras and at Brownsville, which is directly opposit on the American side of the Rio Grande. The average number of daily deaths at Matamoras during the last two weeks has been ten. In the same period twelve persons have died at Brownsville. Fortunately the season is far advanced, and the fever is not likely to spread much. It will be remembered that during the last epidemic, which was so severely felt at New Orleans and Memphis, Texas escaped. Now the conditions are reversed. The Congressmen who voted against the appropriation for the National Board of Health have the greatest reason to watch the progress of the fever in Texas with solicitude. It will be noticed that the State-rights Democrats have no compunctions in applying to Congress for relief after a disaster has occurred, as in the case of the Mississippi River floods. But there are some of them who believe that the Government should not be permitted to prevent what it may have to provide a remedy for. In their opinion a pound of cure is worth an ounce of prevention.

IT is now stated upon the authority of the New York Freeman's Journal that Chicago is not to have a Cardinal after all, and that Archbishop Feehan will remain an Archbishop; further, that when a new American Cardinal is created, the honor will be given to some older city. If the next Consistory wants a real old quiet city it ought to select St. Louis. If age instead of enterprise and smartness is the qualification for the abiding place of a Cardinal let St. Louis have it by all means.

HOW TO DO IT.

The impotency of the police force of Chicago in the matter of legal proceedings against gambling-houses and gamblers is historical. Without stopping now to discuss the question whether this failure of the police in this important matter of criminal proceeding is due to any want of fidelity among the men, or to the protection afforded to the crime by those higher in authority, on which point perhaps justice requires us to say that there is hardly any division of opinion, we wish to point out what was done in New York a few days ago.

In that city one of the greatest iniquities has been for many years the lottery policy business, which is practically a variation of the gambling business, and in many particulars has the worst features of that business. This crime had been successfully carried on for years, the police making occasional arrests, but pleading an inability to break up the business. This is the old Chicago reason given why gambling has been successfully carried on here.

Last week the District-Attorney of New York matured plans for the arrest of the ringleaders and the probable extirpation of the traffic. During several weeks he carefully gathered the testimony against these ringleaders, and after obtaining the witnesses he laid all the information before the Recorder, sitting in chambers as a committing magistrate. The latter issued the necessary warrants for the arrest of all the chief offenders, and also a number of search warrants to be used if necessary. One New York reporter in his account of the proceedings there adds:

> Arrangements were then made for a raid, proceedings being conducted with the utmost secrecy. Particular pains were taken to keep the matter from anybody connected with the Police Department. District-Attorney McKeon even refrained from taking the attachés of his own office into his confidence, and only two persons besides himself—Recorder Smyth and Deputy-City-Assistant-District-Attorney Allen — who had charge of the matter in his absence, were aware of what was being done. At the request of the District-Attorney Mr. Robert Pinkerton and ten of his detectives were appointed Deputy Sheriffs, with full authority to make arrests. Everything being ready, it was arranged that the raid should take place today. At 1:30 this afternoon all three establishments were visited. The party selected for the main office consisted of Mr. Robert Pinkerton and twenty-two of his assistants. On arriving on the third floor of No. 263 Bowery, in which Simmons & Co. are known to operate, Pinkerton found the door closely guarded by a youth who refused him admission and demanded his business. After inquiring for the manager and stating that he held a warrant for his arrest, the detective, finding that he was still refused admission, broke open the door with a sledge-hammer and burst into the room, followed by his detectives. The officers found the place in full operation, about forty men being engaged in various occupations, principally clerical, connected with the policy business. The detectives arrested ten of the eleven men for whom they held warrants, and permitted the minor attachés to go away. Other establishments were visited in like manner and arrests made.

It will be noticed that the authorities of New York, profiting by the experience of many years of failure and a study of the causes of such failure, wholly ignored the police in this matter. They even suppressed all knowledge of the proceedings from the subordinates of the District-Attorney, and the successful execution of the raid and the capture of the proprietors was intrusted to Pinkerton's force. There was no failure. There was no notice given to the criminals. Nobody at headquarters leaked, and the arrested men were captured in the midst of their work. The evidence having been accumulated in advance of the raid, the capture of the parties was all that was required to enable the State's-Attorney to obtain indictments and follow them up to conviction.

What was possible in New York with Pinkerton and his force of twenty-two men ought to be possible in Chicago with any good Police Captain with an equal force, provided the authorities are on the side of the law, and are not the protectors of the criminals. The success of this proceeding in New York is a conviction of the police authorities in New York City, who have for years pleaded inability to accomplish this discovery and arrest. In the case of these policy-dealers, the establishments were secret; they were widely scattered, and the business was done in remote places and by persons not generally known to be so engaged. In Chicago the gambling-houses are as conspicuous as the hotels or theatres; all the gamblers and their subordinates are personally as well known to the police as are the Aldermen; the gambling itself is hardly disguised, and when gaming is going on it is well known to the police. Yet if a warrant be sworn out the fact is instantly made known to the gamblers; if a raid is to be made the police find the houses deserted and the lights extinguished. If an arrest is to be made the party to be arrested notifies the police when he will come in, and at the appointed hour appears with his bail.

In the New York case of the raid on the policy-operators no police were employed or had notice of what was intended, and to this is attributed the successful execution of the law. Could a like success be obtained here if, as was done in New York, the Mayor, and the city police, and the Police Justices were alike excluded from any knowledge that the law of the State was about to be executed?

THE LAST TO GO UP.

If the current saying is true that real estate is the last thing to go up, land must be on the point of enjoying what is called a "boom" in the business slang of the day. Certainly everything else has been advanced in price. That the market is dull, as shown by our real-estate reports from week to week, is no indication that more activity and better prices may not soon come. Obviously, if every one had the wit that could forecast the approach of such periods they would never come. One of the signs of the times is the vast amount of small building going on all over the country. Every town and hamlet is enlarging its old houses and building new ones. Another is the demand for lots around the cities. These things prove that the proceeds of good crops and years of economy and the disbursements of hundreds of millions in railroad building and other enterprises have gone far towards filling the pockets of the people. When working people, and clerks, and other saving classes have accumulated little hordes, and are looking for something to put them into, the one investment that has more charms for them in this country than any other is—home. The savings-banks that have survived the panic are no doubt good, but the experience of the masses with them has been bitter, and these depositories are not likely to regain their old popularity.

A new sentiment that is likely to give real estate an increasing momentum in popular favor is the profound distrust of stock-exchange manipulations and stock securities which the revelations of recent years have instilled into the public. The stock that you buy today because it is controlled by an able and honest man may pass tomorrow into the hands of one of the great sharks of Wall street. Real estate cannot be juggled away by a Board of Directors. Good crops, which are now all but harvested, and active business which will follow, will place in the hands of the people a vast amount of money to be put into the security which has advanced less than any other, the only one, too, of which there can never be an overissue.

THE STUPIDITY OF MOB VIOLENCE.

The mob which attacked the suspected ravishers of Miss Bond at Taylorville succeeded only in demonstrating more emphatically than ever the irrational character of lynch law. Other mobs have achieved more disastrous results, but none ever displayed so much cowardice and injustice. The victims were not hanged, but only tortured. If they were innocent of the horrible crime charged upon them, the outrage was scarcely less fiendish than that committed upon Miss Bond. If they are guilty, the mob has furnished them with an excellent argument to enable them to escape the punishment which ought to be meted out to them. In every way the case is more confused and perplexing than ever before; and, popular resentment having now expended its force in a silly and inconsequential demonstration, the chances are that no one will ever be convicted of the crime against humanity and civilization in which Miss Bond was the sufferer.

The preliminary examination of the four men under arrest had been concluded, and three of them—Clementi, Pettis, and one of the Montgomerys—had been held for trial. The result of the examination was anything but satisfactory. The evidence against the accused was altogether circumstantial, and not strengthened by that chain of circumstances which sometimes is more convincing than direct personal testimony. The bad character of the men suspected told against them, and the alibi they made out rested almost entirely upon the evidence of members of their own family. Otherwise it is probable that the accused would have been discharged. But the populace of the surrounding country had assembled in a spirit of vengeance. Passion was further excited by alcoholic stimulants and the exchange of epithets, and the mob was not willing to separate without venting its rage in some manner. Even in their unreasoning temper the people were not sufficiently convinced of the guilt of the men in jail to proceed with the hanging, but seemed to think that they could bring about some new development by laying violent hands upon the prisoners. Apparently they hoped to force some confession from the accused. They began to demand confessions from the moment they had the men in their hands. It was a great piece of folly. These men would have been stupid, indeed, if they had not perceived that they would forfeit their last hope of life by confession. It required no great discernment to see that the crowd was temporizing. Men who have been convicted of murder beyond any reasonable doubt and have apparently made their peace with God through the agency of priests have been known to protest their innocence on the gallows with the noose around their necks and in the face of certain death. When guilty men can do this it is easy to understand how they would refuse to confess while there was a hope of escape. Hence it was simply senseless in the Taylorville mob to expect that they could wrest a confession from the men whom they merely threatened with death. If these men were guilty they availed themselves of the one chance to save their lives, and they have escaped.

The injustice done to Clementi, Pettis, and Montgomery, if they are innocent, is scarcely greater than that done to the community if they are guilty. The mob has provided them with a telling defense. They and their attorneys will be able at their trial, if there shall ever be a trial, to point to the fact that they denied their guilt at a moment when they had every reason to believe they were looking death in the face. This plea will have all the force of a death-bed statement. It cannot fail to make an impression upon a jury and upon the public. Indeed, there is said to be already a change of sentiment among the people of Taylorville as to the guilt of the accused because they reiterated their innocence at every step taken by the mob. These men will now be released on bail. Fear of further violence may impel them to run away, or, if they remain to stand trial, their demeanor when in the hands of the mob will be a stronger defense than any alibi they can possibly establish.

The case now stands in this way: If Montgomery, Clementi, and Pettis are guilty, they are likely to escape punishment by reason of the stupid mob proceedings; if they are innocent, they are the victims of a cruel outrage for which no verdict of acquittal can compensate them. Added to this there is to be expected an abatement in public indignation, which will be favorable to the escape of those who actually committed the outrage. Altogether, there has never been so clear a warning against mob violence. It has no redeeming feature in a community where there remains the smallest hope for obtaining justice by the deliberate process of law. The Taylorville demonstration is at the same time another reminder of the urgent necessity for such reform in the criminal law and practice of this State as will inspire the people with confidence in courts and juries, and thus help them to avoid the mingled absurdity and injustice of mob violence.

THE NATIONAL BOARD OF HEALTH.

Congress while struggling with the Constitution and all other legal and economic proprieties as to the appropriation of millions for the so-called river and harbor improvements—that is to say, thousands for Cheesequakes Creek in New Jersey and millions for the levees of the Mississippi—was ferociously virtuous on the subject of a quarantine against small-pox or the yellow-fever. It struck out of the bill all the appropriations to arrest the invasion of the country by hundreds of thousands of non-vaccinated immigrants, and the spread of a loathsome disease over every railroad to all parts of the country, carrying death and contagion everywhere through the land. Despite the fearful ravages of yellow-fever during the past years, when because of failure to close the gate of New Orleans against its admission it swept through Louisiana, Mississippi, Georgia, Tennessee, and other States, Congress was so scrupulous as to the expenditure of public money that it refused to appropriate $10,000 to $15,000 for the Board of Health, and on the same day appropriated $18,000,000 for so-called rivers and harbors.

Congress, however, with the characteristic economy of legislative bodies, in refusing to vote money for the medical supplies needed to enable the Board of Health to do something to arrest if not prevent the ravages of the yellow-fever, exercised its powers of dismissing the half-dozen starveling clerks of the Board of Health, but voted the money to pay the high salaries of the officers of the board, who were left without any duties to perform or any means by which they could be performed.

The National Board of Health of the United States is now the merest skeleton that ever existed. It consists of what may be properly styled a bureau with a few salaried officers, who sit in an office at Washington without power or means. Five vessels are even now lying in the harbor of New York in quarantine with yellow-fever on board; at the American towns on the Rio Grande the yellow-fever is epidemic; at Galveston and other cities and points in Texas the fever is having its own way, resisted only by such efforts as local organizations may make. The National skeleton, called the Board of Health, will sit during the year gathering the news of the mortality North and South from the newspapers, for the means to publish bulletins have been taken away from it. It has no money to pay for telegrams. It would be better perhaps if the concern had been abolished altogether, for then there would be no deception and no fraud, and no misleading of the unfortunate victims of epidemics who may suppose there is such a thing as a living, active, and substantial National Board of Health of the United States. In the past history of these yellow-fever epidemics poverty, destitution, famine, and desolation have been attendants; nurses, medicines, clothing, and even food have been among the most pressing wants, both for the well and the prostrate. But the same Congress that freely voted money by the hundreds of thousands to build marble court-houses and post-offices at country villages in Virginia and elsewhere refused to vote a dollar for vaccine matter to arrest the small-pox or to maintain even the feeble agency with the high-sounding title of the National Board of Health. This is a specimen of Congressional economy.

THE POPULATION OF CHICAGO.

The school census of Chicago has been completed, with the following results:

Whole population of city	562,693
Over 21 years of age	321,000
Between 16 and 21 years	54,518
Between 6 and 16 years	100,648
Under 6 years	86,527

The number of persons in each of the three divisions of the city as shown by this census, and by the one taken by the Federal Government in 1880, is as follows:

Division.	City.	Federal.	Increase.
South	135,602	127,266	8,336
West	312,624	276,321	36,303
North	114,218	99,466	14,752

The gain in the South Division seems at the first glance very small, but this is partly due to the fact that it is not credited with its proportion of the 8,000 sailors now in the city, who are not permanent residents of the State, and were not included in this local census, although they would be enumerated under a Federal one; and partly because the rate of increase in the South Division is smaller than in any other section of the city. If a proper proportion of these sailors were added to the total, the increase in this division would be about 12,000. That this school census is not too large is evident. From 1870 to 1880 the increase in the population was just about 70 per cent, or 7 per cent a year. During the last two years it has been 13 per cent, or 6½ per cent a year, which is too low, for it is precisely during the last three years that this city has been growing most rapidly. The school census of two years ago fell 18,000 short of the enumeration made by the United States Government, and it is very likely that the present one is lower than it should be, though perhaps not as much so as its predecessor. It is evident that the rapid growth of Chicago during the last decade will be equaled, if not surpassed, by its progress between 1880 and 1890. Everything indicates that the real population of Chicago at the present time is not less than 580,000.

FREEMAN'S IMPRESSIONS OF AMERICA.

Mr. Edward A. Freeman has embodied certain results of his observations during his late tour in America in an article for the Fortnightly Review. The title of the paper is "Some Impressions of the United States." We wish it were proper or polite to supplement Mr. Freeman's recollections of the United States by "Some Impressions of Edward A. Freeman," which were left on the minds of his hosts and entertainers in this country, particularly in Cincinnati. But as this cannot be permitted it may be profitable to learn what so civil a person as Prof. Edward A. Freeman may think of the New World. It was this same Mr. Freeman who wrote during the dark hours of our Civil War a book entitled, we believe, "A History of Democracy from the Achæan League to the Dissolution of the American Republic." It was his misfortune to live to see the falsification of his "too previous" work.

Whatever prepossessions the reader may have formed against Prof. Freeman it must be admitted that this Fortnightly article is singularly acute and well reasoned. Merely as a specimen of good English style it is worth looking into. Faultless style is now too often the only virtue of English review articles; but this charge cannot justly be brought against Prof. Freeman. He has much to say that, apart from the manner in which it is said, will arrest attention. He fears that anything he can say of the United States will be "frightfully one-sided," but his impressions do not justify the apprehension. He was thrown mainly among men whose thoughts and pursuits had some likeness to his own. He lived "chiefly with Professors, lawyers, a sprinkling of statesmen, men of thought and information of various kinds"—like himself, as he modestly says. The pushing, meddling, inquisitive American he did not meet.

He was much bored by being taken to see schools. "Some people, I know not why, seemed to think that I had something to do with schools, or at least that I took some special interest in schools. But I was spared the more fearful grind of going through factories, prisons, hospitals, with all the weariness of an inexpert." So it appears Mr. Edward Freeman does not care about methods of public education, or the punishment and reformation of criminals, or the treatment of the sick. What are such trifling matters as these in comparison with the Achæan League?

What most struck Mr. Freeman in America was how little the country differed from his own. The United States did not seem to him a foreign country; it was simply England with a difference. The difference was somewhat greater than that between the northern and southern counties of England, but less than that between England and Scotland. In speech the difference was much less, both as to parts of England and Scotland.

"It is only in the nature of things," Mr. Freeman goes on to say, "that every American should in his heart value British good opinion more fondly than any other. American dislike toward England—when it is really felt, and not put in simply to catch Irish votes—is something quite different from the forms of national ill-feeling to which we are used at home. It is unlike either the old-fashioned English dislike to France or the new-fashioned dislike to Russia. In this last kind of dislike there is mingled a certain feeling of contempt, of very unjust contempt in both cases, but still of genuine contempt. This is the natural weakness of an old nation, above all of an insular nation. The natural feeling of a young nation is the exact opposit. Such a nation must be touchy; it must be inquisitive. It cannot help caring for the opinion of other nations, above all for the opinion of its own ancient motherland. And if such a nation, truly or untruly, fancies itself slighted, misrepresented, misunderstood, if it fails to meet with sympathy where it seeks for sympathy, the result may easily be a dislike which is possibly real—a contempt which is certainly artificial."

Americans who read the reflections of Mr. Freeman on this head will at first be profoundly irritated; but afterwards, if they are at all disposed to be fair, they must admit that there is much force in what he says. Dislike of England is perhaps more generally felt than he imagines even by those who care nothing for the Irish vote, but contempt of England no man who has eyes in his head and has skimmed the history of the world in the last hundred years can honestly entertain. Why was it that the whole nation was especially moved by Queen Victoria's messages of sympathy and condolence during the illness and after the death of President Garfield? It was not because she was a woman or Queen—for respect for rank, at least, is not ingrained in the American nature. It was because she was the official head of the English people, for whose good opinion and kind feelings we care more than for those of any other people in the world. They are, after all, as Mr. Gladstone expressed it, "our kin beyond seas." We came from the same stock, speak the same language, have the same literature, and enjoy the same essential principles of free government. Much as we may hate and condemn English policy in Ireland, or Africa, or Asia, and denounce her brutal, grasping, and selfish methods of political and commercial conquest, we know that in power, glory, greatness, and intellectual and moral advancement she is in the front rank of nations. She was a cruel mother to America, but since America has an establishment of her own she can afford to forget much and to remember what otherwise would better be forgotten—the ties of blood-relationship.

There is less difference between the American and English laws than between those of Scotland and England. Our laws and modes of procedure are borrowed from England. In some instances we have faithfully preserved imperfections and blemishes that were removed in the mother-country long ago. The wonderful repetitions and contradictions in the indictment of Guiteau, for example, belong to a past stage of English jurisprudence. As our Government in some respects is a petrifaction of the English Government as it was 100 years ago, so the laws of criminal procedure in many States are a Chinese-like copy of the old English practice, faults and all, as it was when the Declaration of Independence was made. England has changed all that; but America seems to prefer the obsolete English practice, and, in effect, to hold that what was good enough for the old country 100 years ago is good enough for the new country now.

THE COMIC REVISION.

A few days ago THE TRIBUNE called the attention of the health officers to the mass of unripe and rotten fruit offered for sale in this market, the consumption of which is in part the cause of the increase in the death rate, especially among children. It is now stated that the city authorities recognize the fact that this stuff ought to be seized and destroyed, but feel unsafe in doing anything, because there is no law for the condemnation of spoiled fruit, though there is for that of bad meat, fish, and vegetables. They say they are authorized to lay violent hands on a bad cucumber, but a decayed banana is beyond their jurisdiction. It seems upon examination that the city ordinances do not, in terms, permit the seizure of fruits which are unfit for food. To give the reason for this is to repeat an old story. A jobbing Council hired a man to make a revision or codification of the ordinances, and paid him several thousand dollars for it. The result of his labors was an extraordinary production which bears about as close a resemblance to Tuley's admirable compilation as the comic Blackstone does to the original law-book. Whatever ought to be in is out, and many things which ought to be out are in. The bright way in which the law for the prevention of the erection of frame buildings was nullified by knocking out all the penalties is well known; and there are several other instances of the jolly, humorous way in which the reviser treated his subject. About once a week one of these extraordinary "outs" is discovered, the last one being that in reference to bad fruit.

The officers of the Health Department now say that if they seize this stuff they render themselves liable to suits for damages, although no jury will ever convict an officer whose offense is preventing the sale of refuse. It is impossible to cure the defective ordinance at present, the Council being scattered from Dan to Beersheba; but there seems to be no reason why the authorities cannot, where there is no question as to the character of the fruit—where it is unmistakably bad—lay hands on it, and carry it off, even though not expressly authorized by the Comic Revision. The main thing to be done is to prevent this noxious stuff being eaten and poisoning ignorant people. The increased mortality among children in Chicago is shown by the daily reports printed in this paper, and is being unfavorably commented upon by the press of other cities. We fancy that Dr. De Wolf can find some way to meet the emergency and to save the children.

LOVE AT EIGHTY-TWO.

The Nemesis of a breach-of-promise case is the publicity given to the mutual confidences expressed in the heyday of love when the world is seen through a sort of glamourous veil, prismatic in tint, and the lovers appear to each other in all the tempting garb which this illusion throws about them. The communications which pass between them catch the same prismatic hues and glow with a generous warmth of rhetoric which never kindles up in other epistolary moods, and abound in amorous exaggerations and passionate idealizations which in after years, when they are taken up cold and flabby, and illusions have changed into realities, make the writers question their own sanity at the time. There is another peculiar feature of this publicity. When these written sentiments are spread abroad in all the cold and inflexible rigidity of print, sandwiched in between the details of the Egyptian crisis and the fluctuations of the grain market, every reader has to regard them as something very funny and absurd, and yet the most pedantic, phlegmatic, and dried-up old citizen wrote just such letters at some period in his life, and if they were put in print he would be horrified at the reminder of his former rhapsodies, and soul-soarings, and heart-yearnings, and every one in the community would be on the broad grin over his letters. Who can explain this seeming paradox—this proclivity to laugh at the same folly in others of which we have all been guilty? When the bold betrayer is an old man, as not infrequently happens, and his letters become public property, the laughter is all the more uproarious upon the broad grounds that there is "no fool like an old fool."

Assuming the grounds to be correct, the old fool has been found in Cincinnati, and that sooty, dirty city under the hills is stretching its huge mouth in a universal guffaw over the O. F.'s letters, which have turned up in a breach-of-promise case, the parties to which are well known. The plaintiff is Mrs. Fred Hassaurek, late wife of the editor of the Volksblatt, a gentleman who has held various positions of honor and importance under the United State Government. Their married life was not congenial and a separation took place some time ago by mutual agreement, and while Mrs. Hassaurek was seeking a divorce the defendant appears urging her on under promises of marriage and suggestions that he was rich in love for her and in the worldly goods of Mammon. The defendant is Gov. I. Morton—why "Governor" does not appear—a fat old gentleman of Cambridge, O., weighing 225 pounds, 82 years of age, and hardly able to move his unwieldy avoirdupois. With age and weight against him, the Governor plunged into love like a giddy youth, and indited epistles which would not do discredit to the most youthful and lusty Adonis feeling the ecstatic pains of love for the first time, which was not the case with the frisky old gentleman, as the fires in his heart have been covered many a long year, and this outburst is but a blowing up of embers into fresh flame. Alas! in an evil day the flame died away, and when the time came for him to redeem his promises of matrimony, he failed to come to the scratch, whereupon Mrs. Hassaurek instituted suit, and the tender epistles appeared in print, convicting him with cold rhetoric and warmed-up poetry.

A glance at his letters will show how ardently the universal fire may burn, even on an octogenarian shrine. At all times she is addressed as a "cricket," with various prefatory adjectives of endearment, such as a "Dear Cricket," or a "Darling Cricket," or a "Sweetest Cricket," or a "Sweetheart Cricket," but strangely enough never as a chirping cricket. He always recognizes his age and infirmities, but with the feeling that the Cricket will make compensation for them, for in his first letter he says:

> To know I have but you shall be my solace, and although I stump through life on cane and crutch I shall keep a brave heart. For "your smiles shall be the halos of Heaven, shedding sunshine of love on my face."

In the same letter he drops into poetry, like Silas Wegg: "Your dead image is with me. 'Time but the impression stronger makes, as streams their channels deeper wear.'" In his next epistle he feels an apprehension lest he may be deserted for some younger suitor, but how bravely the old fellow bears up against it:

> My only fears are that you may change in your love and forget, or rather cast me off for some younger and perhaps more deserving than I of that sweet love which has become so essential to my life, my pleasures, my all of happiness on earth. If that time shall come may I never know it, may I never dream it, but die still believing my Cricket the same.

On the 28th of January last the old fellow was lonesome, and he writes:

> All my surroundings are touched with the roseate fingers of love. I am like the anchorite with his rosary in his lonely cell when he counts his "Ave Marias," "Pater Nosters," and concludes his "Gloria Patris," and in my devotion of love I weave a chaplet of love with which I crown my heart to you, my darling, and devote all, my dear, to your service.

A few days later he drops into poetry again, and declares that when the time comes he "shall be one of the happy mortals of this sublunary sphere," and

> Earth holds no other like to thee,
> Or, if it does, in vain for me.

All the letters close with protestations of love to the Cricket—that Cricket, alas, which will not chirp on his hearth, and with much mathematical precision he dispatches on every occasion but one just 1,000 kisses. The one exception is on the 16th of last February, when he daintily observes: "I put a secret kiss under the postage stamp for my darling Cricket," with a postscript to the effect that the Cricket is "the light of his life." Alas for the hidden kiss, couched behind the benignant features of the Father of his Country and punched by the hands of rude postal-clerks on its way to the Cricket—canceled not only on the mute envelope, unconscious of the freight it carried, but now canceled by the Cricket herself and lost forever.

We need not dwell upon the details of these fond effusions. We only put in a closing protest in behalf of the old gentleman. If young fools may rhapsodize, why may not old fools? If a 20-year-old may pour out his soul on paper when he feels the sacred flame, why may not an 80-year-old when he feels the flames making their way up through the cold ashes, warming them with their cheering heat? Why should he not be tempted to give expression to them in the old way? May he not himself have been deceived? If he has followed an ignis fatuus instead of the true light, leading him into morasses instead of to the chirping little Cricket singing in the thicket, is he not to be pitied rather than exposed to ridicule? Had he been younger, more lively, and sounder he might have followed the Cricket and won the prize; but, alas! he was old, short-winded, and fat, and soon tired in the chase. He may have to pay roundly for the Cricket he has not caught, but he is entitled to the credit of having made a good run while he was at it, and remembering what we have all written ourselves let us not be too hard upon the Governor, who mistook a snapping ember for a full-sized conflagration, nor relegate to ridicule what we should have doted upon had they been penned by Rousseau or Lamartine instead of the Cambridge Governor.

A CORRESPONDENT says that the cable-cars on State street are making slower time than was formerly made by the horse-cars; that the popular interest in these cars was centered chiefly in the hope of more rapid transit, and if they fail in this particular they will come to be regarded with more disfavor than ever. The correspondent is not correct in his starting-point. The rate of speed is slightly faster than that of the old horse-cars. It was much more rapid for a time, but owing to the frequent accidents, which were by some attributed to this very rapidity, the company fell back on slower speed. Had the cars never run at as fast a rate—eight miles an hour on part of the State street line—the present complaint would never be made. As soon as the automatic brake which is now introducing is perfected and is applied to all the cars the speed will, however, be slightly increased over what it is at present. The present complaint illustrates the difficulties under which the company labors—abused because it ran fast, and blamed because it runs slow.

A LETTER in the St. Louis Republican from Naples says that the City of Florence, Italy, is probably the best paved and cleanest city in the world. In reckless, easy-going Naples, where rags and riches, hunger and plenty, and honesty and thievery seem to live in such pleasant, promiscuous fellowship, the system of prim cleanliness and faultless order fall short of the high Florentine standard, but the street-paving itself is almost as good. The letter continues:

> The material most used in Naples is lava, which, after its issue in a melted condition from the crater of Vesuvius, near by, becomes a grayish stone, compact and hard as granit, apparently. It is cut with precision into large blocks, all of equal dimensions, and is well laid in sand on undercushions of macadam. With the edges of the paving-blocks so close-fitting, and their dressed surfaces so free from projections, the street-beds in Naples are often as smooth as the marble house-walls that line them at either side. I had seen such pavements before only in Florence and Pisa, where the carriage-wheels roll like on a billiard-table. With us, in St. Louis, such pavements would be impracticable, especially during winter. There, however, the horses are accustomed to them, and rattle about at a break-neck pace without accident; and there are neither ice nor snow in winter to make them more slippery. Besides, the Neapolitans vary their street-paving freely according to the changing local requirements. In streets of uneven grade the broad flagstones on ascents are grooved transversely to secure the better foothold; and where the rise is yet more abrupt this pavement is set aside altogether for small blocks, like those we use, and not infrequently for macadam. The stone curbing to the sidewalks, here as in Florence and other Italian cities, varies in thickness from ten to fourteen inches. It is set with great care and solidity, and that the huge blocks may remain forever immovable they are prepared and fitted closely together at the meeting ends with a projecting half-round and a fitting hollowed half-round respectively. They never sink nor bulge out of line. The love of the beautiful, it would seem, does not abandon the artistic Neapolitan even in the sterile construction of a street. Where the smaller stones are used the road-bed is often embellished with combinations of circular, square, diamond, and diagonal settings, and the effect is not unpleasing.

Anent Poetry.

In consequence of queries from various poetical contributors, the following statements are made:

Long poems are not likely to be printed in THE TRIBUNE. An extreme length is forty lines; and half that is a desirable limit.

Dialect poems are not wanted. The leisure of the average newspaper-reader is too scant to be wasted in deciphering broken English.

Obituary poetry will not be published unless the subject of the verse be of considerable popular note. A paper which should give unrestricted insertion to "In Memoriams" would soon be completely overwhelmed with woful effusions. The mass of obituary poetry should, if printed at all, appear under the head of "Deaths," subject to the advertising rates governing that department of the paper.

Poems in reply to other poems are not admissible—controversies in prose being bad enough. The same rule applies to poetry paying compliments to poets. It is a waste of space, as the average poet needs no praise to convince him that his rhymes are excellent.

Because one poem by any individual is printed, it does not follow that all others, or any other, poems sent in by him will see the light. In the first place, the author of a passable poem rarely—and very frequently never—achieves another success in that line; and, secondly, there are so many poets seeking publicity that it is not fair to allow all the available space to be monopolized by rhymesters whose only claim to preference lies in the fact of their having been lucky enough to get into print before. Of course a good poem is a good poem whoever writes it; and a dozen good poems from one writer are infinitly preferable to a dozen—or a thousand—poor poems from any number of writers.

Translations from poets of other languages are usually of little worth—it is so difficult to preserve the spirit of the original; and, besides, the person who can do a good job in translating poetry can in all probability do a better one in writing poetry out of his own head. There are two poems especially which should be eschewed by the translator—"The Erl-King" and "The Pilgrimage to Kevlaar": their translations have become as great a bore as the piano-pounders' "Battle of Prague" and "Maiden's Prayer."

Rejected poems cannot be held for, or returned to, the writers. Waste-baskets are more capacious, more accessible, and more easily emptied than desk-drawers and pigeon-holes. Any one at all desirous of preserving his metrical essays should not grudge the time necessary to make copies of them.

Never say, in sending in a poem, that, however poor its merits, it is as good in quality as some other poems which have been published. Such a statement is very apt to be incorrect; and, even if bad verses have heretofore been admitted into type, it would not better the matter to print more of the same stamp.

Quite a number of people copy the poetry of others and send it in as their own. These gentry should be careful not to steal too good an article, because a really fine poem sent in by an unknown contributor is likely to arouse strong suspicion at once as to its originality.

Poetry on current events is generally bosh. It requires a master to throw the true poetic glamour over an occurrence of yesterday or last week. The ordinary treatment of such topics is vilely commonplace.

There are some writers who wish to make "arrangements to furnish poetry regularly." Lack of space is a sufficient objection to such "arrangements"; to say nothing of the fact that there are very few—if any—composers who can "regularly" write poetry that is all of it worthy of publication. And, if lavish writing cause the few good poets to fall frequently into mediocrity, what must be its sad effect upon the innumerable poets who are not good?

To conclude: Some poets wish to know the reasons for the rejection of their contributions. Poetry is too abundant, and life too short, to permit of any such explanations being made.

GEN. SKOBELEFF was interviewed shortly before his death by M. Fryze, a Polish journalist, to whom the General said: "The Germans are the enemies both of the Russians and the Poles. We have enough men to overrun and destroy at least a part of Germany. The Germans have more to lose than we have, and we can therefore do them more harm than they can do us. The Russian soldier, too, is more hardy than the German, and can afford to remain longer with the colors. The German artisan or agricultural laborer must leave his factory or his fields; and if he were away from them for more than a year the factory would be ruined and the harvest would be lost. A war in Germany, if it lasted long enough, would end in a social revolution. The Emperor William has been very kind to me, but he should not call me ungrateful because I see that a war between Russia and Germany is inevitable. Je ne suis pas ingrat; je suis Russe."

THE Philadelphia Inquirer says: "The proposition to forbid printing in the Congressional Record any speeches except those delivered on the floor of Congress is being pretty generally commended by thoughtless newspapers whose editors have not considered the subject carefully. There are always a great many members anxious to speak on every important bill—a great many more than can be heard without wearying the House and prolonging the session to an unreasonable length; but they are all entitled to a hearing, and the only way to avoid difficulty is to let a certain number speak and give the rest 'leave to print.' Much valuable time is saved in this way, and yet the session is too long. So far from shutting off this excellent means of freeing the country from a costly flood of oratory, then, a better plan would be to extend the provisions of this act and make it universal; that is, make it obligatory to print all speeches in the Congressional Record, and let the proceedings in both Houses be confined exclusively to voting. This would be found an economical method for the Government, as saving a vast amount of time, and would also tend to sustain the dignity of the Nation; for, of course, the Record would have to be so far edited as to provide for a careful revision of the speeches of Messrs. Cox and Butterworth."

NEW YORK Herald: Ex-Gov. Seymour says that the canals should be as free as the rivers, and his position is impregnable. Rivers are improved at the public expense, but tolls are never levied upon those who avail themselves of these means of transportation. The only individual expense incident to river-improvements consists in the proportion of taxes paid by the men who own boats or any of the property that the boats transport. A State that endures its share of River and Harbor bill taxation should not grumble at the expense of honestly maintaining a canal that is constantly adding to the prosperity of every taxpayer.

THE "Gee Hing" is a secret Chinese organization which has no smaller aim than the overthrow of the present dynasty. How many members it has enrolled nobody not belonging to it knows, but enough of them live in Philadelphia to hold a conclave with considerable noise and enthusiasm. Such a meeting assembled Sunday evening and took sufficient interest in the proceedings to make a night of it. Several new members were initiated with various complicated ceremonies, which included the display of flags, mystic symbols, and much discordant singing.

THERE has been discovered at the Nevada State Prison what is considered a great "find." The marks of the sandaled foot of a human being and the marks of the track of a mammoth have been found in the same piece of sandstone, or upon the same level, showing that man and mammoth lived not only in the same age, but in the same year. The marks were found at a depth of fifteen feet, on what is supposed to have been at the time the marks were made the border of a lake, where the man went to fish and the mammoth to drink.

THE most dangerous of the vegetable poisons at this season of the year are the hemlocks (including the hemlock-dropwort, water-hemlock, and the common hemlock), fool's parsley, monkshood, foxglove, black hellebore, or Christmas rose, buckbran, henbane, thorn-apple, and deadly nightshade. In a case of vegetable poisoning, says Knowledge, "Emetics (the sulphate of zinc, if procurable) should be used at once, and the back of the throat tickled with a feather.

and copious draughts of tepid water taken to excite and promote vomiting. Where these measures fail, the stomach-pump must be used. Neither ipecacuanha nor tartar-emetic should be used to cause vomiting, as during the nausea they produce before vomiting is excited the poison is more readily absorbed. Vinegar must not be given until the poisonous matter has been removed, but afterward it may be given in doses of a wineglassful, one part vinegar to two parts water, once every two hours in mild cases, but oftener—to half-hourly doses —in cases of greater severity. Where there is stupor, the patient should be kept walking about, and if the stupor is great cold water may be dashed over the head and chest. Strong coffee may be used where the narcotic effect of the poisoning is very marked. It is all-important that in cases of vegetable poisoning a medical man should be sent for at once."

THE great English ironclad Inflexible has a tonnage of 11,406 tons; her engines are of 8,000 horse-power; her armor ranges in thickness from sixteen to twenty-four inches; and her four 81-ton guns hurl 1,700-pound shot to a distance of nine miles. Two weeks ago a return was submitted to Parliament showing the actual cost of building the vessel and completing her for sea service. The total cost was £809,594—or say $4,000,000—of which £589,481 were expended on the hull.

A SUCCESSOR to the oyster, the extinction of which is from time to time predicted, has been found in Washington Territory, in the shape of a huge soft-shell clam. The new aspirant to gastronomic favor, when dug out of its home, is said to resemble a plump duck. The edges of the shell are separated by a breast of flesh, which is cut into slices, rolled in meal, and fried —the flavor being equal to the best oyster, while the meat is very tender and juicy.

A TROY shopkeeper thought he was playing a huge joke on at least two persons, the other night, when he carried a fruit-stand from in front of his own store to an acquaintance's shop two blocks away. But he did not laugh when, later in the night, he was awakened by a policeman and compelled, in the presence of several persons, to carry the stand back to its place, on penalty of immediate arrest.

ACCORDING to the official statement of the trade of the United Kingdom for 1881 the value of the imports amounted to £397,022,489 and the exports to £297,082,775, making a total of £694,105,264. The imports from foreign countries amounted to £305,482,829, and from British possessions to £91,539,660. The value of the exports to foreign countries amounted to £210,401,583, and to British possessions to £86,681,192.

THE Beaconsfield memorial fund has been more than secured; there are surplus funds amounting to between £2,000 and £3,000. It has been determined to use a portion of the surplus for a picture of Lord Beaconsfield to be hung in the National Portrait Gallery, London. Meanwhile the statue, for which the fund was raised, is nearly ready, and will soon be erected in Parliament Square.

IT is fair to conclude from the following advertisement which lately appeared in the Cayuga Chief, published at Weedsport, that meat is high in Western New York: "Wanted—A gentleman desires to find a partner with capital to assist him in the purchase of a beefsteak. One who owns a frying-pan and a piece of pork preferred."

THE Richmond (Va.) Central Presbyterian has come to this conclusion: "Mr. Emerson was dreaming all his life and writing his dreams in hieroglyphics that cannot be interpreted. He was a huge shadow on our modern literature, and has left behind him nothing but a vague impression of perverted power.

"You are sad, Myrtle."

The dead leaves were being blown ruthlessly across the lawn by the gusty October winds that sweep over St. Louis, while across the sky leaden clouds whose darksome front betokened a coming storm were hurrying as if in mad haste. Holding her little head against his heart, George W. Simpson saw the sun go down in the reddened west and the shadows of night steal swiftly across the face of a desolate earth.

"Yes," replied Myrtle, looking up trustfully into the glad dark eyes of the only man she had ever loved. "Yes, my darling, it has been such a dull, dark day, with grieving skies, with the sodden, dead leaves falling and wreaths of ghastly mist drifting about. I have been thinking of you all day, sweetheart, only I have not been here at all, but away, away. I hardly know where. Only in the land where my footsteps have lingered I never cried for love that did not come, nor felt hungered for love's own gifts, nor felt lonely, nor desolate, nor afraid. Because beneath the turquoise skies of my mystical dreamland, in the rose-laden air, love was always with me—love with strong arms and clinging kisses and deathless tenderness. And I knew no sorrow, nor loneliness, nor heartbreak. I was happy and content, and joyous forever."

George pressed the lithe form more closely to him, as if in fear that some unseen mysterious power might suddenly take from him the one he loved so well. For an instant he did not speak; and then turning away so that his words should not reach Myrtle's ears, he said in low bitter tones:

"God help and keep my loved one. She has evidently been dreaming about Chicago."—From "An Arabian Night," by Murat Halstead.

John Quincy Adams was never known to be late during all his long service in Congress. One time, just as the clock struck, a member asked the Speaker if it was not time to call the House to order. "No," he answered, "Mr. Adams is not yet in his seat." Just then Mr. Adams appeared and proved that the clock was three minutes fast.

Col. Joseph Burdette Stewart, who died in St. Luke's hospital in New York last Monday, is memorable as the only man in Ford's Theatre who had the presence of mind to pursue the assassin Booth when he rushed across the stage after firing the fatal shot at President Lincoln. Booth rushed past Dundreary, rudely thrust Laura Keene aside, struck with his knife at a man behind the scenes who seemed to be in his way, and reached the stage door into the back alley just in time to shut it behind him in the face of Stuart, who was in hot pursuit. Unfamiliar with the door and in the darkness, Stuart could not get it open until Booth had time to mount his horse and start away. Stuart was a lawyer, born in Kentucky in 1822, an extensive traveler, enjoying a wide circle of friends.

First Congressional District—A Latter-Day Fight on Aldrich.

The situation in the First, or South Side Congressional District, has changed somewhat within a few weeks past. At one time it seemed as if Mr. Aldrich would have the field pretty much to himself, and would get what is known as a walk-away. That period has passed. One candidate is actively in the field against him, another is said to be figuring on his chances of being struck by Congressional lightning, while still another has the advantage of a boom engineered in his absence by his friends and without his knowledge. This, briefly stated, is about the situation of affairs in the First District at this writing.

Irus Coy, of Hyde Park, is the only open candidate against Mr. Aldrich. Mr. Coy has been on the track for Congress before, but never managed to acquire much of a reputation for speed. This time he is on to stay and hopes to make a good running record before the finish. Mr. Coy is the attorney of the Union Stock-Yards Company, and is popularly supposed to have that rather powerful corporation at his back. He is a much younger man than Mr. Aldrich, and his candidature is based not only on his own qualifications for the place, but upon the idea that the district has given Mr. Aldrich three terms, that it owes him no more, and, to use the words of Dan Wrenn, that "he hasn't done enough for the 'boys.'" Mr. Coy, according to this view of the matter, is reckoned as one of the "boys," and his candidacy, therefore, appeals to a certain element in the district, especially in the First Ward, represented by the type just named. Dan Wrenn is a candidate himself. Some time ago he wanted to go to the House, and Arthur Dixon was on the track for the Senate. Arthur is now reported as out of the race, and the elements supporting him are said to have pooled their issues on the burly First Warder. Dan is for Coy and Coy is of course for Dan, and Coy expects to get the delegation from the First Ward. Mr. Coy looks for help from the First for another reason. Two years ago, the Town of Lake supported Ab Taylor for Congress. As one good turn deserves another, the Taylor forces, represented by Dixon and Wrenn, are now for Coy. In addition to the First Ward, Mr. Coy naturally counts upon the Town of Lake and upon Hyde Park, where he lives. State-Senator Condee, who is suspected of a desire to reach Congress some time himself, and who would probably rather not see a new man there until he is the new man, may have something to say as to Hyde Park. He has managed to keep out of the contest pretty well thus far, but is understood to favor Mr. Aldrich. Living near the Fourth Ward, Mr. Coy is rather hopeful of picking up strength in that locality, particularly from the elements opposed to Mr. Aldrich.

But the Fourth Ward may contribute a candidate of its own. William H. Harper, who has been a familiar figure in Republican politics in the ward for years, is said to have Congressional ambition himself, and is undergoing careful grooming for the race. The Fourth Ward, with its large Republican vote, is a power in a convention, and if Mr. Harper should secure the delegation and yet fail to go to Congress himself, he might have considerable to say as to who should go.

Mr. Aldrich will find his most serious opposition, however, in the Third Ward, where he resides. Without that, he could have no show. With it, in addition to his other strength, he will be a formidable candidate. There is an element in the Third Ward which is opposed to Mr. Aldrich on the ground that he has represented the district long enough, and not represented it, perhaps, with as much ability as should characterize the Congressman from the First District of Illinois, and also on account of his position on the Lake-Front bill and the River and Harbor bill. In other parts of the district his position with regard to these two measures would perhaps give him strength. Even the Third Warders are divided on the question. The opposition, however, have organized a movement in favor of ex-Ald. Eugene Cary. Mr. Cary has been away for several weeks in the neighborhood of Lake Superior. He returned a day or two ago, and when a TRIBUNE reporter saw him yesterday and told him what was going on, he said it was all news to him, that he had never considered the subject, and that if anything had been done in the matter it was entirely without his knowledge, and he fervently hoped THE TRIBUNE would not even mention his name. THE TRIBUNE cheerfully gives him the benefit of his disclaimer, but at the same time warns him that the movement is going on. Should it prevail, Mr. Aldrich might as well give up all hopes of a fourth term, for a candidate without his own ward back of him is distanced at the start. In case Mr. Aldrich carries the Third Ward, however—and his friends are confident that he will, as he has done on previous occasions—his chances are decidedly worth having. The country towns are expected to come up for him as usual, and the same element that is for him in the Third Ward is expected to reach over into the Fourth and bring it into line. The Second Ward will probably be for him. It was carried against him two years ago by E. R. Bliss and others for Capt. White. The situation is reversed this year. Capt. White is an out-and-out Aldrich man, and the workers of two years ago are not disposed to fight Aldrich, against whom they have nothing personally, simply for the sake of fighting him, especially when there is a prospect of their being "left" in the convention, as they were two years ago.

Mr. Aldrich has not yet returned from Washington, but is expected daily. When he arrives he will no doubt take the field in person and enter upon a vigorous canvass. His main fight, it will be seen, promises to take place in his own dooryard, so to speak, and the present indications seem to be that it will not be lacking in interest.

Third Congressional District—A Very Much Muddled Contest—Entangling Alliances—Calculating the Chances.

The complications over in the Third District are becoming more and more perplexing. The supposed strength of the several candidates in the respective wards is still a matter of general discussion among the politicians and the people of this district generally; but the main interest centres in the preliminary moves soon to be made. The Congressional District Committee was to have met last evening, but it was decided, in view of absences from the city and to meet the convenience of some of the members, to postpone the meeting until next Thursday evening. Mr. M. A. Morse, the member from the Twelfth Ward, is one of the candidates. Mr. Morse doesn't want to take any advantage of his competitors, and has come to the conclusion that, under the circumstances, he will best observe the proprieties by resigning. A nice question has arisen as to who shall be his successor and how he shall be appointed. Mr. Morse will probably ask to be allowed to name a proxy. Several of the committee have as yet been unable to see how that would make any great difference, and are inclined to refer the matter to the Central Club of the Twelfth Ward, with a request that it fill the prospective vacancy. Others insist that Mr. Morse has the undoubted right to name his proxy, and still others that the committee itself has the power to fill vacancies. The prime object of the meeting is to settle this little question, but in addition to this it will probably dispose of another and more important one—namely: the calling of the Congressional Convention.

The conundrum most frequently asked nowadays is, "When shall it be held?" Col. Davis, who has just returned from Washington, is in no hurry about it, and is understood to favor a late convention—say the last of September or the 1st of October, as has been the custom for several years. The other candidates favor an earlier settlement of the dispute. In this they cannot really be said to be taking any undue advantage of Col. Davis.

Although he has but just returned, everybody knows that his workers—and they are some of the best in the district—have been plowing the field for weeks, and that the Colonel himself is as fully posted on the lay of the land as though he had been here in person all the while. The County Convention will probably be held on or about the 10th of October, and the idea is strongly advocated of holding the Congressional and getting it out of the way about a month before. Should this be done the primaries will probably be held Monday, Sept. 4, and the convention Tuesday, Sept. 5.

The next question of interest relates to the Twelfth Ward primaries. Col. Davis, in spite of his alleged indifference, would rather take his chances at one mass primary than at nine primaries in as many precincts. There has been and is some question as to just what Mr. Morse does want, but the general impression is that he desires the precinct primaries. There is still more doubt as to the complexion of the committee on this matter. Four of the members have been supposed to favor the precinct-primary system if the ward, through its committeeman, asks for it. One of them is a rather doubtful quantity, however, and his vote would make all the difference in the world. Still the committee is pretty apt, on general principles, to do what the Twelfth Ward member asks. The committee is the only organization which represents the voters of the district. A committeeman is supposed to voice the sentiment of his ward, and the feeling that an organization can be best preserved by granting what the ward representatives ask is always a strong one, and is likely to prevail in this case.

More or less intimately connected with the Congressional contest is the question as to when the Senatorial Conventions in the First and Fourth Senatorial Districts shall be held. Possibly the Congressional candidates may, as they claim, have no hand whatever in a movement inaugurated during the past week to get the Senatorial Conventions in those two districts out of the way before the Congressional. If there were a trade between Congressman Davis and George White, by which the former wanted the Tenth Ward delegation in the Congressional Convention in return for a White delegation from the Ninth Ward in the Senatorial Convention, the natural supposition is that Col. Davis would much rather have the Congressional Convention first and the Senatorial afterwards. In this way the ax would be suspended over George White by a hair. If he refused to give Davis the Tenth Ward the hair might give way and the ax might drop. While the other candidates for Congressional and Legislative honors might enjoy the consequences, they would be rough, so to speak, both on Davis and White. Nobody will of course have the hardihood to suggest that there is a trade of this sort, although such things have been known to happen, and are generally excused on the principle that "everything is fair in war and politics." Any attempt to break up a trade of this sort, if any existed, would naturally come from an anti-Davis source. The singular fact about it is, that it comes from both directions—not from the Congressional candidates themselves, but from the Legislative aspirants, some of whom are known to be friendly to Col. Davis, while others are perhaps not so much so.

George White's leading opponent is ex-Senator Francis A. Riddle, of the Eleventh Ward. Mr. Riddle may have his preference for a Congressman, but he is not and has not been engaged in working up anybody's boom. He is sedulously employed, on the contrary, in attending to his own knitting, while Mr. Scrafford, of the same ward, is going around with a moderate amount of feathers and war-paint, in token of his enlistment for the same engagement. Neither is "hollering" for anybody for Congress, and there is a general feeling throughout the Eleventh Ward that the political atmosphere, Senatorially speaking, ought to be cleared of any and all the complications and combinations that might enter into the Congressional contest. Should Mr. Riddle carry the Eleventh, as he expects to do, he believes he will stand an equal chance with White in the Ninth, although White needs all of that ward in addition to his own, and Riddle can get along with less. On the other hand Mr. D. L. Hough, of the Twelfth Ward, who is a candidate for Representative in the Fourth Senatorial District, and who is an avowed friend of Col. Davis, is in favor of calling the Senatorial Convention before the Congressional, in order, as he explained it to a TRIBUNE reporter yesterday, to have the former out of the way as soon as practicable and relieve the candidates of the ante-convention strain and pressure. Several of the other aspirants take the same position, and, according to Mr. Hough, it was simply a candidates' movement for the purpose just stated. On the other hand, there is just a suspicion that Mr. Hough's and Col. Whitney's eagerness for the fray is not entirely disconnected from a feeling that they are perhaps stronger now than they might be later on. There are several other candidates in the district, including John L. Parish and Gen. Robert N. Pearson, the present members, and Messrs. M. E. Cole and J. L. Campbell. Mr. Parish has been out of the city a good deal of late, and some of the others have been industriously plowing the field in his absence. An early primary under such circumstances might easily operate to a candidate's disadvantage, although Mr. Parish expresses his willingness to go before the people of the Twelfth Ward tomorrow, and even then believes he would come out ahead.

The Fourth Senatorial District Committee, in fact, held a meeting yesterday afternoon, or tried to, at the office of John R. Parker in the Bryan Block, and but for the slim attendance would have discussed the question of calling a convention and probably fixed the date. Messrs. Hough, Whitney, and Parish were present, in addition to Messrs. Parker, R. P. Williams, and Frank H. Collier, the committeemen from the Twelfth Ward. The members from the Eleventh Ward, only a small strip of which remains in the new Fourth District, had notified the committee that they did not intend to claim any representation, and the members from the Eighth were absent. The committeemen decided, inasmuch as the Eighth has been cut in two at Taylor street, a part going into the Fourth and a part into the Fifth District, to notify that ward to send two instead of three representatives to an adjourned meeting to be held next Saturday at the same place at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The primaries are not likely to come off, therefore, for at least a couple of weeks. It may be noticed in passing that Mr. Collier, an enthusiastic friend of Mr. Mason, is opposed to an early convention, which he, at least, evidently regards as a Davis move.

The result of the Congressional contest will largely turn, of course, on the result in the Twelfth Ward. If Col. Davis loses all or a large part of that, his chances will not be the best. Said a shrewd, well-posted politician to THE TRIBUNE reporter yesterday: "Mason will get the Eighth, Thirteenth, and Fourteenth Wards, and is figuring on two precincts, or six votes, in the Twelfth. That will give him forty-one votes in the convention. Davis will get the Ninth, Tenth, and Eleventh, and probably ten in the Twelfth. This is on the supposition that the Twelfth holds precinct primaries, and I guess it will. That gives him 39. Morse will get the other five votes in the Twelfth. Mason lacks two votes of a nomination and Davis four. Then the question is, What will become of Morse's five votes? If they are very much anti-Davis—so much so as to discount the objection to throwing the nomination outside of their own ward—they will go to Mason, and that will nominate him, although you will notice he only needs two of them. If the Twelfth Ward feeling predominates, they will go to Davis, and he will be nominated. I'd rather know the men before I'd undertake to say what they'll do."

"Col. Davis' vote on the River and Harbor bill," said another equally well-posted politician, who took a somewhat different view of the matter, "has set a good many people against him who would otherwise have been for him. How will he come out? Well, I figure it in this way. He will get the Ninth and Tenth sure, with a chance at the Eighth, where, I understand, he proposes to make a vigorous contest. The Eighth is likely to go with the Twelfth in the convention, however, no matter how the Twelfth goes, for the reason that the two wards are tied together Senatorially. I give Morse the Twelfth, for if they have precinct primaries it's about a sure thing that he gets away with it. Mason will get the Thirteenth and Fourteenth. In spite of all that has been said to the contrary, Mr. Swett will get the solid delegation from the Eleventh. All the combinations there are in his favor. The convention, after balloting awhile, will get into a deadlock, and Swett will hold the balance of power. Davis would rather let Swett have it than Mason, and Mason would rather let Swett have it than Davis. It's also fair to say, I think, that Swett will be the second choice of the Morse faction. Under the circumstances there is a very good chance, in my opinion, that Leonard Swett may be our next Congressman."

The above are two specimen views, selected from the mass offered on every hand, and are given simply for what they are worth. The preliminary moves on the Congressional chessboard are apt to have an important bearing on the final solution of the problem, however, and before anybody wagers his money on the result he had best wait and see who draws first blood.

Congressman Davis.

Col. George R. Davis arrived home last evening from Washington, and he had no more than arrived at his unpretentious little domicile, at No. 142 Hoyne avenue, than he was crowded upon with callers. He had barely time to get his supper or get acquainted with his family, so great was the rush. The visitors kept coming and going, so that the reception was kept up until a late hour. Among the callers was a TRIBUNE reporter, who grasped his chances of asking questions between the intervals of hand-shaking.

"So you are home again at last," said THE TRIBUNE man.

"I am here," responded Mr. Davis.

"Fences much out of repair?"

"I don't know. I haven't had time to catch my breath since I got home."

"I suppose you found some rails off, and the bars down, and a few intruders in your pasture?"

"Say, young man, you talk in riddles. I have just got back from my work. I was in Washington attending to business."

"What are your chances for a reëlection?"

"I hadn't bothered myself to find out. I had all that I could attend looking to the interests of the people I represent in Congress, and the matter of a reëlection I left for the people to settle."

"I suppose you will attend to that now?"

"If my fences need repairing I suppose that I will have to go to work and repair them."

"Don't you think that the session of Congress was sweetness long drawn out?"

"I think that the session was a long one, but it was not the fault of Congress; it was the fault of their selection of Speaker, and it was his peculiar make-up of the committees that delayed us so long. I presume that Mr. Keifer did his best to select the strongest men, in a party sense, upon the committees. The trouble was he put new men on committees upon which they had never served. It takes time to learn to legislate intelligently, and it took these men time to get posted in order to work understandingly. The present Congress did well, considering everything."

"You voted for the River and Harbor bill?"

"Yes, sir, and I am willing to defend that vote."

"Upon what grounds, please?"

"Upon the grounds, sir, that I am in favor of internal improvements. The present River and Harbor bill exceeds that of the last session by something over $8,000,000. This is made up almost entirely in appropriations made for the Mississippi River and the Potomac Flats. Taking out these two items the bill is not larger than the increase of the business or the population of the country demands at this time. I take it that the Engineer Department and that members of Congress are as honest in making their recommendations and setting forth the necessity for works in other parts of the country as are those who set forth the necessities of Chicago, the second greatest commercial point in the United States. The estimates called for an expenditure of $35,000,000, which the Engineer Department said was required, and which could be usefully expended during the current fiscal year.

WE SUCCEEDED IN SECURING

an appropriation for Chicago of $200,000; in about that or less proportion have most all of the appropriations been made—that is, the estimate made by the department for the present fiscal year was something over $30,000,000, and that was reduced to $18,000,000. Now, as every dollar of this appropriation is to be expended under the direction of the Secretary of War, it was believed that it was better to pass the bill which the committee worked on more than four months, although it was possible that the money might not be expended this year, than to make it one-half of the bill, as passed, from the fact that it may not be necessary to prepare another like appropriation bill at the coming short session. The money is not required to be expended during the present fiscal year. There is a balance on hand now of last year's Harbor and River bill appropriation of several millions. I regard the bill as being a proper one, and no greater than the needs of the country required, take it all in all, under the circumstances."

"Then why did the President veto the bill?"

"Because he regarded some of the items of the bill as not being of a National character, and that it was more money than could be judiciously expended during the present fiscal year."

"Was not that argument a good one?"

"As I have stated, it is not necessary to make an injudicious expenditure of money during the present year, and I did not notice anything that was more objectionable than some of the very items that were recommended by the President."

"What do you think of the appropriation for the Mississippi levees?"

"That appropriation was strongly recommended by the President in a special message, and by most of the people in the Southwest. I do not believe that it should have been included in this bill, nor the filling of the Potomac flats. The only constitutional authority that can be brought forth to sustain either of the appropriations must be in that article of the Constitution which provides for protecting the National welfare. They are not in the interest of navigation or of the commerce between the States, and I thought that they should have been reported in a separate bill or bills. The building of levees is for the protection of the people and the reclaiming of lands. A levee is not required until the river overflows its banks. Then there is plenty of water for navigation. A levee to be useful must be located from one-fourth to one-half mile from the banks of the stream. I do not believe that it is possible to dike the river and confine it to one channel. I have seen the Mississippi River sixty miles wide for hundreds of miles, and I believe that more outlets than one will be required."

"What is your opinion of the chances of the Republicans getting the next Congress?"

"I think that the Republicans certainly will secure it."

"Do you get your information through the Congressional Committee?"

"Mostly. The committee has a complete record of the condition of affairs in each district, and the indications point strongly to Republican success."

THE TWO PER CENT ASSESSMENT.

"Do you approve of your committee assessing 2 per cent on salaries of Government employés?"

"They make no such assessment. Prior to 1868 moneys were paid to Congressmen, to committees, and to individuals, representing themselves authorized to receive money for campaign purposes, and much of it was said to have been diverted from the uses for which it was contributed. Under the instruction of such men as the late Zach Chandler, a Congressional Committee was organized, consisting exclusively of members of Congress and Senators, who advised all parties, Government employés and others, that any money which they desired to contribute for campaign purposes, such as securing campaign documents, speakers, and work of that kind, should be sent to the Congressional Committee, and it would be legitimately expended. Since the time the committee has been in existence, such moneys as they have received have been, and are, expended in this way. Circulars were sent to all, but no one is compelled to contribute, and that is the long and short of it."

Congressman Springer.

The Hon. William M. Springer, Representative in Congress from the Springfield District, arrived in Chicago early yesterday morning, and spent the greater part of the day in attending to private business and eluding reporters. Notwithstanding the honorable gentleman's adroitness in the latter direction a TRIBUNE reporter cornered him on the Chicago & Alton train as he was leaving for his home near Springfield. Although apparently preoccupied with the formulation of the report which he will make to his constituency of his conduct during the tedious session just closed, the gentleman courteously granted the reporter a brief interview upon various topics concerning himself and the great Nation, a portion of which he modestly represents.

A number of readers of THE TRIBUNE having had their curiosity excited regarding the significance of the decoration recently bestowed upon Mr. Springer by the President of Venezuela, the reporter made inquiry in that direction. Mr. Springer said that shortly before the close of the session he had received a letter from the President of the Venezuelan Republic thanking him for his very able efforts in the Forty-fourth Congress in exposing the fraudulent allowance of $1,250,000 of claims brought against that Government by irresponsible persons. Mr. Springer briefly reviewed the history of the case, which is that a commission, which was known as the "Mixed Commission," was appointed, consisting of a representative from Spain, the United States, and Russia, to adjudicate upon the claims mentioned; that the commission reported favoring the allowance of the claims, and that it was subsequently proven that Talmage, the American member, had received $37,000, and that the other two members had received $25,000 each for their report. Mr. Springer exposed these facts, which led to the downfall of Fish, the Consul to that country. He also stoutly protested against the payment of the claims, which finally resulted in a report from the Committee on Foreign Affairs, made lately, in favor of a new commission to adjudicate upon the claims which Mr. Springer and the Venezuelan Government regard as fraudulent. And the gentleman thinks there is no doubt a

NEW COMMISSION WILL BE APPOINTED.

With a view of expressing the gratitude of the Government toward Mr. Springer for his untiring efforts in its behalf, the President of the Republic a few days ago forwarded to him a letter informing him that, with the consent of the Federal Council, he had conferred upon him the decoration of the third class of the Order of the Bust of the Liberator. The communication states: "It is the highest honor this country can confer on its distinguished officials, and also upon those, whether natives or foreigners, who make themselves worthy of this illustrious distinction by their eminent merits or by services they render mankind or to civilization of nations." Mr. Springer said he had filed the communication with the Secretary of State until Congress shall consent to its acceptance.

The decoration is the highest that has ever been received by an American citizen from the Government, and Mr. Springer may be excused the feeling of pride which possesses him at the present time in consequence of the bestowal. The decoration was founded by the Congress of Peru in 1825 and adopted by the Venezuelan Legislature in 1854 in honor of Simon Bolivar, who in his time was to the Republic what Washington was to the United States. That Mr. "Bolivar" is now compelled to parade about this country as an attraction of one of the numerous "greatest and only circuses on earth" is a matter which the Government to which he originally acknowledged allegiance may deeply regret, but which it cannot control. So far as is known the fact does not detract from the importance of the decoration, nor does the circus suffer. In fact "Bolivar" has always been considerable of a mascot, and will probably continue in that rôle for some time to come. At any rate Mr. Springer feels highly complimented at the acknowledgment of his services by the Government whose interests he protected. The class which was given him was the highest that could possibly be conferred for the reason that the first class is only given Kings and Emperors, and the second class is granted only to Ministers of State and Ambassadors. The third class is bestowed upon Senators, Judges of the Supreme Court, Representatives, and Generals-in-Chief. There are two other classes, but their bestowal is not limited.

Speaking of the River and Harbor bill, which had passed Congress over the President's veto, Mr. Springer said he thought it was one of the most stupendous steals he had ever seen in Congress. It had always been a part of his religion to vote against the bill, for it was always a steal, but this time it was worse than ever. As to the Bank-tax bill, he said that the bill was "in what was vulgarly termed the 'nine hole,'" and it couldn't be got out before Congress adjourned under any circumstances.

In reply to an inquiry as to his opinion regarding the coming Senatorial fight in this State, Mr. Springer said he had seen Senator Logan in the afternoon, and he gleaned from him that matters were decidedly mixed. He would not be surprised if David Davis would again show up as the dark horse in the race.

Senator Logan.

The Hon. John A. Logan, United States Senator, arrived from Washington yesterday and is temporarily stopping with his family at the Leland Hotel. His present stay will be a short one, as he intends either today or tomorrow to start for Southern Illinois for the purpose of visiting a brother who is lying dangerously ill. Returning to the city he will spend several days in attending to both private and public business, and then expects to accompany his family in a pleasure and vacation tour to New Mexico, where his son-in-law is about to settle. The Senator is looking extremely well, and shows little if any trace of his indisposition during the spring and early summer months. He looks better than he feels, for he speaks of almost continuous poor health for the past six months, and of having been so worked down that rest has become a matter of necessity. The Western trip is taken solely for relaxation of mind and body, and, should he recuperate as fully and as rapidly as he hopes, he intends taking an active interest in the fall campaign. Otherwise he will be obliged to remain in quiet at home, doing as little work as possible.

To a reporter who called upon him at the hotel last evening Senator Logan expressed himself as very strongly of the opinion that the straight Republican ticket would win in Pennsylvania and Ohio, and that this State would roll up a very handsome majority. For a while in Pennsylvania the issue seemed a little doubtful, but the Republican party had not been slow to perceive that there was no use in splitting its vote, and thereby making possible the election of a Democrat. The bolt in that State was on account of wrongs more imaginary than real, and the straight ticket was now gaining rapidly.

Concerning Ohio the Senator claimed to have definite information, having seen and consulted with prominent, active politicians of that State. He did not feel at liberty to mention names, but he felt as assured as they that the contest would result in yet

ANOTHER REPUBLICAN TRIUMPH.

In our own State there was no reason why the Republicans should not win. Everything was progressing amicably, as it always ought, and there was no friction of party lines, nor any personal animosities to be gratified.

On the Senatorial question Senator Logan respectfully declined to be interviewed. It was the duty and the interest of every Republican to elect a Republican Legislature, and then discuss the merits of the candidates before such a Legislature, and leave them to decide who it should be. They would do that anyway, without suggestions from any one. The Presidential question was dodged in an equally adroit manner. A recent dispatch from Philadelphia credited Senator Logan with saying that he was not a candidate, and did not expect to be. What he said yesterday does not accord very well with the contents of the dispatch. "There is plenty of time," said he, smiling, "to talk about the Presidential candidate. I am not busying myself in that regard at all, for that is a matter for the people to attend to and select whom they please. I have never authorized anybody to say that I was or was not a candidate."

Regarding the River and Harbor bill the Senator has only this to say: He voted against the final passage of the bill, and believed himself to be right in so doing, notwithstanding the fact that Illinois was deeply interested in some of the appropriations included in the bill. He upheld the President right in vetoing it, because there were so many items in the bill where money would be actually thrown away, without the slightest possibility of any advantage being derived from it, and unless there was soon adopted a policy of appropriating money to legitimate improvements, such as the improvement of harbors, rivers already navigable, and opening canals wherever of actual and absolute benefit, the burden would become so heavy that the people would refuse to stand it longer. The amounts in the bill to be applied to works that have only been contemplated or barely commenced are such that the amounts required to complete them would aggregate an astonishing figure. The passage of this bill was, however, not likely to create any stir in the political camps, because both Democrats and Republicans had voted for it, more of the former than of the latter as a matter of fact.

In conclusion, Senator Logan said he had no definit knowledge of the President's intention to make a Northern and Western trip during the fall or autumn.

AN EVIDENCE OF THRIFT,

Wherein the Facts Disclose a Financial Strength and Prosperity Throughout the Northwest Never Before Equaled.

The unprecedented growth of the Northwest in population and landed wealth is a fact shown by each succeeding census, whether it be taken by the States individually or by the General Government collectively; but never until THE TRIBUNE began publishing the weekly sales of the leading make of safes—the Diebold—as taken from the order books of Mr. Jno. W. Norris, Western manager of that company, have had any tangible facts on which to base estimates of how much of this growth and accumulating wealth was actual moneyed, financial strength. Capitalists, bankers, corporations, and business firms do not purchase expensive burglar and fire-proof safes unless they have money, bonds, and valuables to protect, and the very fact that these lists (and they are only the more prominent ones of their sales) have continued uninterruptedly now for over two years, fully at this ratio, it argues a prosperity of a country such as the world never before saw. Mr. Norris gives us the following—his last week's sales:

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Arend's Kumyss should be the reliance of the physician in all those cases of debility in which prompt improvement of the general tone is imperative. Kumyss is the blandest and most easily digested food, and as such the best nourishment for a weak stomach; at the same time, through the process of fermentation which Kumyss undergoes, medicinal qualities are developed which we vainly look for in materia medica. In nausea, vomiting, extreme cases of dyspepsia, Kumyss acts like a charm, promptly relieving all the distressing symptoms of such cases. When the stomach rejects all else, Kumyss is retained and assimilated, affording the patient nourishment, strength, and comfort, and, as a logical consequence, nervousness ceases and refreshing sleep follows. In scarlet, intermittent, gastric, and typhoid fever, Kumyss is the best diet. It satisfies thirst and hunger and allays the fever. Kumyss has considerably the advantage over drugs, in that it never can do harm. To dose an irritable stomach with drugs is an absurdity which no intelligent physician attempts in this day. But not only in extreme cases should Kumyss be resorted to; it should be the chief remedy for a weak stomach under all circumstances. The dyspeptic brain-worker with a few glasses of Kumyss a day will improve his digestion and his nerve force. Ladies would be less nervous, more vigorous, and healthier-looking if they would add to their daily diet a few glasses of Kumyss."

EPPS' COCOA
BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

THE LAST AND ONLY HOPE.

Beautiful, beautiful childhood! with a joy
That like a robe is palpable, and flung
Out by your every motion, delicate bud
Of the immortal flower that will unfold
And come to its maturity in heaven!
I weep your earthly glory. 'T is a light
Sent to the new-born spirit that goes out
With the first idle wind. It is the leaf
Fresh flung upon the river, that will dance
Upon the wave that stealeth out its life,
Then sink of its own heaviness. The face
Of the delightful earth will to your eye
Grow dim; the fragrance of the many flowers
Be noticed not, and the beguiling voice
Of Nature in her gentleness will be
To manhood's senseless ear inaudible—
And such take hope alone of SANFORD'S GINGER.

ISLAND WILD.

The Home of "Gideon's Band" in Brown's Lake.

Arrival of a Car-Load of Chicagoans—A Dance.

The "Drug-Store"—Trying to Get a Sleep—Amusements and Guests.

Special Correspondence of The Chicago Tribune.

ISLAND WILD, BROWN'S LAKE, Wis., Aug. 12.—My stay in Lakeside was necessarily brief, and I disliked to tear myself away from the beautiful little place, but I was obliged to take the half-past 2 o'clock train yesterday for Milwaukee and continue on my travels. Owing to some slight misunderstanding among the hostlers at Lakeside's livery-stable, the conveyance which was to take me to the station—a distance of about a mile—did not show up at the hotel until my margin of time was very small, and I feared I would get left; but the Chicago boy I had met came nobly to the rescue, and volunteered to take the driver's place and drive me to the train. The driver acquiesced, and, as we drove away, we heard him say, "Don't drive her too hard; she's got to go out again when she comes back." My Chicago friend jogged her along quietly until we were out of sight of the hotel, and then

HE LET HER GO.

The road was hilly and rutty, and as I had eaten nothing but three oyster-crackers since breakfast, I felt like a dice-box as we rattled over the ground. We reached the brow of the hill at the foot of which the station is situated, and saw the train coming around a bend about a quarter of a mile up the road. Then it was a race to the death. The barbed-wire fence along the road looked like the score of one of Wagner's operas as we flew down the hill, and myself and grip were landed at the station just as the train pulled up. I succeeded in catching my breath, which I had left at the top of the hill; and, as we began our journey Milwaukeeward, I wondered what the driver would say when the Chicago boy brought the horse back covered with wet, creamy lather, and smoking like a Yale student.

Just this side of Lakeside, at the other end of Pewaukee Lake, is the little Village of Pewaukee. It was started up as a summer-resort at one time; and a gentleman who discovered a spring near the shore erected a hotel, which is known as

THE OAKTON SPRINGS HOTEL.

He though his fortune was made; but the lake shore in front of the hotel is low and marshy, and people were afraid of malaria—so the house did not succeed well, and guests were as few and far between as fish in our own sweet river. Last summer the hotel passed out of his hands, and was run as a sort of road-house; but its ill-luck followed it, and no money was made. New parties have taken hold of it this season, and are trying to redeem its reputation; but their deserving efforts have not been rewarded by any great pecuniary returns. Lakeside has really taken possession of Pewaukee Lake, and other places in the neighborhood seem to stand no show.

About 4 o'clock the brakeman woke me up, and told me we were in Milwaukee.

IT WAS SO QUIET

I had not noticed our approach to it. I deposited my satchel in the depot baggage-room, and started out to dispose of the two hours which would intervene before my train left. It was one of the pleasantest days I have ever met, and I consumed the time in strolling around watching the little urchins catching butterflies, and the plump dairy-maids milking the cows, and the sturdy German milking the beer-keg. The hum of bees was plainly heard, and upon the air floated the delightful odor of sweet clover. Milwaukee is indeed a pretty little place, and always calls to my mind the delightful pastoral melodies of Willie Carleton.

At 6 o'clock I struck the depot again, and boarded the train for Burlington. On a seat in the smoking-car I found a 10-cent piece, and will devote it to an excursion to Western avenue when I return to Chicago. At Western Union Junction we met the north-bound train from Chicago, attached to which was a special car-load of Chicagoans bound for Island Wild. On the rear platform I descried Harry Milligan, Vice-President of and Theodore Craig, one of Chicago's oldest settlers. I transferred my baggage to that car when it was attached to our train, and found it filled with a jolly crowd of about sixty ladies and gentlemen. A ride of an hour brought us to Burlington, and there we found 'buses in waiting to convey us to the island. The crowd was large, but the preparations for their reception were so perfect that there were seats for all, and there was no delay in making a start. The night was quite dark, and the two-mile drive to the lake, relieved only by the passage through the pretty little Town of Burlington, was rather slow. The street-lamps were not lit, and I thought for a minute that Gas-Inspector Baldwin had advertised one of his moons for this section. As we drove along a particularly dark piece of road, Milligan said we were passing a graveyard; but I found out subsequently that it was nothing but a "stiff," instead of a whole cemetery. Soon we turned off of the main road, and a drive through a little grove brought us to the shores of the lake. The crowd boarded the ferry, which is a large flatboat operated by a crank—that is, a regular iron crank. A rope stretches across from the shore to the island, and a process of winding pulls the boat along.

Over on the island we could see the

and the trees hung with Chinese lanterns; and when about half-way across a large quantity of red fire was ignited and a shower of rockets was sent up as a welcome to us. In the cupola of the large club-house a pan of red-fire burned brightly, and the building looked like a huge Madison street car. Cheers were exchanged as the ferry came to the landing, and we were at once invited to partake of a warm supper which had been prepared for us. The lower floor of the main building is one large hall, the sides of which are composed of swinging doors, which may be swung up, giving any breeze which may be loafing about the neighborhood a chance to circulate, and forming a roof to the wide piazza which encircles the house. The ladies who have been on the island had decorated the large hall in excellent taste. Flags, Chinese lanterns, evergreens, and flowers were combined to make a very pleasing effect. On one side of the room a music-stand, faced with the Island Wild flag, had been erected, and an excellent Milwaukee orchestra was on hand.

After supper the room was cleared and

DANCING WAS BEGUN.

The feature of the orchestra was a lady with a high forehead and a deep voice who called off for the quadrilles. This novelty was appreciated, and the Committee of the Whole voted that she captured the doughnut. Many of the ladies appeared in evening-dresses; and, taken altogether, they were the handsomest collection of femininity I have seen for some time. On the floor were several old-time gentlemen, who cut the pigeon-wing and described marvelous hieroglyphics on the waxed floor with their somewhat ancient but agile feet. The Virginia reel caught them where they resided, and occasionally their effervescent spirits would find vent in an old-fashioned whoop. About 12 o'clock there was an intermission, and Mr. Jules Lumbard, of Chicago, favored the company with several fine solos, while other gentlemen contributed vocal and instrumental offerings. When the bass violinist folded up his dog-house it was just 4 a. m., and even then the happy crowd did not care to disperse.

Across the lawn from the large club-house is what is known as

THE "DRUG-STORE."

I saw a red light in the window, and thought I would go over and get a little soda-water with a wink; but when I forced my way through the crowd that blockaded the door, I found I did not have to wink at all. All you had to say, apparently, was "The same." I tried it, and found it very good. Hearing a rattle of boxes in the back room, I thought it was a minstrel-show, and I went in to investigate. A man with a cigar-box in his lap said, "Dollar limit," when I asked the price of admission; and I noticed that each man around me had five tickets, while in front of one man was a large bunch of tickets. The performance appeared to be for the benefit of a widow, as contributions for "the widow" would be dropped in a tumbler on the table occasionally. I did not think I cared to witness this performance, so I withdrew to seek my downy couch.

I asked the office for the key of my room, and was informed that everything was full. They said the ladies had all been provided for, and the gentlemen would have to shift for themselves; so

I PROPOSED TO SHIFT.

I thought for a time I would have to sleep out under the silent stars; but it was a mite cool, and I decided to organize a go-as-you-please match all by myself, rather than work the grass. The sun was just peeping above the eastern horizon as I went out, and I had just about resolved to sit up the rest of the night and play the string out, when a kind friend offered to fix me up in a hammock in his boat-house. I was not familiar with hammocks, but my knowledge of them has increased. My friend boosted me up in one and went away, forgetting to leave the combination. As a consequence, when I attempted to change my position, I fell out and struck on the oarlock of a boat which reposed beneath me. After wiping up the blood and unraveling my legs from the tiller-rope I found my way outside, quite satisfied that I did not care to sleep anyway. Another kind friend discovered me, and offered me a cot in his tent. My grip had been lost in the shuffle, and I could not find my nightgown; so I was obliged to content myself with a nightcap,

WHICH I PROCURED AT THE DRUG-STORE.

Then I found Mr. Craig, the old settler, who told me he had been stowed away in the rubbish-room of the club-house, and had accidentally stepped on a box of fishing-tackle. We decided then to sit up until the luckier people had arisen, and then take in the second table.

Meantime I took a walk over the island to see what I could see. About nine years ago Mr. Fred Wild, of Racine, General Agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Road, discovered the lake, and invited a party of railroad men from Chicago and Milwaukee to spend a few weeks with him on the shores of the lake. While there the party visited the island, which was covered with dense brush at the time, and, after looking it over, thought it would be an excellent site for a club-house. Accordingly the island was purchased by a syndicate, cleared of the brush, and the main club-house was built. Year by year the membership grew, and it was found necessary to erect on the island. Mr. Wild and his family have a large six-room tent, which they occupy every summer; and Mr. Milligan also has a tent, and two of the finest row-boats ever built. There are several other tents on the island, and innumerable row-boats in the lake—also a steamer called the Island Queen, owned by the club, which is known as Gideon's Band. The membership is composed of residents of Racine, Chicago, Milwaukee, and Rock Island; and every summer there are great times on the island. The club-house is in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Hildreth, who set an excellent table, and treat the visitors in the best of style. Up the lake is a very pretty bathing-house, erected from designs drawn by Mr. L. D. Cleaveland, the architect, and this place is visited frequently.

THE AMUSEMENTS

here are varied. The fishing is good, and the sailing and rowing are excellent. Quoits is a favorit game, and a great deal of interest is taken in it. The ladies spend their time with fancy-work, as is usually the case at summer resorts; and no one is ever at a loss to find something to do. Altogether Island Wild is a splendid place to spend a few months during the heated term, as guests can always count on any amount of fun, cool breezes, and comforting rest. Mr. J. S. Drake, of Rock Island, is President of the Band.

AMONG THE CHICAGOANS

who were here last evening were Ald. and Mrs. John Colvin, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Hall, Master George Hall, Miss Mollie Hahn, Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Hahn, Mrs. L. L. Booth, the Misses Hattie and Stella Hahn, Mrs. Charles H. Hahn, the Misses Kittie and Millie Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander D. Hannah, Mr. and Mrs. David Hogg, J. M. Scott, Miss Scott, H. J. BIFF.

THE WEATHER.

The Signal Service.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF SIGNAL OFFICER, WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 13—1 a. m.—For the Tennessee and Ohio Valley, during the day warmer easterly to southerly winds, fair weather followed by local rains, stationary or lower barometer.

For the Lower Lake region, partly cloudy weather and local rain, variable winds shifting to east and south, stationary or lower temperature, rising followed by falling barometer.

For the Upper Lake region, cool easterly shifting to slightly warmer southerly winds, partly cloudy weather and light rains, followed by falling barometer.

For the Upper Mississippi and Missouri Valley, slightly warmer southeast to southwest winds, becoming variable, partly cloudy weather, and light rains, lower barometer in the southern portion.

The Chief Signal Officer furnishes the following special bulletin:

The barometer is highest in Tennessee and lowest in the Northwest. Local rains and partly cloudy weather are reported from the Southern States and Lake region, with southeast to southwest winds, except in the Upper Lake region, where the winds are variable. Fair weather prevails in the Middle States, New England, and the Ohio Valley, and thence westward to the Missouri Valley, with slightly warmer south to west winds. The temperature has risen slightly in the South Atlantic States and the Lower Lake region, and fallen slightly in the Upper Lake region. The following special temperatures were reported at 7 a. m. yesterday: Eastport and Quebec 59, Montreal 66, Mount Washington 43, Cleveland 63, Alpena 63, Duluth 57, St. Paul 60, Denver 65, San Francisco 55.

Indications are that warm, fair weather will continue in the southern portions of the Middle and New England States during Sunday, followed during Sunday night by slightly cooler weather. Local rains are indicated for the Lake region, the northern portion of the Middle and New England States during Sunday and Monday.

The Heavy Rainfall at St. Paul, Minn., Not General.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 12.—The heavy rains of Friday night that fell in St. Paul, Minneapolis, and vicinity caused some apprehension that they were general. It was feared also that there might have been rain enough to do some damage to the crops or materially interfere with harvesting. Fortunately it is found by weather reports obtained yesterday at the various railroad offices that the rainfall was not widely extended, neither was it as heavy as it was in this locality. Along the line of the Chicago, St. Paul, Milwaukee & Omaha in Wisconsin there were showers that were light, though rather heavy at Camp Douglas. Most of the grain this side of Milwaukee to St. Paul is reported to be cut, in shock, and stacked. On the line of the St. Paul & Duluth there were only light showers, as also on the river division of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. On the northern division of the Omaha line light showers extended not more than fifty miles southwest. On both divisions of the Manitoba line there were no rains, and the weather in the Northern Pacific region was reported clear and pleasant, and in some places cool.

That Great Match-Penny Game—A Philadelphia Broker Quits $13,000 Winner.

New York Sun.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7.—The great match-penny game played in Third street on Saturday was not between brokers, as at first reported. One of the players was a broker, and the other was a man well known in Third street as a speculator and frequenter of the brokers' parlors. The game was played in the broker's rear office, and was begun with pennies in the merest sport. Four or five mutual friends were present, who watched the sport with interest. Their interest was changed to excitement when the principals, rapidly raising their stakes, were engaged in matching for hundreds, and then thousands of dollars. The broker was not only successful, but his opponent, with all the pertinacity of a gambler who is sure that the next throw will bring back everything, kept on recklessly doubling and losing. In this way $18,000, and not $12,000, as was incorrectly stated at first, were won by the broker. At that stage of the game the loser began to appreciate how largely he was out, and desired a chance to retrieve his ill-luck. This the broker courteously granted, although more than once before he had signified his willingness to stop at any time. Three more trials were had, and the amount was reduced to $13,000. Then the friends of the two players said it was getting late; that the broker had given all the chances that could be demanded of him, and that he ought not to be compelled to play any longer. Then the game came to an end, and the broker pocketed a promissory note for $13,000.

THE SPOOPENDYKES.

They Go a-Crabbing.

Brooklyn Eagle.

Coming up the river the other day, I saw a middle-aged gentleman in a plug hat and a business suit seated in a scow beside an attractive lady, feeling around among a lot of strings pendant from the side of the boat, and warning the lady that she could not keep too quiet.

"Now, my dear," observed the gentleman, "don't you move, because I feel a crab on this line. I'll pull him up until he is in sight and then you slip the net under him. See?"

"Yes, dear," replied the lady a little flustered as she contemplated her share of the performance. "But, Mr. Spoopendyke, what shall I do when I get the net under him?"

"Scalp him!" retorted Mr. Spoopendyke, drawing slowly on the line. "Now wait, he's there," and Mr. Spoopendyke became even more cautious in his movements. "See him! There he is! Scalp him quick!"

Mrs. Spoopendyke jabbed the net into the water and swashed around with great vigor.

"What ye doing?" yelled Mr. Spoopendyke, straightening up and glaring at her, as the crab struck a line for Newark Bay. "What'd ye think I had there, the bottom of the river? What'd ye suppose ye was trying to catch, a church? Take it out! Give it here!" and he grasped the lady around the waist and took the net away from her.

"Did I scalp him?" asked Mrs. Spoopendyke, flushed with her exertions and trembling with excitement. "Show him to me! Let me see what he looks like!"

"Looks like!" roared Mr. Spoopendyke. "He looks like Sandy Hook by this time! Why didn't ye scalp him? What's the matter with you?"

"I—I couldn't tell which was his head," faltered Mrs. Spoopendyke, who hadn't seen anything at all. "Pull him up again, and you'll see if I don't scalp the last hair on his skull!"

The English language lost its last charm for Mr. Spoopendyke, and he turned to his strings with a withering look of contempt for his wife.

"Now you be careful," he said at length. "Here's another varmint, and you mustn't let him get away. When I say 'scalp!' you shove the net under him and just bring him aboard."

"Can you see him yet?" asked Mrs. Spoopendyke, waving the net over her head and peering into the water.

"Wait! Yes, there he is! Careful, remember. Now, scalp!!"

He must have been a crab of phenomenal scholastic advantages to have gotten rid of that swoop, for Mrs. Spoopendyke, with a view to redeeming herself, went for the end of the string blindly but with a strength of purpose that made failure impossible. She not only got the crab, but she slammed net, crab, and all over Mr. Spoopendyke's head.

"What—wah-h!" shrieked that gentleman as he felt himself impounded.

"Lost him again!" exclaimed Mrs. Spoopendyke, who hadn't the remotest idea what a crab looked like. "Why, dear, what's that awful big spider in the net! Good gracious!"

"Take it off!" howled Mr. Spoopendyke. "Take it—wow! the dod-gasted thing has got me by the ear! Haul him off, will ye?"

Mrs. Spoopendyke dropped the handle of the net as if it were an old-fashioned bonnet, and gazed upon her husband in consternation.

"Dod-gast the measly crab!" yelled Mr. Spoopendyke, tearing the net away. "Let go, ye brute! Wah-ha!" and the unfortunate man wrenched the fish from off his ear and dashed it in the bottom of the boat. "What's your measly scheme in doing that?" he demanded, holding his ear with one fist and shaking the other at his wife. "Think you've got to eat 'em right out of the water? Got a notion that he come up cooked and you must down him quick or he'll spoil?" yelled Mr. Spoopendyke, enraged beyond control by the sight of the carnage that trickled down his fingers. "What'd ye mean by it?" and he sprang into the air and alighted on the unhappy crab, slipping up and sprawling full length in the bottom of the boat.

"Was that a crab, dear?" asked Mrs. Spoopendyke, assisting her husband to arise, and contemplating the mangled fish with anything but favor. "Is that what you call a crab? I thought——!"

"You thought!" ripped Mr. Spoopendyke, kicking at the bewildered crab. "That's the trouble with you—you think! Did ye think I was going to stand here and let that measly crab chew on my ear till his legs ached? P'raps ye thought he was whispering to me! Maybe ye thought he was telling me a funny story! Well, he wasn't, and if he was his voice was so hoarse I couldn't enjoy it! Ye thought, did ye!" squealed Mr. Spoopendyke, his wrath rising as the pain and fear subsided. "Thought a crab talked with his toes like some women think, didn't ye! Oh, you thought! If I had such a head as that, I'd fit it up with shuck beds and a stick of gum and start a female boarding-school! With your ability to think, you only need a squint and four long words to be a Concord school of philosophy!" and Mr. Spoopendyke plunged the oars into the water and began to row vigorously.

"Where are you going, dear?" asked Mrs. Spoopendyke timidly, after her husband had pulled hard for some time.

"Home!" grinned Mr. Spoopendyke with a horrible expression of visage. "I'm going home to show the people how much damage a rusticating idiot asylum can do with one measly crab when she pins herself down to it!"

"Of course," assented Mrs. Spoopendyke humbly, "but say, dear, wouldn't you get on faster if you untied the boat?"

Mr. Spoopendyke turned and gave a sharp glance at the bow. Then he hauled his hat down over his ears, stepped ashore, and struck out at a brisk walk.

"I don't know," sighed Mrs. Spoopendyke, as I took her boat in tow; "I don't know, but I don't think I care much for crabbing, though I'm not sure but what its more fun than walking home on the wrong side of the river with no bridge within seven miles either way!"

OVER THE WAY.

Over the way, within a window swinging,
A gilded cage hangs in the morning-air;
Behind its tiny bars a bird is singing—
A happy captive there.

Over the way, behind the shutters hidden,
Lingers a lovely face I fain would see—
The spirit of a Paradise forbidden,
So near, yet far, from me.

Yet here, all day, alone, I look and listen.
She dreams of heartless triumphs she has won.
The sun goes down—the stars of midnight glisten—
Her bird's sweet song is done.

Above the chimney-tops, the moon, uplifting
Its crescent horns, gleams beautiful and pale,
Till down the sky a dark cloud, slowly drifting,
Obscures it like a veil.

Then, while, my lonely window sadly quitting,
I hear afar the deep-toned thunder roll,
The world is dark, save mental fantoms flitting
Before my haunted soul.

SURVIVORS OF THE FIFTH ARMY CORPS.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 12.—A large meeting of survivors of the Fifth Army Corps was held here tonight, and, after several speeches deploring the death of Gen. Warren, suitable resolutions regarding the same were passed.

Killing Perkins.

Detroit Free Press.

It is on record in this State that a Michigan editor was once engaged to fight a duel. If the editor himself is not living he must have died within a week past. The affair occurred about twenty-five years ago, and was brought about by the journalist making several vicious attacks upon the honor and honesty of a member of the Legislature. The Solon first tried the usual way of getting even, by buying a horsewhip and hunting the editor, but when he had found him he was knocked down and rolled in the mud. He then sent a formal challenge, and as the editor opened the letter he turned to his two compositors and said:

"Boys, how much matter have you got up for the first page?"

"Three columns," replied the foreman, after measuring up on the galleys.

"And we need five. You'll have it all up by noon tomorrow, and by Wednesday night all the inside will be up. Then I'll wet down the paper and make up, and while you are working off the outside I'll run out and shoot old Perkins, who has sent me a challenge."

He sent a formal acceptance, named rifles as weapons, appointed the rendezvous within thirty rods of the office, and then began to scratch out copy. When the hour arrived he was making up the forms, having got a little behind the program, and by and by his second came in at the back door and said:

"We've been waiting for you all of twenty minutes."

"But I'm busy."

"This is no time to be busy. Perkins is all ready."

"Hang the luck!" growled the editor as he filled out a column and flung down his rule. "That's just like Perkins—he wants to throw our publication day. Come on—I'll fill him up!"

The editor seized his gun, and hatless and coatless he set out on a lope for the spot. Perkins saw him coming in that fashion, and his knees weakened and his chin dropped, and though the editor yelled for him to hold on a minute, he bolted over a fence and didn't come out of the woods until he was six miles away.

"HOOLEY'S."

The Thorough Reconstruction of this Noted Theatre.

The First Decorative and Constructive Ability of the West Employed.

The remodeling of this theatre, which has just reached completion under the plans and able superintendence of the architects, Messrs. D. Adler & Co., and last evening was thrown open to the public, is in every way satisfactory to the high hopes entertained that this theatre at least would be perfect in all important details, and the verdict is that each point has been fully met. In the matter of decoration the proscenium is always a difficult subject for decorative management, in the fact that it is presented to the fullest view of the audience to admire or condemn, and as it forms a frame for the setting of scenes and the acts, it in every phase comes before the spectator as a harmonious surrounding or as a marring influence which no elegance of scenery or dramatic costuming can wholly overcome. These, as well as the walls of the auditorium, are handsomely papered from selections furnished by the noted house of John J. McGrath, and in this particular has given to the public an evidence of capability for perfect work that can hardly be excelled, but which is only another instance of the facilities of this house so often before demonstrated in theatre decoration. The ceiling of the auditorium, as well as the ceiling and walls of the main entrance, is frescoed with prevailing touch of the Renaisance period, aptly varied by modern gothic and Mooresque innovations, recognizing in true artistic spirit the feeling which the architect has introduced in his constructive embellishments of the bases forming a fitting entrance to the elegant interior. The intricacies of the architecture are well brought out in this work, and the harmonious blending of fresco painting in connection with wall-papers show that the noted firm who furnished the material and artistic talent are worthy of the highest praise from an appreciative public. The painting and bronzing of the different accessories of wood and iron is also part of the grand whole which from a decorative standpoint will make visitors long remember their first hour in this beautiful temple of Thespus. Much praise is due to the house of S. S. Barry & Son for the able manner in which they have carried out the frescoing and bronzing under the supervision Mr. McGrath, who seems to have the whim of thoroughly novel treatment for theatre decoration.

Though the walls were but slightly altered, and that merely to provide perfect exits and the adding of six feet to the width of the stage, the thorough removal of the whole interior and its renewal called for theatre carpentry of the highest order, and fortunately for the success of the enterprise the services of Mr. Milton B. Bushnell, the well-known theatre builder, was secured, and it is unnecessary to state the work has been accurately performed, as Mr. Bushnell is without a rival in this class of carpentry. The public are also indebted to Mr. B. in that it is understood he refused the construction of a new theatre in the East that he might give his entire attention to this and other theatres now under process of construction, a course highly commendable because of the value of his services in this regard.

One of the most attractive features of these improvements is the proscenium boxes. These are made of iron, and furnished by the Ætna Iron Works, Clark, Raffen & Co., proprietors. The reputation of this firm for excellent workmanship is fully sustained, and certainly should be greatly enhanced by their execution of a piece of work so difficult. The artist's designs have been faithfully carried out, and the work is pronounced by critics to be the best of its kind in the country.

Elegant chandeliers and gas-jets light up the theatre and replace those that in the former years represented the best made, and by the replacement show how our leading manufacturers are constantly improving in style and workmanship. Mr. E. Baggott, who placed these as well as all the plumbing and also the large iron ventilators, is widely known, especially as authority in the plumbing, gas-fitting, and fixture lines. The upholstering of the proscenium boxes is elegant as well as the general carpeting and upholstering, and is very creditable to the house of Charles Gossage & Co., who furnished these accessories.

THE RAILROADS.

A Still Further Decrease in East-Bound Freight Shipments from This City—The Causes for the Decline.

Although the freight business going East by the roads southwest of Chicago has much improved during the last four weeks, yet the business going East by rail from this city is not only not showing a similar improvement, but shipments are continually getting lighter. Instead of an increase in East-bound freight shipments during the past week, as was confidently predicted, a still further decrease has taken place. The managers of the roads leading east from this city seem to be at a loss to comprehend why they are not doing as well as their Southwestern competitors. And yet the cause of this state of affairs is quite plain. The business coming to Chicago from the West finds a much cheaper outlet by lake than by rail and consequently seeks the former channel. THE TRIBUNE has often stated that the present system of basing rates for all the roads in the country on Chicago rates is detrimental to the Chicago roads leading East during the time that these roads have to compete against lake navigation. While it cannot be charged that a rate based upon 25 cents on grain from Chicago to New York is exorbitant for roads having no water competition, yet it will be generally admitted that with existing low lake rates the Chicago lines running East cannot get much business at the above rate. During the summer months the Chicago roads ought to be allowed to make such rates as will enable them to compete in a measure against the lake lines, regardless of the prevailing tariff rates from points having no such competition to contend against. As it is, the roads from Chicago cannot possibly compete against the lakes and must necessarily remain comparatively idle until navigation closes. Instead of making such rates as will give them a fair share of the business coming here from the West, the roads running east from Chicago have been taking measures lately that are calculated to aggravate matters greatly. They have been largely advancing charges for switching and handling the business at this point. The increase in terminal charges affects the Chicago roads much worse than would be the case if a general advance in freight rates was made. A general advance in freight rates would correspondingly increase the rates from all points in the West, but this increase in terminal charges affects Chicago alone and gives competing points in the West an opportunity to wrest from Chicago much of the business which otherwise would come here. That such is the fact is proven by the expressions of delight echoed by the Indianapolis, St. Louis, and other Western papers over the recent advance in terminal charges at this point. Unless the roads leading east from this city will adopt measures shortly that will induce shippers to use the rail from this point they need not look for a marked increase in business until navigation closes. By the time navigation comes to an end the bulk of the large wheat crops raised in the West will have been shipped, and they will have to depend upon the corn crop. A heavy corn crop would of course give these roads considerable business during the winter, but the crop has by no means been assured yet. According to all accounts there will not be much more than half a crop in the principal corn-producing States with the best of weather, and if there should be early frosts or other mishaps the corn crop is doomed to failure. In such an event the Eastern roads would find themselves in a bad predicament, and many of them would not be able to meet their obligations by the end of the year. There is therefore no good reason why the roads east from this city should not try to make hay while the sun shines, and at least attempt to get a portion of the large wheat crops raised in the West.

The total shipments of flour, grain, and provisions by the six pool lines running east from this city for the week ending Aug. 12 amounted to 18,611 tons, against 19,269 tons for the week previous, a decrease of 658 tons. The total shipments by the same roads for the corresponding week last year amounted to 43,167 tons.

The following statement shows the amount of flour, grain, and provisions shipped East from this city by the six Eastern lines during the past week, and also the amounts shipped during the corresponding week last year:

	Flour, brls.	Grain, tons of 2,000 lbs.	Provisions tons of 2,000 lbs.	Total tons.
Mich. Cent'l	11,057	1,793	552	3,450
Lake Shore	2,447	3,037	1,801	5,082
Ft. Wayne	3,855	2,552	1,342	4,279
Pan Handle	2,385	555	1,775	2,568
Balt. & Ohio	685	1,513	294	1,875
Gr'd Trunk	4,134	528	417	1,357
Total, 1882	24,563	9,978	6,181	18,611
Same week 1881	91,674	24,136	9,372	43,167

The percentages this year were: Michigan Central, 18.60; Lake Shore, 27.30; Fort Wayne, 23; Pan-Handle, 13.80; Baltimore & Ohio, 10.10; Grand Trunk, 7.30. The percentages last year were: Michigan Central, 19.80; Lake Shore, 24.90; Fort Wayne, 20.20; Pan-Handle, 15.50; Baltimore & Ohio, 4.10; Grand Trunk, 15.50.

A Revised Joint Classification to the West—The Western and Eastern Classifications Cannot Be Harmonized.

The Committee of General Freight Agents of Western roads which went to Niagara Falls a few days ago to meet there a similar committee from Eastern roads to bring about an amalgamation of the various freight classifications now in force returned yesterday. The committee did not accomplish the work it set out to do owing to the bullheadedness of the representatives of the Eastern trunk lines. They found it impossible to agree upon an amalgamation of the trunk-line and Western classifications. The west-bound trunk line classification is claimed to be very crude, and makes no distinction between large and small quantities of freight, nor does it recognize large manufacturing interests. To adopt the trunk-line classification by the Western lines would work detrimentally to Western producers and manufacturers. The trunk lines, owing to their poor terminal facilities in New York, having to transfer most of the freight in barges, fail to distinguish between car-lots and less than car-lots, and the Western committee could not convince the trunk-line committee of the wrong their classification was inflicting upon certain classes of business.

Finding that no compromise with the Eastern committee could be effected, the Western committee held a separate meeting and decided to harmonize the "Revised Joint Classification" and the "Revised Western Classification" and make a new joint classification applying to all business between Chicago and all points West, Northwest, and Southwest to the Missouri River. If such a classification as the committee recommends is adopted, the freight business in the West will be greatly facilitated.

West-Bound Rates from Council Bluffs to Be the Same as from Omaha.

Mr. E. P. Vining, General Freight Agent of the Union Pacific Railway, has just issued the following special notice:

All Eastern lines having placed Omaha and Council Bluffs upon an equal footing by making the rates the same between Eastern points and the two cities above named, it becomes necessary for this company to make the same rates between Omaha and all western points as are made between Council Bluffs and the same points. Notice is therefore hereby given that all previous tariffs, special orders, and special rates between Omaha and stations west thereof, are hereby repealed, and that hereafter the same rates will be charged upon all shipments of freight to Omaha from westerly stations or from Omaha to westerly stations that are in force at the time of shipment upon similar freight in the same direction to or from Council Bluffs.

Opening of Milwaukee & St. Paul's Council Bluffs Line.

Mr. C. J. Eddy, Assistant Commercial Agent at Chicago of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, gives notice to shippers and connecting lines that, commencing Monday, Aug. 14, his company will receive freight for Council Bluffs, Omaha, and all points on or reached by the Union and Central Pacific Railway Companies or their connections. The following are current rates on classes named between Chicago and Council Bluffs or Omaha: First class, 90 cents per 100 pounds; second, 75 cents; third, 50 cents; fourth, 32 cents; special, 28 cents; class A, 37½ cents; class B, 32 cents; class C, 23 cents—subject to revised Western classification.

The Boston & New York Air-Line to Be Leased to the New York, New Haven & Hartford Company.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—An agreement has been made between the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company and the Boston & New York Air-Line for the leasing of the latter to the former corporation. The matter will be passed upon at the annual meetings of the two roads to be held in September. By the terms of the lease the New York, New Haven & Hartford Company agrees to pay an annual rental of $120,000 in two installments of $60,000 each, payable in April and October of each year, beginning in April, 1883. This is virtually paying 4 per cent interest to the preferred stockholders of the Air-Line road. This stock amounts to $3,000,000. The lessee also agrees to keep the property of the lessor in as good condition as when delivered to it, and to restore it to the lessor in equally good condition at the termination of the lease in ninety-nine years from Sept. 30, 1882. It also agrees to pay all taxes and assessments, all running expenses, and expenses incidental to necessary repairs and improvements. It further agrees to pay the interest upon the $500,000 of first mortgage bonds and upon the $250,000 guaranteed mortgage bonds issued for the construction of the Colchester Branch of the road, or the interest upon any bonds issued in their stead, providing that such interest shall not exceed $21,750 per annum. Should the terms of this lease be ratified, it will virtually operate to convert the Air-Line preferred stock into ninety-nine-year bonds, bearing 4 per cent interest.

A Proposed Celebration at Louisville at the Opening of Three New Roads.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 12.—At a public meeting of the merchants and manufacturers, held at the Board of Trade rooms, it was determined to celebrate, on the 12th of September, the opening of the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Chesapeake & Ohio Southern, and the St. Louis Air Line Railroads. It was agreed that this should be done by an industrial street pageant; by an exhibition of the Louisville Fair Association and the Louisville Exposition; by decorating houses for the entire week, from the 11th to the 16th proximo; and by a general illumination of all houses on the night of the 12th. The industrial procession referred to will consist of displays of manufacturing and mercantile interests on floats or wagons, which will be assigned positions by a committee, and designated by number as application is made. It is presumed that every firm and corporation will join in the undertaking and help to make successful a celebration which will at once testify appreciation of the vast developments of railroad advantages.

The Northwestern Stealing a March on the Illinois Central at Galena, Ill.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

GALENA, Ill., Aug. 12.—Excitement has run high in this city since yesterday afternoon on the occupancy of Water street by a force of 200 men in the employ of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad Company, who are engaged in laying two tracks down the west side of the street from their engine-house to Green street, thus stealing a march on the Illinois Central Railroad, whose officers were here yesterday for the purpose of entering into a contract with the city to bridge the Galena River and lay their track down Water street as far as the levee. The authorities here claim that the Northwestern are taking unto themselves more rights than they possess under their contract with the city, yet no effort has been made to put a stop to their operations, and the work is going on with as much rapidity as possible.

Temporary Settlement of the Grand Trunk's Difficulties at Detroit.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 12.—The Great Western transfer steamers Michigan and Transit were released at 2 o'clock this afternoon after a consultation between the attorneys for the Erie & Chicago Car Loan Company and the Grand Trunk Railroad. The Michigan was seized on Thursday and the Transit at 12 o'clock last night. Both have been given in temporary charge of E. W. Meddaugh, attorney for the Grand Trunk, which has absorbed the Great Western, against whose property the attachment was issued, and an early adjustment of the difficulty is probable. Interrupted traffic has been resumed. Freight has been at a standstill all day, and through passengers for the East on the midnight train were sent over the Canada Southern.

Negotiations for the Settlement of the Grand Trunk's Debt to Montreal City.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

MONTREAL, Aug. 12.—Negotiations are now in progress for a settlement of the Grand Trunk Railway debt to Montreal City growing out of their absorption of the St. Lawrence & Atlantic Road several years ago. The amount in dispute is some $600,000. This sum is the residue of the amount, some $400,000 having been paid some years ago. There is a question of law in the case which urges the Grand Trunk Railway to claim exemption from the whole amount of the claim, and this view is supported by the City-Attorney. The Finance Committee recently sought advice from three other lawyers, Messrs. Barnard, Lacoste, and Kerr, and rumor says that all three have given their opinion that the Grand Trunk Company is liable.

Proposed Consolidation.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

OTTAWA, Aug. 12.—Those who are interested in the Ottawa, Waddington & New York and the Pontiac & Pacific Junction Railway Companies have for some time past been considering the subject of an amalgamation. Correspondence has already passed on the subject, and the proposed amalgamation appears to be very popular among the people of Pontiac County. The amalgamation in question would undoubtedly prove a mutual strength to the corporation named.

Litigation in Arkansas.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 12.—The case of the Batesville & Brinkley Railroad vs. St. Louis & Iron Mountain Railroad to prevent the latter from building a parallel line within ten miles came up in the Chancery Court for argument today. Able counsel has been engaged on both sides, and a protracted legal duel is anticipated.

Abraham Bloom and wife of New Orleans, have brought suit in the Federal Court against the Hot Springs & Malvern Railroad for $4,500 damages. Complainants charge that Mrs. Bloom in August, 1881, was ejected from the train at night in the woods eight miles from any station by Conductor James Graves. It is further alleged that Mrs. Bloom had a ticket good for passage over the road.

No Trains Between Montreal and Ottawa on the Canada Pacific.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

OTTAWA, Aug. 12.—The Canada Pacific Railway Company has discontinued running trains between Montreal and Ottawa since that section of the line came into its hands.

Miscellaneous Items.

Mr. A. J. Kibby has been appointed agent of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific at Mitchellville, vice C. H. King, transferred to Dispatchers' Department.

The Northwestern Railroad has just opened two new stations in O'Brien County, Iowa, on the Toledo & Northwestern branch. They are named Pauline and Sutherland.

Mr. Thomas Jackson, formerly chief clerk in the freight department of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad in this city, has been appointed chief clerk in the general freight office of the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad.

Mr. W. P. Johnson, General Passenger Agent of the Lake Shore, has published a very neat "Railroad Guide and Time-Table." It is gotten up in book form and gives all information regarding the Lake Shore any passenger may want.

The gross earnings (estimated) of the Illinois Central Railroad for the week ending Aug. 7 were as follows: Freight, $97,390; passengers, $40,099; miscellaneous, $26,180; total, $163,669. The total actual earnings for the same period in 1881 were $170,959.

Mr. C. G. Eddy, General Freight Agent of the Chicago & Northwestern, is going to leave tomorrow for the White Mountains, Saratoga, and the seashore, where he will spend a month's vacation. He will be accompanied by his wife, and expects to have a glorious time.

The Lake Shore brought in during the past week seven car-loads of European emigrants. The Michigan Central yesterday brought in three car-loads of emigrants. Two hundred and fifty European emigrants are expected to arrive this morning by the Baltimore & Ohio.

Mr. C. L. Rising, General Agent of the Wabash in this city, announces that the bridge at Greenup, on the Peoria, Decatur & Evansville, recently damaged by the flood, having been repaired, his road is now again prepared to receive shipments for all points on the line of that road south of Majority Point.

The "Manual of Coupon Ticket Points and Coupon Ticket Agents in the United States and Canadas," an invaluable guide for ticket and passenger agents, has been thoroughly revised by the compiler, Mr. A. E. Little, of the General Ticket Department of the Chicago & Northwestern, and is now more complete than any of the former issues.

The Northwestern will open up shortly a new line through to Hawarden, in Spink County, Dakota. This is an extension of the Watertown line. Hawarden, which has been so named after Gladstone's country seat in England, is to be the county seat of Spink County, Dakota, and promises to become one of the most flourishing towns in that section of Dakota.

The Northwestern people object to the continued assertions that the new Milwaukee & St. Paul Council Bluffs line is the shortest between Chicago and Council Bluffs. The Northwestern people claim that distinction for their line. The Milwaukee & St. Paul line, they state, is 489 miles to the depot and 490 miles to the Union Pacific transfer. The Chicago & Northwestern is 488 3-10 miles long to the depot and 489 miles to the transfer. Accordingly the Northwestern is shorter by seven-tenths of a mile.

ON THE BOARD.

The Markets Yesterday Very Dull and a Shade Easier.

The produce markets were very dull yesterday—so dull that it was often difficult to tell whether they were strong or weak, or whether they would be one or the other of these two if there had been any trading. A duller day has not been known in several months. About the only outside orders that were noticeable on the floor were a few to sell May corn, some to sell August oats, and some to buy wheat for export. Outside of these the trading was local, and more exclusively of the scalping character than the usual run. The telegraph lines had very little to do, and the big operators, who usually receive twenty to fifty telegrams per day and think nothing of it, had to content themselves with two or three, or none at all. Under such conditions there was no individuality in the markets. They all ran along on about the same key. There was a little strength early, probably because it threatened rain. Then, as the skies cleared, the markets fell off a few eighths of a cent in grain, but stiffened up later when the export demand for wheat above noted showed itself. That resulted in a relative advance of about one cent on wheat for spot and August, the other futures dragging with little change in quotations, but closing relatively firm.

IN THE CORN DEAL

the only point of interest was the selling of about as much for May as buyers could be found for, the market falling off about two cents under the operation. Those orders were supposed to be on country account—sent by people who are satisfied that there will be more corn realized from the new crop than has hitherto been counted on.

In oats the tendency for this month was downwards. The market for cash dropped about two cents. The receipts of the day were not very large, but they showed some increase. There was a promise of some 300 car-loads for Monday, which some folks said would average nearly 1,000 bushels to the car, and others were enthusiastic enough to prophesy that the quantity will increase to 800 or 900 car-loads before the close of the week.

Rye was tame at the decline of Friday, and barley was steady on No. 2, while No. 3 for September delivery declined about half a cent.

The market for provisions possessed absolutely no features. The trading was simply changing from one month to another so far as could be ascertained. There didn't seem to be a single shipping order for meats or lard on the floor.

HE PLAYED IT IN.

Adventures of a Swede in Speculating with Bucket Shops.

Several months ago considerable was said in the papers about a clever Swede, lately arrived from across the water, who gave the name of Adolph Jacobson, and who palmed himself off upon his acquaintances as a Board of Trade broker. Representing that he was very lucky in his deals, he induced a number of his newly-acquired friends to intrust him with some money to invest in their behalf. After getting the money, however, he suddenly disappeared, and no trace of him could be discovered. There was a loud wailing thereat from the friends from whom he had obtained the money and to whom he had played false. It was learned a few days ago that Jacobson had returned to Chicago, and Detectives Simmons and Kochler were assigned the duty of hunting him up. They found their man yesterday afternoon on Dearborn street, between Madison and Washington, and took him in custody. He had evidently anticipated arrest, for he took it in a matter-of-fact way, and not only announced that he knew why he had been arrested, but confessed that it was a just piece of work. He admitted having taken the money, and that he deceived his friends by gambling the cash away in the bucket-shops. He was locked up at the East Chicago Avenue Station. When Jacobson was doing his crooked work he boarded at No. 476 Sedgwick street with Mr. Paul Cichon, who was the heaviest loser in the game played by the Swede. It was said that Dr. Dittman, whose office is at the corner of Clark and Madison streets, had also lost heavily to Jacobson, but yesterday the Doctor denied to a TRIBUNE reporter that he had given Jacobson any money at all. He said that Cichon was out about $350 on the adventurer's account, but the police say Cichon's loss was about $600.

THE WEST SIDE ASSESSMENT.

The following communication will be presented to Chairman Donnersberger, of the Committee on Equalization of the County Board, on Tuesday next:

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—To the Honorable the Committee on Equalization of the Board of Commissioners of Cook County—GENTLEMEN: Appreciating the fact that the tax levy for 1882 should be, for State, county, town, park, and municipal purposes larger than for previous years, the Assessor of the West Town, Mr. Joseph Sokup, conscientiously endeavored to perform his duty in raising the valuation in certain portions of the West Division, where there was evidence that property had increased in value.

If the Assessors in the other towns had acted in the same fair, impartial spirit, no injustice would be done; but as they have not, we pray that you will do the citizens of the West Town justice and equalize as between the different towns, so as not to overburden us.

We beg leave to subscribe ourselves taxpayers of West Chicago.

UNRIPE PEACHES ON WATER STREET.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—The peaches that have been offered for sale on South Water steet this year have been admitted to be poor by the commission-men. They have, in fact, been unfit for human consumption. The reason is that they are picked so green that they will never ripen. They may wilt in time and have about the texture of soft rubber, but they are as unfit for the humon stomash as the rotten peaches about which so much has been said. If the fruit was allowed to stay on the tree until Nature had prepared it for consumption it would rarely be poor. Who is responsible for this state of things? Most assuredly the commission-man. The shipper will pick and pack as the commission-man directs; for the man who sells the fruit is the one to say how they can be made to produce the most money. The commission-man wants the fruit to come in such a way that he can set down on it, so that if it does not sell today it will be the same tomorrow or the following day. In this way he is able to crowd it all off on to buyers who, every time they go to purchase fruit, wander up and down the street thinking that this time they will draw a better prize in the fruit lottery. As it is now, if a receiver happens to get a box of ripe peaches he is very indignant if the first man who looks at it does not grab it at two prices. With a good season to keep fruit it has been higher than during the War. The object of the commission-men is to increase their commissions.

Sweepstake Shooting at Grand Crossing Yesterday.

The Audubon Gun Club of Chicago held a medal and sweepstake shoot yesterday at Kleinman's Park, Grand Crossing. The shooting commenced at 10 o'clock in the morning and continued during the day. In the morning several small sweeps were shot, there being but few shooters on the grounds till noon. The first shoot of the afternoon was a sweep at five single birds, thirty-one yards rise. The following is the score: Wadsworth, 3; Watson, 3; Tucker, 3; Barlow, 4; Kleinman, 5; Felton, 3; Dunham, 4; Dell, 3; Pond, 4; Christians, 3; and Bellamy, 3. The first money was awarded A. Kleinman and the second was divided among Dunham, Barlow, and Pond.

The second shoot was another sweep at five birds, thirty-one yards rise. The following is the score: Dell, 3; Dunham, 5; Christians, 2; Watson, 2; Pond, 3; A. Kleinman, 3; Emory, 5; Bellamy, 3; Barlow, 4; Wadsworth, 4; and Tucker, 3. The first money was divided between Dunham and Emory, the second between Wadsworth and Barlow, and the third between A. Kleinman and Tucker.

The third shoot was the medal shoot of the Audubon Gun Club. The medal was a handsome gold one, valued at $150, which was won by the Audubon Gun Club at the third annual meeting of the National Sportsman's Association in 1876. It was held by W. Foss before the shoot. It was shot at twenty-six yards rise, fifteen single birds to each man. The following is the score:

W. Foss, 14; C. E. Felton, 12; S. H. Turrill, 13; W. T. Johnson, 12; T. R. Hasdell, 13; T. [illegible], 12.

As shown by the score, W. Foss was awarded the medal without a shoot-off. This is the third time the medal has been won by Mr. Foss, and according to the rules governing the shooting of the medal he must win it twice more before it becomes his property.

The remainder of the day was pleasantly taken up with sweepstake shooting, in which all engaged.

FALSE PRETENSES.

Bought Jewelry on Credit and Soaked It with Pawnbrokers.

Messrs. Lapp & Flershem, the wholesale jewelers at No. 81 State street, seem to have been "playing in hard luck" of late. Only a few weeks ago one of their salesmen was arrested for peculating heavily from the firm and confessed his guilt, being in jail at the present time awaiting an indictment by the grand jury. And now the same jewelers appear as the victims of a smooth-talking individual from Pittsfield, Ill., who gives the name of L. Russell. Mr. Russell was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detectives Thorpe and Tierney on a warrant for obtaining money by false pretenses. The warrant was sworn out several days ago before Justice Meech, since which time L. Russell has been diligently searched for. The complaint alleges that he obtained $1,00[illegible] worth of jewelry—diamond rings and rings of every other description, watch-chains, breastpins, earrings, etc.—all on credit, making the false representation that he was the owner of valuable real estate and that he was going into the jewelry business in a small way. When the firm discovered, however, that the fellow had disposed of at least a portion of the jewelry in pawnshops, they mistrusted that everything in the premises was not as it should be. So they investigated the matter and learned, as they claim, that Russell owned no real estate or any other property, and that he was a fraud. The detectives recovered several of the rings from pawnshops, but Lieut. Currier was very reticent about giving details, telling THE TRIBUNE reporter that the case must be suppressed until the remainder of the goods had been recovered.

GLAMIS CASTLE.

Its "Famous Mystery" Solved by a French Paper.

New York World.

The Paris Gaulois has undergone another revolution: M. E. de Cyon and M. Jules Simon have been replaced by M. Arthur Meyer and M. Henri de Pène, who have combined it with the Paris-Journal, and who signalize the new enterprise by announcing a solution of the famous Mystery of Glamis Castle. This ancient edifice, celebrated by Shakspeare, we are assured has been from time immemorial the seat of the noble and wealthy C—— family. As a matter of fact, it has belonged for centuries to the family of Bowes-Lyon. For the last 300 years a singular fatality has followed the C—— family. Whenever the heir has come of age he has been smitten by a mysterious malady, and has peaked and pined, finally going mad or falling a victim to epilepsy, to St. Vitus' dance, or to some other nervous affection. Vainly have eminent physicians been called in; the malady has defied cure or even detection, and so it has come to pass that for more than thirty leagues around Glamis Castle it is an article of belief that the Devil himself haunts the turrets of that stately pile. But the Gaulois-Paris-Journal has exorcised the fiend. "Do not," says the writer, "think it a mystification; the history is true. I repeat it."

Just 300 years ago there was born into the C—— family a horrible monster, half-man, half-frog, who, instead of dying as any monster inspired with a proper sense of family pride would have done, lived and throve, growing uglier and stronger day by day. He was the heir of the C—— family's great estates! When he grew up to be a young man-frog a grotto was constructed for his use in a secluded corner of the grounds of Glamis Castle, all approach to which was interdicted to the retainers of the C—— family, and there he was kept, his diet being raw potatoes, which it has hitherto been erroneously believed were not at so early a period been introduced into Great Britain, while his intellectual wants were catered to with supplies of playing-cards and newspapers. Newspapers, also, it had hitherto been thought, were not established in Great Britain until near the end of the first quarter of the seventeenth century. When the monster came of age the family entered into negotiations with him, for, we read, "they had been able to instill into his mind some rudimentary ideas and some scraps of English." This explanation looks well on the face of it, but the cynical reader will ask how, if the monster was of this feeble mental type, being but a step or so removed from an idiot, he could possibly have read the newspapers? The monster was a mild monster. He made no objection to resigning the estates to his younger brother, but he exacted the condition that each succeeding heir should, upon his 21st birthday, and once a month thereafter, pay him a ceremonious visit in his grotto. For 300 years, we are informed (and the writer in the Gaulois says he had his facts directly from a member of the C—— family), these conditions were complied with, and heir after heir was scared out of his sweet wits. The present heir, however, is in perfect health. He is only 23 years of age—it has been supposed that in Great Britain a man came of age at 21, but that, apparently, is a vulgar error—and it is hoped he may escape the doom of the family, not having to pay the fatal visit, as the monster died a month ago at the age of 300. Has the monster, we wonder, left any memoirs? The French writer hopes he has, and exclaims: "What a fine fantastic tale might be embroidered upon this theme!" Such is the ower true tale of the Mystery of Glamis Castle, which will be read with interest and gratification by the Earl of Strathmore and his family and the visitors who have visited Glamis Castle despite of the curse which has brooded over its turrets since 1582. It is pleasant to see that the infusion of new blood into our esteemed Parisian contemporary has been followed thus promptly by a marked increase in its readableness, and we venture to express the hope that the gifted writer who has solved the mystery of the Peerage will not hold himself there, as they say in France, but aspire to fresh fields and pastures new.

The Colonel and the Cat.

New York Star.

Col. Tom. Clark, of Brooklyn, once owned a cat on which he showered all the affection of his bachelor heart. And the shower took the shape of a pound of mince meat every day. One morning the Colonel noticed that his feline [illegible] had wasted away to a mere skeleton, and immediately he summoned his boy Bill to appear before the bar.

"Didn't I tell you to give that cat a pound of meat every day?" asked the Colonel.

"Yes, sir, and that's what I give him every morning before you're out of bed," answered Bill.

"I don't believe a word of it. My opinion is that you either pocket the money or eat the meat yourself. Bring me the scales and the cat."

The scales and cat were brought; the cat was placed on the former and Tom [illegible] marker stopped at the one pound mark.

"There," exclaimed the boy in triumph. "Didn't I tell you I gave him a pound of meat this morning?"

"There's the pound of meat sure enough," said the Colonel, striking his chin. "But where the devil's the cat?"

THE TURF.

How S. J. Morgan Lost the Wine on a Sure Thing.

Friday's Sensational Victory in the Goodwood Cup.

Sale of Aldine, Record 2:19 1-2, to Charles Schwartz.

Excellent Time Made at Rochester, N. Y., Yesterday.

The Central Park Matinee—Turf Notes and Gossip.

A Challenge to Trot Monroe Chief Against Von Arnim for $5,000.

How Mr. S. J. Morgan Bet the Wine with Manager Hall on a Sure Thing and Lost.

"I know a daisy story about Sam Morgan," said Manager D. L. Hall of the Driving-Park the other day to a select coterie of horsemen who were seated in the Driving-Park rooms with their feet at various angles of upward inclination, "and it wouldn't take much to make me tell it."

A horsey individual who had hitherto contented himself with gazing abstractedly out of the window at the eleven-story Montauk Building across the street turned around at this point and remarked with great solemnity and apparent deep conviction of the entire truthfulness of his statement that "Hardwood would beat every blankety blank stud-hoss in the country next season" and furthermore informed his audience that he was prepared to wager his anathematized existence on this point.

As Mr. Hall possesses a financial interest in the animal whose merits were set forth with such terse eloquence by the profane person in the corner, this remark had the effect of mellowing to an unusual degree the naturally genial element of his nature, and he proceeded at once to relate the "daisy story about Sam Morgan"—which gentleman will be remembered as the former owner of Piedmont, and one of the most popular and straightforward men ever connected with the trotting turf.

"During the July trotting meeting here," said Mr. Hall, "there was a race which Jerome Eddy won; I forget just what class it was, but anyhow—"

"I know all about that race," interjected the man who had been contemplating the Montauk Building with such fixity of purpose, "because Billy Boyle told me that Naiad Queen couldn't lose it. Do you know," he continued, "that Boyle actually lugged out a stack of Stud Books and things as long as your arm from behind that bar of his to prove that Naiad Queen couldn't help getting first money? He gave me the greatest talk you ever heard of about her being by Gooding's Champion, out of Tackey; then went on to tell about Tackey being by Pilot Jr., the sire of the dam of Maud S., and talked about the value of a double cross of Messenger blood on a pacing strain until I was dizzy. I went away on a run, for fear the pool-box would be closed before I got there, and landed $47 on that mare."

"Did she win?" asked a man whose memory was evidently not of the best.

"Well, I should gurgle that she didn't," replied the repository of Mr. Boyle's extensive information concerning pedigrees. "She was distanced in the first heat, and then I found out that everybody in town except Boyle knew the mare had the pinkeye, and was only started to try and help Mattie Graham win a heat," and the victim of misplaced confidence again turned his attention to the Montauk Building.

"Well," resumed Manager Hall, "as I was saying, the day that Jerome Eddy won his race I was one of the timers and Mr. Morgan was another. After Eddy had taken the second and third heats, and it was certain that nothing but an accident could make him lose the race, Mr. Dewey, one of the owners of Eddy, called Mr. Morgan out of the stand, and said that he would like the timers to be very careful about taking the time of the next heat, because they intended to cut their horse loose and win the $500 extra money offered by the association in case 2:21 was beaten. The horse could trot, he said, in 2:16 sure, but they only calculated to jog along in about 2:19—just fast enough to get the money without any trouble. Morgan said the time would be taken accurately, and then he started up-stairs again. On the way he concluded that it might be just as well to win a bottle of wine from me on what he knew—we were always betting a bottle on some scheme or other—and so when he came into the stand he began talking about the war in Egypt and a whole lot of other things that neither of us knew anything about. I wondered what was the matter with him, but finally he appeared rational again, and began talking horse.

"'Jerome Eddy is a great horse,' he said.

"I admitted that he was a pretty good one.

"'It wouldn't be surprised at all,' said Morgan, 'if he was to win that extra money this heat—anyhow, I'll bet the wine for the party that he does.'

"Well, of course I took the bet, not thinking that I was supposed to be going against a sure thing, but when Jerome Eddy swung into the homestretch about five lengths ahead of all the other horses, and I saw that his driver was shaking him up at every stride, it occurred to me that Morgan must have had a pointer before he bet. But somehow or other Jerome Eddy wasn't just at his best that heat, and couldn't beat 2:25, so Morgan lost the wine."

The Sensational Victory of Friday in the Goodwood Cup.

The London Standard, in its issue of July 28, gives the following account of how Friday a horse, against whom 25 to 1 was offered by the bookmakers before the start, won the Goodwood Cup:

The scene is one rather to enjoy than to describe, though as a scene it is certainly picturesque enough. Costumes this year are for the most part remarkably neat and tastefully simple, patterns of flowers stamped or worked on a light ground being apparently the most popular dress. The Princess of Wales, who wore an attire of this sort the other day, has this afternoon a robe of a most delicious shade of lemon, with over it a sort of cuirass of buff or light coffee-colored lace, while she is still constant to the bunch of deep crimson roses. From her balcony her Royal Highness graciously surveys the kaleidoscopic picture of the lawn; indeed, the Princess on her balcony is a most indispensable part of the scene, and it would not be a suitable Goodwood Cup day without her. Meanwhile the numbers have gone up for what is nominally the great race of the day: 2, 4, 5, and 6. M. Ephrussi's chestnut colt Bariolet, sent from France to cut down the hitherto invincible Tristan, Mr. Gretton's Geologist, Mr. Lefevre's Tristan, and the Duke of Hamilton's Friday, which has been jumping hurdles, and starts at an outside price, it being generally thought when the Duke takes a thousand to forty about the animal that he is simply making a present of the amount to the layer. Bariolet, bearing Rolfe in the unfamiliar blue and yellow spots, is a good-looking animal, but does not show to advantage by the side of Tristan. He is not what sportsmen call "such a good topped horse," and does not fill the eye like the 4-year-old son of Hermit, on whom odds of 6 to 1 are freely laid. But Fordham, in the owner's red, white, and blue jacket, does not regard the race as already over—he knows the temper of his mount too well. "They're laying three to one on me. It's not three to one that I can keep him in the course," remarks he to a friend as he prepares for the leg-up. When mounted, the horse is led away with a long run, an attendant with a hunting-whip being at hand, while Shepherd, Lord Beaconsfield's huntsman, who is keeping the course in his bright "pink," looks to see if his services can be utilized, by giving Archer a lead down towards the start in the race before Shepherd has distinguished himself. Friday carries little Martin, who has neither whip nor spur. The horse looks common, though game enough, but no one for a moment esteemed his chance. Among the spectators of the saddling is William Day, who, it was generally supposed, would play a prominent figure in this ceremony with Foxhall, for whom the principal cup races had been set down as a certainty. Turf certainties, however, are proverbially uncertain; or, if they are not, a proverb should at once be made to fit the case, for it would assuredly rank among the most irrefutable adages. Foxhall is doing well, his trainer says, but so far is taking it easy. He has not yet recovered from the two severe races he ran at Ascot, and rather than run the risk of injuring so good a horse by hastening his preparation, Mr. Keene is constrained that he should abandon these contests. It is a pity, every one is saying, for a race between Foxhall and Tristan would be worth seeing, while here, unless the Frenchman is much better than there is reason to suppose, it is merely a walkover for Fordham's mount. Geologist has a chance, and as for Friday, a well-known racing man looked contemptuously at the Duke of Hamilton's horse and exclaimed, "What's the good of starting a thing like that for the Goodwood Cup? Why, he can't gallop as fast as I can kick my hat!" The result demonstrated that if the speaker can in truth kick his hat as fast as Friday can gallop, the performance of that feat must be an unusually exciting spectacle.

When the flag falls Friday and Bariolet go off at a great rate, while Tristan, who seems to behave kindly enough when he was once started, keeps back, and the quartet, when three-quarters of a mile had been covered, are going in pairs with a good hundred yards between them. Men recollect how the Ascot Cup was run, how Faugh-a-Ballagh went on ahead, and kept there, Archer and Cannon riding behind and wondering when the leader was coming back to them. The leader did not come back in that case, and Foxhall's jockey had to set off in a pursuit which came near to being a failure. Here the question is: Will Friday be caught? For a mile from home Bariolet is, in the expressive racing phrase, "done with." A quarter of a mile from home it is evidently a race. Fordham has to land them long odds if he can, and Martin has to atone for the defeat of Vibration in the Stewards' Cup, for the lad, as clever a light-weight as is to be found, got off badly in the contest yesterday, and, losing some eight or ten lengths at the start, took so much out of his horse in making up lost ground that he could not struggle when the pinch came. Here, however, came the jackets red, white, and blue, and cerise, French gray sleeves; the latter is holding his own, the layers of odds recognize once more, as they have had cause to recognize so often before this season, that they are beaten. Friday doggedly keeps on, Fordham, with the advantage of a whip, if it be any advantage, rides his hardest; but the Duke's chestnut passes the post a head before his rival. The race was admirably ridden, and the boy deserves the cheers which greeted his return to weigh-in. The cup is a well-devised group in silver representing the parting between Hotspur and Lady Percy, as described in "Henry IV." The Knight stands by his charger, the rather coarse modeling of which is the worst part of the design, and the lady holds Hotspur's hand, illustrating the lines,

> In faith, I'll break thy little finger, Harry,
> An if thou wilt not tell me all things true.

The details are skillfully wrought. This upset being over, the tale of disaster continues, for Lord Rosebery's Bonny Jean is made a hot favorit, and is bowled over by the Prince. The colt is not as fit as he can be made, and those odds of five to two and three to one on Limestone with Archer up are upset, and backers travel home with less enthusiasm from the summer landscape than they displayed when going over the "good things" on the way to the course this morning.

A Challenge to Trot Monroe Chief Against Von Arnim.

Since the race at the Chicago trotting meeting between the stallions Monroe Chief and Von Arnim, in which the last-named horse was victorious, the friends of Von Arnim have repeatedly said that he could beat Monroe Chief at any time or place for any amount of money. The owners of Monroe Chief, Messrs. White and Doble, think differently, and THE TRIBUNE is authorized to say that they will match Monroe Chief against Von Arnim for $2,500 a side, mile heats, three in five, in harness, the race to be trotted any day in September, over any good mile track west of Cleveland.

If the Von Arnim party mean business they now have a chance to make a race for the stallion championship of the country.

Aldine Purchased by Mr. Charles Schwartz, of This City.

The news comes from Rochester that the chestnut mare Aldine, record 2:19½, by Almont, has been purchased from F. L. Noble, of Grand Rapids, Mich., by Peter V. Johnson for Mr. Charles Schwartz, of this city. Johnson has driven Aldine in all her races since the Chicago meeting, and has reduced her record from 2:26¼ to 2:19½. It is understood that the price paid was $4,000, and half the mare's net winnings in the entire circuit. At the close of the present trotting season she will be driven on the road by Mr. Schwartz as a mate to Argonaut.

The Trotting Meeting at Rochester, N. Y.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 12.—The weather was good, also the track, but the wind high for the Rochester races today. Betting was not quite as heavy as on the previous days. The third heat of the unfinished race was won by Aldine easily. Onawa was set back from third to sixth place for running.

ROCHESTER DRIVING PARK, Aug. 11 and 12.—Class 226, purse $1,500, $750 to first, $375 to second, $225 to third, $150 to fourth:

Time—2:23¾; 2:21; 2:21¼.

The second race was the 2:20 class. Adele Gould, Annie W., and Croxie were drawn. The others drew positions as follows: Driver, Von Arnim, J. P. Morris, Humboldt, Early Rose, Fred Douglass. Pools sold: Von Arnim, $60; Early Rose, $30; J. P. Morris, $12; Driver, $6; the field, $120. Later Von Arnim sold even against the field. In first heat Von Arnim took the lead at the first turn and led all the others home, winning the heat easily. J. P. Morris broke on the stretch and lost several lengths. Before the second heat Von Arnim brought $30 to the field's $10. When they were sent off Humboldt was two lengths behind, but his driver nodded to say go. The favorit led all the way around, and won easily, with Early Rose a close second. She broke at the entrance to the stretch, and lost the lap she then had on Von Arnim. The only contest in the heat was between Driver and Fred Douglass for third place. Morris was in third, but was set back to fourth place for running. Before the third heat pools sold: Von Arnim, $50; field, $8. Humboldt was drawn. When they started off Von Arnim kept the lead easily, and Douglass made a bold dash for second place, which Early Rose held at the turn. When they reached the quarter Douglass had second place, with Early Rose third, Driver fourth, and J. P. Morris fifth. The same positions were held at the half, after passing which Morris broke and ran in ahead of Douglass at the entrance to the stretch. Early Rose, who had fallen to third place, made a nice race with Douglass for second place. Von Arnim won the heat and race easily. Summary:

ROCHESTER DRIVING-PARK, Aug. 12.—Pure $2,000 for 2:20 class, for all horses not named in No. 10; $1,000 to first, $500 to second, $300 to third, $200 to fourth:

In the special named race for a purse of $3,000 Santa Claus was drawn. The others drew the following positions: Pickard, Edwin Thorne, J. B. Thomas, Minnie R., Clingstone, Kate Sprague. Pools sold: Clingstone, $40; Edwin Thorne, $10; the field $5. There were more backers of favorits than opposers. The scoring was long and tiresome. When they went away Minnie R. had a long lead. Edwin Thorne took the pole from Pickard, and Minnie R. carried Clingstone away across the track, then she pulled up and Sonders had to pull Clingstone and pass inside. During that proceeding Edwin Thorne took a lead of several lengths, which Clingstone tried hard to close. At the half Clingstone was chasing Thorne hard, but soon broke and lost the heat by it, for Thorne went without a skip and at a grand gait. Thorne crossed the wire two lengths a winner in 2:19, the others as per summary. Before the second heat Clingstone brought $25 to $12 on the field. When they started Thorne had a lead of a head over Clingstone, and Minnie R. was two lengths behind at the first turn. Turner crowded Clingstone away to keep him from getting the pole and then the favorit fell in behind. Thorne was a length and a half behind at the quarter, with Pickard third. The favorit lapped Thorne before reaching the half, but Thorne shook him off at the third turn and again had a lead of a length. When they swung into the stretch Clingstone again gained enough to lay his nose on Thorne's flank. The race down the stretch was very exciting, and Thorne had the race won but for a break at the distance flag, which let Clingstone take the heat by three quarters of a length, the others as per summary. Before the third heat Clingstone brought $25 to $8 on the field. The start was a good one for Thorne and Clingstone, but Minnie R. was several lengths behind. Thorne tried hard to get the pole, and in doing so broke just before the quarter, but Turner caught him quick, and he went ahead to close up the lead of three lengths that Clingstone had taken. Thorne had hard work to reduce the lead, but he managed to lap the favorit at the third turn, but was again left behind a length at the fourth turn. Clingstone had the lead half a length just beyond the distance-stand, when Thorne broke, and Clingstone won by two lengths, the others per summary. The fourth heat was started with Clingstone two lengths in the lead. Thorne closed up quickly and lapped him before the quarter was reached, but the favorit kept an even and fast stride, and Thorne could do no more than lap him at the half, from which point Clingstone gradually drew away from Turner's horse. At the third turn Thorne broke. He was pulled down quickly and was soon lapping the leader. Here Minnie R. came up fast and contested Thorne for second place, but she broke inside the distance stand and Thorne took second place behind Clingstone, the winner of the heat and race. Summary:

Time—2:19; 2:18; 2:20; 2:21¾.

The three-minute class was started with Sweetness, Topsey, Wilson, Howard Jay, Golden Rule, and Eva in the order named, George Sprague having been drawn. The pools sold at $25 on Wilson to $5 on the field. Wilson took a long lead on the first quarter and won the heat easily. The contest was between Golden Rule and Topsey for second place, and it was finally won by Golden Rule. No pools were sold before the second heat, which proved to be somewhat of a surprise for Wilson. When they started off Eva slipped in lively and took the pole, by which she shut off Wilson and took a lead of six lengths. This she maintained to past the quarter, when Wilson closed up rapidly, but the mare continued to lead until they reached the distance stand, when Wilson went very fast and won the heat by a nose. The third heat and race was won easily by Wilson. Summary:

The second race, one and one-half miles, was won by Bend Or. Gen. Monroe second, and Ella Warfield third. Time, 2:36¾.

The third race, one mile, was a dead heat between Col. Watson and Lutestring, Northland next. Time, 1:44½. In the run-off Watson won in 1:45¼.

The fourth race, three-quarters of a mile, was won by Amazon, Martinique second, and Iola third. Time, 1:15½.

Turf Talk.

Hardwood will not be started again in the Grand Central Circuit. In his race at Cleveland he trotted the last quarter of the third heat in 32¾ seconds, and it was then decided to save him for the great stallion race at the Chicago Horse Fair.

A driving park association has been organized in Covington, Ky., and a mile track will be built at once. A running meeting will be given next spring. The Hon. T. J. Megibben, a well-known breeder of thoroughbreds, is President of the association.

A week ago yesterday, at Mr. Robert Bonner's farm, Lucy Cuyler pulled a road wagon a quarter in 31 seconds, and on the same day Malice trotted two miles in 4:46, which is 2¼ seconds faster than the record. The first mile was done in 2:22¾, and the second in 2:23¼.

The pacer Sorrel Dan is not at the Driving Park, as erroneously stated by several city papers, but at the farm of W. R. Armstrong, Almont, Mich., where he is being jogged. His trouble is lameness, but it is possible that he may be able to start again in races this season.

Mr. H. V. Bemis, the head and front of turf matters in Chicago, who has been in Europe for the past three months, is expected to sail for New York Sept. 17. While in England Mr. Bemis purchased a mail-coach, and will begin the organization of a coaching club upon his return to this city.

Mr. John Forbes, of Canada, has recently purchased of Mr. J. T. Williams, of Eminence, Ky., the br. h. Wimbledon (5), by Waverly, dam Gilly Flower, by Gilroy, out of Sister to Ruric, by imported Sovereign. Wimbledon is at present performing at McVicker's Theatre in this city in "Taken from Life."

Andy Johnson, the chestnut stallion, foaled in 1853, and by Henry Clay, out of a mare by Tormentor, died at Belle View Farm, Dundee, N. Y., on Monday, July 31. He was the sire of Joe Hooker, 2:28¾, and of Ellsworth, 2:29. He was formerly called the "Spink Horse," and many regarded him as the best son of Henry Clay.

Punkin R., chestnut gelding, entered by J. A. Bland & Co., trotted in the 2:37 class at Crawfordsville, Ind., June 27, 1881, winning the first heat in 2:32½. A chestnut gelding called Punkin R. is entered by S. H. Bell, Nashville, Tenn., in the 2:38 classes at Buffalo, Rochester, Utica, and Hartford, in the Grand Central Circuit. If they are one and the same, the horse is not eligible in the 2:38 class.

The management of the Cleveland (Ohio) Club, in closing up the business of their recent race-meeting, are so well satisfied with the result that they have initiated arrangements for the holding of a fall meeting. It is understood that a four-days' meeting has been agreed upon, and eight purses of $750 each will be offered for the following classes: 2:50, 2:29, 2:33, 2:21, 2:17, 2:25, 2:40, and 2:19 pacing classes.

John Turner says he would rather own a pacer than to have the President's salary of $50,000 a year. "You see," says Turner, "one pacer goes and wins a heat easy, and then becomes a big favorit. Next heat he breaks his check, and is beaten; and so another horse wins an easy heat; but the next heat he gives it up. A third horse tackles the race and gets away with a heat, but falls down before another heat is paced. In this way the race is prolonged until the suckers are all taken into the pool-box, which gets fuller than a Lord on the Queen's birthday."

Hindoo has resumed slow work, and it is possible that the good horse may see the post again at Sheepshead Bay or Jerome Park. He has never broken down, but toward the close of the Sheepshead Bay meeting his leg began to fill, and it became an alternative of let-up or break down, and the Dwyers stopped him. It is by no means certain that he will appear again this season, but if he continues to do well he may make the autumn campaign. He is one of the best horses our turf has seen in years, and at the present time he could ill be spared.

A DREAM.

For The Chicago Tribune.

Deep-hidden in the bosom of a rose,
At early dawn ere yet the Sun has risen,
A dewdrop lies, its presence all unguessed.
Now comes the Sun, with kisses close,
And draws the little captive from its prison.

So hidden in thy heart of hearts, my rose
(To thy fair dawn the light of Love unknown)
Lie tender thoughts, with fancies sweet impressed.
Comes to thee Love. He doth the heart unclose
And draws its treasure from thee—thou, his own.

The League Championship.

The career of the Chicago team on their second Eastern trip has thus far been a sore disappointment to their friends in Chicago and elsewhere, and has also placed the team in a position where it is well-nigh impossible for them to win the championship. Leaving home in the full flush of a remarkable succession of victories which had brought them into first place, and with every player in the best of physical condition, the Chicagos took two games out of three from the crippled Detroits. This was a good enough send-off, but when they got to Boston they weakened badly, and there lost two out of three, the third game (2 to 18) being the sevest defeat they have suffered this year. Two days later they beat Providence 3 to 1 in a well-played game, but the very next day they lost a game which up to the sixth inning, when the score stood 5 to 0 in their favor, they seemed to have won beyond question. A little hard hitting by Providence and three bad errors by Kelly in short field yielded eight runs in one inning and lost the game in a most discreditable manner. Yesterday Chicago was beaten again, this time 2 to 0, and all the advantage of the situation was forfeited. The club now stands three games in the rear of Providence, and nothing but a bad falldown by the latter can lose it the championship. THE TRIBUNE in the early part of last June predicted that Chicago would not win the championship, and declared it could not retain the pennant without playing a phenomenal game for the remainder of the season. Chicago did play a phenomenal game from the middle of June up to the 25th of July, but then came a let-down just at a time when the play should be the strongest. Providence in the meantime has won eight out of eleven games, while Chicago has lost six out of ten. Nothing but a reversal of this ratio can win the championship for Chicago. The latter now has six more games to play in the East, three each with Troy and Worcester. Of these Chicago should win at least five, as, allowing for losing one at Troy, they ought not suffer a single defeat at Worcester. But ought not and will not are two very different things, as Chicago has so many times demonstrated this season. Providence has for its next six games Detroit and Buffalo, and will have hard work to win four out of six. The situation at the close of yesterday's play was as follows:

	Boston.	Buffalo.	Chicago.	Cleveland.	Detroit.	Providence.	Troy.	Worcester.	Games won.	Games yet to play.
Boston	—	4	4	6	4	5	3	7	33	23
Buffalo	2	—	6	6	2	3	3	8	30	25

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 12.—The Chicagos were Chicagoed here today in the presence of 2,309 people, turnstile count. Radbourn was pitching great ball, and only three men in the Chicago nine hit him safe, and those hits were scattered. The Providence nine were playing for the pennant, and played to win, showing an almost perfect game; so no Chicago man went further than third base. Corcoran was also pitching at his best, and Hines was the only man who hit him freely. Providence secured her two runs in the seventh inning as follows: Carroll made a hit over third bag, Denny struck a nasty one to Burns, who fumbled it, and both runners were safe. Then a wild pitch advanced them a base, and Hines' baser to left field brought them home, amid the tumultuous cheering of the crowd. Both clubs fielded in excellent form, Gore especially distinguishing himself by a difficult fly catch. George Wright is better, but not yet able to play.

Boston 5, Cleveland 0.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 12.—It took the Boston Base-Ball Club but one hour and twenty-three minutes to whitewash the Cleveland nine on the South End grounds this afternoon. The home team had everything their own way from the start, two bad errors by Dunlap, a base hit by Hornung, and a double bagger for Morrill, giving them an insurmountable lead of three runs in the first inning. But for a beautiful double play by Muldoon, Morrill would have scored, making four runs in the inning. Muldoon stood on third base and caught a hot liner from Deasley's bat, thus also retiring Morrill, who had started for the home plate. The Clevelands started off well, both Dunlap and Phillips hitting safely, but a fine double play by Wise, Burdock, and Morrill prevented them from scoring. During the rest of the game only five Cleveland men reached first base, and but two to second, beyond which none were allowed to pass. Whitney's pitching proved more effective than in any previous game with the Clevelands. McCormick was batted more freely, and only by sharp fielding was the number of base hits kept down. The general good play of Wise was the feature of the game, which was witnessed by 1,318 people. Unlike the two preceding games in Boston this week, the umpire appeared rather to favor the Bostons in close decisions, although there was nothing particularly glaring.

Buffalo 7, Worcester 4.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 12.—Two home runs after the side should have been out settled today's game. Foley got one in the fourth, bringing in O'Rourke, and White one in the eighth, on which Foley, Brouthers, and Rowe also scored. Galvin proved a terror for the Worcesters, every man in the team striking out once, and Stovey, Corey, and McLaughlin twice.

Butler Bros. 10, Work, Wachsmuth & Co. 4.

Bennett Box Factory 25, Ware & Johnson 23.

Wick & Bonnell Co. 26, Parkhurst & Wilkinson 8.

Sprague, Warner & Co. 15, H. J. Thompson & Co. 12.

The Lawndales beat the Hinsdales yesterday 11 to 10.

The South Ends defeated the Onwards of the North Side 10 to 3.

Niagara Fire-Insurance Company 28, Springfield Fire & Marine 6.

Einstein, Longini & Co. defeated a picked nine from the mercantile houses 11 to 8.

A picked nine from Henry W. King & Co.'s defeated the regular house nine 20 to 18.

The Donohue & Henneberry nine beat the Rand & McNally nine two games—first game 11 to 7, second 18 to 12.

The Alerts and Quaker Citys played a tie, 5 each, play being stopped by darkness at the end of the seventh inning.

The S. D. Kimbark nine defeated the Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. nine 10 to 9. These two clubs are the champions of the wholesale nines, having lost but one game apiece this season. The next game will be played for the championship.

Gossip of the Game.

It is said Providence pays George Wright $2,000 for four months' work.

Bond, recently released by Worcester, has joined the Louisville nine.

The Worcesters have signed McLaughlin, of the Atlantic of Brooklyn, to play at short.

Bancroft tried to get Warner, third baseman of the Merritts, of Camden, to go to Detroit, but failed.

Browning, of the Louisvilles, still leads the American Association in batting, with an average of .390.

Thompson, who has been catching for the Tecumsehs, of London, Ont., has signed to catch for the Philadelphias.

Troy has made an appeal to the Athletic management for reinstatement. The latter refuse to remove the sentence.

The Allegheny Club offered Bennett, of the Detroits, $1,800 to play with them next year, but he will not probably accept.

The Worcesters offered Hubbard, of the Yale College nine, a flattering offer to catch for them in place of O'Brien, released.

Farrell, the Detroit third-baseman, has broken the bone in his right arm, and will probably not be able to play any more this season.

McGunnigle, of the Buffalos of 1879, who has been in business in that city since, has signed with the Clevelands, and will play centre-field.

Richardson, Brouthers, Daily, and Galvin have been approached by American clubs with offers of larger salaries than they are getting.

The American Association, it is said, will admit but two new clubs next season. New York and Milwaukee are mentioned as the successful applicants.

The Louisvilles are after Neagle, of the Philadelphias, off whose delivery the Chicagos in a recent game made but two hits. They want him to fill Mullane's place.

The Chief of Police of Philadelphia has issued an order that all police base-ball clubs shall at once be disbanded, and he holds the Police Lieutenants and Captains responsible for its enforcement.

Dunnigan, the umpire who assaulted a reporter in New York, has been prohibited from acting as umpire in any match on the Polo Grounds for the remainder of the season, and steps have been taken to have him expelled from the league.

The following league players had not missed playing in a single championship game up to Aug. 9: Knight, Kelly, Purcell, Anson, O'Rourke, Burns, Foley, Pfeffer, Dunlap, Hornung, Glasscock, Hines, Phillips, Farrell, J. J., Shaffer, Start, Muldoon, Denny, Dalrymple, Wood, Brouthers, Stovey, Gore.

The Superior Base-Ball Club has been organized with the following players: A. Sommers, 2b.; J. Olson, p.; E. H. O'Hara, l. f. and Captain; C. McCarty, 1b.; R. Conners, 3b.; J. Jameson, c.; L. Herdrich, c. f.; G. Stapleton, s. s.; C. Sundstron, r. f. Challenges may be addressed to L. Herdrich, Secretary, No. 169 East Chicago avenue.

"1, 2, 3"—The umpire has no authority to declare a man out under the circumstances you mention—viz.: When the runner, having been given a base on balls, and having gone part way to the base, under a misapprehension starts back to the base previously held. He was entitled to the base awarded, and could not be put out unless he had reached that base and then left it to go back.

The easiest position in a base-ball match is that of the umpire. All he has to do is to catch all the passed balls and half the fouls on his ribs and stomach, and cry "ball" and "strike" in regular alternation, and enjoy a general and enthusiastic cussing from both nines and all the spectators when the game is over. Anybody can be an umpire if he has only the "gall."—Burlington Hawkeye.

Brouthers, of the Buffalos, heads the list of league players at the bat, his average being .396, while Daily of the same nine has the best fielding average, .985. Anson, of the Chicagos, ranks second at the bat, with an average of .369, and Deroy, of the Detroits, follows Daily with a fielding average of .978. Browning, of the Louisvilles, leads the American Association at the bat with an average of .390, while Landis, of the Baltimores, leads the association in fielding with an average of .976.

Speaking about the batting of Brouthers, the big first baseman of the Buffalos, the Philadelphia Times says: "Ten two-base hits were made, four of them by Brouthers, who reached first base every time he came to the bat, once on called balls. One of his hits over the centre field fence, higher than the spire of the little brick church, was the longest ever made on the ground. The ball rolled up Ridge avenue as far as the Glenwood Cemetery gate, and was brought back to the ground on a Ridge avenue car. Another hit by Brouthers over the right field fence struck the cobbles in Twenty-fifth street and rolled for a square."

According to the league averages up to Aug. 1 the best batting nine would be: Bennett, of Detroit, c., .320; Whitney, of Boston, p., .340; Brouthers, of Buffalo, 1b., .396; Dunlap, of Cleveland, 2b., .277; Kelly, of Chicago, s. s., .315; Williamson, of Chicago, 3b., .267; Gillespie, of Troy, l. f., .336; Gore, of Chicago, c. f., .323; Foley, of Buffalo, r. f., .312. The finest fielding nine would be Deasley, of Boston, c., .931; Daily, of Buffalo, p., .985; Start, of Providence, and Phillips, of Cleveland, are tie at 1b., with .974; Burdock of Boston, 2b., with .926; McGeary, of Detroit, s. s., .936; Hornung, of Boston, l. f., .919; Richmond, of Cleveland, .805; Evans, of Worcester, .868.

THE CITY-HALL.

The bids for painting the iron-work of the new City-Hall were opened yesterday by the Department of Public Works, and ranged from $1,092 to $8,700. There were in all seven bidders.

The Controller yesterday paid the Bronson estate $16,517, a judgment obtained in 1880 for opening Milwaukee avenue from Lake to Fulton streets, for which the land of the estate was taken.

Justice Wallace yesterday fined George Webster, John Cox, John Stoolmiller, and Albert Smith, all carpenters, $10 each for working on a frame cottage corner of Thirty-fifth and Parnell streets.

Mr. R. D. G. Paton, the Smoke Inspector, reports that he made thirty-five visits to various places last week, took out four summons against business firms to be answered before Wallace on the 18th inst., and six against tugmen, to be answered before the same tribunal on the 17th. There have been twenty-three tugs noticed emitting smoke badly at the various bridges. The railroad companies are endeavoring to stop the smoke nuisance as far as they can.

The canal pumping engines are nearly ready to put up. The boilers will be shipped this week, and the work of setting up the engines will be commenced the latter part of this or the first of next week.

The West Chicago avenue street-car line extension, from Wood to Leavitt streets, thence south to Indiana, to connect the two lines, will be completed next Wednesday, when Superintendent Lake expects to have cars running on the new road.

Prof. Barrett will extend the police telephone alarm and patrol system this week through the East Chicago avenue district. For the time being a barn will be rented near the police station for the horses and wagon until the city can build one of its own.

There were no new cases of small-pox reported yesterday. There were two deaths at the pest-house—one a Bohemian baby 6 months old, taken from No. 23 Fisk street, and John Ingraham, a Canadian, 21 years old, taken from Twenty-first street and Archer avenue.

Commissioner of Public Works Cregier and Superintendent Fogarty yesterday made a tour of the streets which are now under improvement, and found that the work was progressing satisfactorily on all, and the prospect was good for the completion of all before frost sets in. The asphalt block pavement on Wabash avenue is being well laid.

The Western Edison Electric Light Company were granted permission by Commissioner of Public Works Cregier to lay cables across Eighteenth street, between Michigan and Indiana avenues, Prairie avenue, between Eighteenth and Twentieth streets, and the block bounted by State street, Wabash avenue, Randolph and Lake streets, on Halsted street, from the Academy of Music to Madison street. The Calumet Club house and the Academy are to be illuminated with this light. The company will have to deposit enough money to pay for replacing the pavement in good condition.

The following building permits were issued yesterday: George Wisch, three-story and basement shop, 20x80 feet, Washington street, near Franklin, to cost $3,500; H. Kulp, one-story and basement cottage, 24x54 feet, No. 577 Superior, to cost $3,500; M. J. Breckbill, two-story and basement dwelling, 24x40 feet, No. 281 Webster avenue, to cost $3,300; William Ryan, three-story and basement flats, 23x60 feet, No. 140 Thirteenth street, to cost $8,500; William Hoeppke, two-story store and dwelling, 24x60 feet, No. 455 Lincoln street, to cost $3,100; G. Sempke, two-story store and dwelling, 24x60 feet, No. 1079 Leavitt street, to cost $3,200.

The new ordinances for the licensing of billiard and pool tables and steam pleasure boats, having been published the necessary ten days required by law, have gone into effect. All billiard and pool tables will now have to pay an annual license fee of $10 each, where they are used for gain. All steam pleasure boats will have to pay an annual license fee of $25 each. Heretofore the owners of these little vessels, which ply mainly between the shore and the Government Pier, have done about as they pleased, and their craft have become the resort, in a great measure, of questionable characters. Now that they will be licensed, the police authorities propose to keep a surveillance over them, and for any infringement of the law their licenses will be revoked. Warrants have been issued for all of them, and their owners are expected to come in Monday to the City Collector and take out their licenses. Otherwise there will be penalties attached.

TENEMENT-HOUSE INSPECTION.

The weekly report of the Tenement House and Factory Inspectors issued yesterday shows the following work done since Saturday last: In tenement houses, there were 29 special examinations made, and 218 houses, containing 2,675 rooms inhabited by 647 families of 3,094 persons, were inspected. There were 64 factories, 48 stores, and 19 miscellaneous inspections made. There were 62 notices served, and 48 nuisances abated. The following places were reported upon as being defective in a sanitary sense:

No. 76 Green street, owned by R. Jones, a two-story and basement frame, occupied by ten persons. The ventilation and plumbing are poor and defective, with full and offensive privies.

No. 515½ Jefferson street, owned by Anton Ransam, a two-story frame; the plumbing is poor and the drainage very bad, there being a pool of stagnant water under the house, while the privies are full and offensive. The sewer is obstructed entirely.

Nos. 78 and 80 Green street, George Van Zandt owner, corner West Washington and Desplaines streets; an old two-story and basement frame, of eighteen rooms, occupied by five families of twenty-three persons. The privies are very offensive, the drainage is very bad in No. 78, there being stagnant and stinking water under the first floor. There is a milk depot in No. 80, the milkhouse and privy vault being close together, and the waste water from the milk-house discharging by a short drain into a privy vault which is fearfully offensive. In the rear of the lot of No. 78 the water comes out through a hole in the wall near the ground and meanders in a gentle and stinking course towards the privy-vault.

No. 91 Ada street, E. A. Cummings agent; two-story and basement brick; sewer-gas infests the house, because of imperfect sewer ventilation and defective soil-pipe.

No. 182 West Monroe street, W. J. Crum owner; two-story frame; the plumbing is poor, the drainage bad, and the privy is overflowing into the yard. The waste-pipes discharge into a wooden box drain, which is obstructed, and the nasty filth flows over the ground under the house.

No. 341 West Randolph street, owned by Mrs. Hannah Bell; two-story frame. There is stagnant water under the house. The waste-pipes are not properly connected with the sewer, and there are no traps. The premises are in an unsanitary condition generally.

No. 46 North Sangamon street, Mrs. H. C. Wood, owner, a three-story frame. These premises are reported to be in a very unsanitary condition. There is stagnant water under the house, the waste-pipes are untrapped, and enter into an open sewer. There are no rain conductors to the house, and the entrance to the privy is in an unsafe condition. The roof also leaks.

No. 58 North May street, owned by Mrs. Heaney, two-story frame. There is only one sink and waste-pipe in the house, which are both untrapped, and enter into an open sewer. Poor plumbing and drainage.

No. 263 Third avenue, H. W. Martin, agent, a dilapidated frame, occupied by nineteen persons. The plumbing and drainage are poor and defective, and privy overflowing. The roof is leaky and the yard filthy.

No. 170 Third avenue and No. 447 Dearborn street; a man named Watkins agent. The plumbing work is poor and there is sewer-gas in the house.

No. 168 Third avenue and No. 449 Dearborn street, owned by C. L. Jenks. The plumbing is poor, the drainage is defective, and the house is impregnated with sewer-gas.

No. 184 Third avenue and No. 457 Dearborn street. The plumbing is bad and the drainage is poor. The water-closets are offensive and unventilated. There is sewer-gas in the house and the walls are dirty.

No. 104 West Chicago avenue, owned by A. Herman, two-story and basement frame. The ventilation is poor, there being no transoms over the doors. The plumbing is poor, there being no traps. The drainage is defective, there being a pool of stagnant water under the house. The water-closet is a miserable affair, located under a leaky sidewalk and insufficient. The Inspector says of these premises: "It is almost impossible to describe the unsanitary condition of these premises and their surroundings. The basement part of the house is in the worst condition during a rain. The surface-water pours into and over the floors of the rooms. The privy-vault is within five or six feet of the door, and the odors from the filth are terrible. There are four beds in one room, occupied by two families of eight persons, four of whom are children. In the other small room there are eight persons, six of whom are small children. This house is tenanted by Poles, who seem in this district to make it a point to live in overcrowded basements. These premises should be condemned or be made tenantable. There are three small vaults or closets under a leaky sidewalk for the accommodation of seventy-four persons, and to have access to them in stormy weather is almost impossible. The yards are covered with filth and garbage of all kinds, the stench arising from which is intolerable."

Nos. 106 and 108 West Chicago avenue, owned by A. Hammond, a two-story frame of twelve rooms, occupied by fifty-three persons. The ventilation is poor, there being no transoms over the doors. The plumbing is poor and the waste-pipe untrapped. The drainage is bad. These premises are in a filthy condition, the yard being covered with a motley collection of excrement, garbage, etc. The house is minus drain-pipes, and the privies are under a leaky sidewalk and very dirty.

No. 9 Lessing street, owned by Michael Maguire, a two-story frame of twenty rooms, occupied by forty-eight persons. The ventilation is poor, and there are no transoms over the doors. The drainage is poor, and there is no connection with the sewer, and the privies are full and offensive. The water-supply is in the basement, and the waste runs into gutters, where it becomes stagnant and offensive.

THE INFANTILE DEATH-ROLL.

There were sixty-seven deaths reported in the city yesterday, of which forty-seven were children under 5 years old, as follows:

Mary Case, 6 months, No. 3002 Portland avenue; cerebral meningitis.

George Kleinhamer, 4 years 6 months, No. 88 Delaware place; diphtheria.

Ignatius Foundling, 13 days, St. Vincent's Infant Asylum; marasmus.

Agnes Kelley, 1 month, St. Vincent's Infant Asylum; marasmus.

Dominick Foundling, 13 days, St. Vincent's Infant Asylum; marasmus.

John Gallagher, 1 year 1 month, No. 28 Superior street; summer complaint.

ART IN CHICAGO.

Mulvany's Great Battle-Piece "Custer's Last Rally"—John Phillips' Portrait of John Wentworth—Notes from the Studios.

Mr. John Mulvany, a graduate of the Munich School of Art, and an ardent believer in the necessity for an historical American painter, has, at the solicitation of many friends, placed on exhibition at No. 209 Wabash avenue his great historical painting, entitled "Custer's Last Rally," which will be viewed with wonder, awe, and admiration so long as the terrible story of the massacre of that brave cavalry officer with nearly 300 of his command by a horde of merciless savages remains in the minds of American citizens. The canvas upon which is depicted this hapless and desperate struggle is twenty feet long by eleven feet wide, and is a distinctively American picture, with none of the conventional battle-field array of troops in fine uniforms. These soldiers wore blue blouses and slouch hats, and the highest color shown is in the buckskin coat of Custer. The completion of this painting of a gallant struggle and dauntless death is the result of two or three years of labor in the region of the Yellowstone, sketching, searching for local facts and details, and gathering material for a composition so full of technical difficulties that it would have appalled an artist imbued with a purpose less ardent and a bravery less heroic. There is no strong massing of light and shade, and there is some lack of emphasis to the picture, and although there is plenty of powerful detail the first impression gained is one of confusion and uncertainty. This, however, is true in some degree of all battle-pieces, and is perhaps an unavoidable peculiarity. Strong drawing and realistic representation are not wanting. The types of the American soldier as shown in the most conspicuous figures are vigorous and clear-cut. Idealization has not been attempted in any save the central figures. Custer is presented in an extra-heroic attitude, with a navy revolver in his right hand and a sabre in his left, the right foot advanced, the features firmly set and betraying rather less of the excitement and the anxiety which such a situation would inevitably create, and in a general way the face is suggestive of "standing for his picture." The central figure, while invested with marked prominence, is by no means the most important part of the picture. It was not Custer alone who fought bravely and desperately on that awful field. Every common soldier was equally a hero and a martyr. It is this sentiment, so magnificently portrayed by the painter, that is the chief glory of the picture. There is a world of merit in the composition and execution which goes far to outweigh and dwarf the minor faults in conception and treatment, and "Custer's Last Rally" deserves to and will take rank as one of the few great historical battle-pieces yet produced in America.

Another portrait from the rapid and able brush of Mr. John Phillips is now on exhibition at the office of the Leland Hotel. It shows the massive head and bust of the Hon. John Wentworth, painted life size, and is intended by Mr. Wentworth as a present to the Historical Society of this city. The artist himself places it at the head of his many important works, and it is undoubtedly a masterpiece of portraiture. While the most agreeable and characteristic expression of the face has been chosen with rare ability, it has not been at the sacrifice of rugged, sturdy individuality, which is presented with great force and technical strength. The delicate grays and reflected lights in the face are exquisit, and the luminous, transparent quality of the flesh tints, combined with the vigor and impressiveness of the modeling and handling, marks this portrait as a work of art. It is in many respects Mr. Phillips' greatest subject since his last advent in Chicago, and it is his greatest success. He seems to have got the tact (and perhaps the luck) to get his sitter in one of his best moods. The eyes are lighted up with a pleasant twinkle, and about the firm-set mouth, the character-lines of which are preserved with marked truthfulness, plays a semi-humorous and altogether good-natured expression. All that is individual in a face full of striking individuality is here preserved with a fidelity which bears witness alike to the artist's skill and his conscientiousness. There have been painted several portraits of Mr. Wentworth in his younger days, but it is the Wentworth of 67 whose very countenance looks through the frame in this latest picture, and whose historical face is to adorn the walls of the Historical Society.

Jean Smith seems to have found most congenial employment in furnishing comic illustrations for M. Quad's forthcoming book, dedicated to the members of the "Detroit Lime Kiln Club." Judging from those sketches already published they are worthy of the text.

Mr. Alfred Payne has been engaged lately in the rather difficult task of painting from photographs the portraits of several deceased persons. That he has completed them with much satisfaction to the relatives and credit to himself is a matter of congratulation.

Mr. A. F. Brooks has completed his exposition picture, for which his little daughter sat as a model; also a fine crayon portrait of Gen. Stewart for his son, who resides in Cleveland. Mr. Brooks is now engaged upon an oil portrait of Gen. Singleton, of Quincy, Ill.

C. F. Schwerdt's completed portrait of Dr. William Clarke, of this city, a brother of the well-known authoress, Grace Greenwood, is an excellent piece of work. It is painted from life, and is one of the best of the artist's recent portraits.

Prof. Gregori, who was in Chicago last week, still claims a residence here, where he has left many fine specimens of his work. Any orders for portraits left with Mr. Gentile in the Ayer building will be attended to.

Nearly all of the local artists have their pictures ready for the exposition, and to judge from their appearance in the studios rather a stronger showing will be made this year than heretofore.

Felix Ekblad has lately finished three large canvases, entitled "Early Morning in New Jersey," "Sunset After a Storm," and "On the Oklawaha, Florida."

Frank B. Moore, an inmate of the jail upon a charge of embezzlement, yesterday gave $300 bail for his appearance for trial at the September term of court. The complaining witness was one of the bondsmen.

The Executive Board of the Cigarmakers' Union met at No. 135 East Madison street last evening "for the transaction of routine business." Several of the members said no immediate strike was in contemplation.

Lauretta Cling, the woman who shot her own thumb off while trying to shoot a woman named Maggie Sipple, and Mary Price were yesterday removed from the jail to the County Hospital. Bailiff Dixon has them in charge.

Ex-Sheriff Kern and Mr. E. C. Hibbard left yesterday afternoon on the Pullman hunting coach "Isaac Walton" for a two weeks' shoot at prairie chickens in Iowa. They will be joined at Milwaukee by a party of a dozen, including Alexander Mitchell.

The body of an unknown man, 50 years of age, clad in black cashmere pants and vest, brown coat, blue stocking, and who was about five feet six inches tall, was fished out of the lake at the North Pier yesterday afternoon and taken to the morgue.

A lady named Wears, who arrived in the city Friday from Michigan, put up temporarily at the Adams House, but was found upon the street yesterday by Officer Pembroke, out of her mind. She was taken first to the Harrison Street Station, and afterward to the County Jail.

The cars on the Lincoln Park and Wells street lines will run via Chicago avenue and Clark streets Monday. A new track is being laid on Wells street, between Chicago avenue and the river. The Wells and Larrabee street cars will also run via Chicago avenue and Clark street.

The temperature yesterday, as observed by Manasse, optician, 88 Madison street (Tribune Building), was as follows: At 8 a. m., 69; 9 a. m., 71; 10 a. m., 73; 11 a. m., 71; 12 m., 77; 1 p. m., 80; 2 p. m., 81; 3 p. m., 82; 4 p. m., 83; 6 p. m., 72. Barometer, 8 a. m., 29.60; 6 p. m., 29.60. Wind southwest, with barometer standing.

Mr. William A. Redfield, the telegraph operator who enlisted in the regular army under false representations, and who deserted therefrom and was arrested and confined in Columbus barracks, was welcomed yesterday on his release by a number of his old friends. Mr. Redfield owes his release to Secretary-of-War Lincoln.

The Swedish Consul called at the Desplaines Street Station last night with a short-hand reporter and took full statements from both of the Swedish prisoners who confessed to the murder of Sophie Dahlberg. This step is taken probably for the purpose of verifying the truth of their stories before starting them for Sweden.

Messrs. George Sliker and Dexter Wright, who were arrested on a charge of perjury in an important case by a Constable from Justice Brayton's court, wish it understood that the officer had not the slightest difficulty in making the arrest. Through an error, THE TRIBUNE stated that the gentlemen went unwillingly with the Constable.

A couple of 16-year-old lads, Fred Cornell and Timothy O'Connell, were yesterday held to the Criminal Court by Justice Wallace in bonds of $300 each on a charge of burglary. O'Connell was caught in the act of entering a shoe-store on Madison street through a ventilator-hole, and his partner was found having in his possession several pairs of shoes taken from the store.

A number of employés of Crane Brothers' foundry gathered in a neighboring saloon last night to present the foreman, John Manning, with a gold ring. Some of the men got a little drunk and a row ensued, in which Edward Sheridan, Dan Callaghan, and James Moran were conspicuous, and Moran was kicked in the face. They were taken to the Desplaines Street Station.

Justice Wallace yesterday issued a judgment against E. N. Marks, a well-known Police-Court bondsman, for $27, this being the amount of a fine and costs outstanding against one Tillie Cavanaugh, who was fined by Justice Summerfield some time ago and took an appeal, Marks going upon her bond. The appeal was afterwards dismissed, and now the authorities want the money.

A young man named Harry Mettler, of Avondale, was taken to the County Hospital last night with a bullet-hole in his left cheek and a bullet lodged somewhere in the back of his neck. He claimed to have been accidentally shot at the corner of Milwaukee avenue and Diversey street by a colored friend named Charles Johnson. The physicians say the wound is not serious. Johnson was not arrested.

An expressman driving leisurely along State street yesterday afternoon observed two young men following first one lady and then another, and attempting, as he states, to pick their pockets. He called Sergt. Croke's attention to the little game, and that officer, after chasing through the throng of fair ones, finally arrested the young men and had them locked up at the armory. They gave the names of Charles Newell and Ed Burns.

The fourth annual reunion of the Danforth family will take place in Wesleyan Hall, No. 36 Bromfield street, Boston, at 9 o'clock a. m. on Wednesday, Sept. 9, next. The Hon. P. S. Danforth, of Middleburg, N. Y., will deliver an address. The "family" will partake of a banquet at the Quincy House in the evening, whereat brief speeches will be made by several of the "boys." All who are in any way connected with the name, either by blood or marriage, are especially invited to attend.

The Secretary of the Citizens' Association, in answer to the numerous complaints sent in to him about the inordinate whistling which occurred Friday evening about 9 o'clock, and continued for an hour, wishes to report that it was caused by an accident to the tug Alpha, which fouled the headgear of a sailing vessel in such a manner that the whistle could not be stopped. It was so plainly accidental and afterwards irremediable that a prosecution would be improper and useless.

Mr. T. L. Slocum bought a horse from D. Bertram and paid $110 for the animal. Bertram represented that it was a splendid horse for work, was all sound, and would drive single or double. Slocum discovered that the equine was a wreck physically and not fit to work or to drive either single or double. Yesterday he swore out a warrant before Justice Brayton charging Bertram with obtaining money by false pretenses. Bertram, who has often been defendant in cases of this kind, gave bail to appear for a hearing Aug. 15.

A sailor named Joe Coture went to a concert-saloon at No. 476 State street Friday night, and, after drinking considerable, was inveigled into an alley in the rear of the place and robbed of $35 in Canada money, a $30 watch and chain, and a knife. Officer Casey got hold of the case soon after, and arrested Robert Young, Charles Strong, and John Taylor as the robbers. The prisoners were identified by Coture. They had about $8 in Canada money when arrested, and one of them had Coture's knife. Justice Wallace held the trio to the Criminal Court in bonds of $300 each.

The Republican Club of the Ninth Precinct of the Twelfth Ward met at the corner of Ogden avenue and Wood street last night, and occupied the brief time which the meeting lasted in listening to an interesting talk by Mr. L. H. Whitney and some good singing by a chance quartet. Col. McLaughlin was Chairman. Mr. Whitney, in the course of his remarks, called attention to the necessity of choosing legislators who would revise the criminal code and jury system of Illinois, and of choosing Congressmen who would not countenance such steals as did the friends of the River and Harbor bill.

Lately a number of small musical instruments were stolen from Lyon & Healy's music store, corner of State and Monroe streets, and suspicion finally attached to a young man named Edward Coleman, employed by the firm as a polisher. Yesterday Coleman was arrested by Lieut. Hayes, who afterward sent an officer to Coleman's room, where upwards of $150 worth of the missing instruments were found—about all that had been stolen. Coleman was brought before Justice Wallace on a charge of larceny, but he took a change of venue to Justice Prindiville, where the case was continued to Aug. 14.

The Adams & Westlake Manufacturing Company gave the third annual picnic to their employés at Sharpshooters' Park yesterday. This company employ about 450 hands, and with their families the number at the picnic was 1,200, conveyed in a special train of eleven cars over the Pan-Handle Road. Everything that was possible was done by the officers of the company to make the picnic a success, and there was the most perfect arrangement of all details. There were some sixteen races, including foot and sack race, an egg race, and a greased pig, and the prizes offered were of considerable value. With perfect management and good weather everything passed off with pleasure and profit to all concerned.

Nick Fechtel, of 113 South Canal street, appeared before Justice Walsh yesterday on a charge of abduction and was granted a change of venue to Justice Woodman. The victim of the abduction is Katie Burg, 14 years old, of 131 South Canal street. The girl cannot be found and it is supposed that she has been lodged by Fechtel in some house of prostitution. The father, Henry Burg, who is the complainant in the case, obtained a continuance in order to find the missing girl and make the evidence in the case more complete, though he claims to have sufficient proof without her to convict the man Fechtel.

The United States authorities today commenced a warfare upon the thieves and swindlers who daily infest the Government piers, which will be kept up until the last three-card monte man and professional gambler is made to understand that no doings of any kind will be permitted upon the piers that are not permitted upon other Government property. The visit yesterday was not a very successful one—that is, the Inspector found only a "locomotive cigar-fake" in operation. The owner, M. Michel, was escorted to the Government Building, and was there given a wholesome lecture by the Collector of the Port. Michel promised to remove at once from the pier.

Secretary Critchell, of the Union League Club, was questioned yesterday as to the preparations which the club were making to receive President Arthur, who is expected to visit Chicago next month. Mr. Critchell said that until the day of the President's arrival was fixed it would not be possible to put forth any official program. "This much you may say," said he, "the President is certainly coming to Chicago; probably about the middle or toward the latter part of September. The Union League Club will do everything in its power to do honor to its distinguished guest. Certainly there will be a reception in these rooms, but I have not heard anything as to a banquet. The arrangements are in the hands of the Committee on Reception, and just as soon as they have something definite to act on they will get to work."

A young man named James S. Killner was on trial before Justice Wallace yesterday charged with making threats to kill his wife, a rather quiet-looking lady. She had been married several times, and Killner was her last venture. She left him about six weeks ago, and took up her abode at No. 1731 Wabash avenue. She swore yesterday that since she left her husband he had followed her about and threatened to shoot her, and had sent her threatening letters. The defendant said he had been roped into the marriage with the woman, and that when she left him she made the excuse that one of her former husbands was in Chicago, and that she would have to go to him. Justice Wallace discharged the defendant.

Four inquests were held yesterday. Patrick Powers, 60 years old, was found to have died from a fracture of the spine received July 22 by falling from a high railing at the corner of Jefferson and Monroe streets while intoxicated. He was homeless. John Hynes was found to have died from a fracture of the skull, the result of being accidentally struck by a coal-bucket on the schooner Lizzie Law. Mrs. Jane Thomas, of Hyde Park, was found to have died from injuries received by being struck by an engine of the Illinois Central, the engineer being blameless. An unknown man, whose body was found in the lake, was found to have come to his death by drowning. The body had evidently been a long time in the water, and was awfully decomposed.

Mrs. Murray, living at the corner of Fourteenth street and Ogden avenue, was the victim of an outrageous assault at an early hour yesterday morning, the perpetrators of which unfortunately succeeded in making their escape. It was shortly after midnight when she was awakened by an unusual noise in the rear portion of the house, and upon going to investigate the cause, discovered three men getting in at the window. She demanded their object, whereupon they seized her, pounded and choked her until she was nearly dead, and then one of them struck her a violent blow over the right eye, cutting a rather bad gash. Leaving her almost unconscious they jumped out of the window and ran away. Mrs. Murray says they were all young men, about 20 years of age or thereabouts, and wore dark clothes. She says, however, that she would not be able to recognize them again.

The Executive Committee having in charge the arrangements for the Irish National demonstration to be held on Tuesday at Ogden's Grove, met last evening at McCoy's Hotel. It was unanimously voted that all games for money be prohibited. Frank Agnew was given full control of the grounds. Committees on printing and other details of the work were appointed, and a long list of Vice-Presidents named. Every arrangement has been made for a very enjoyable time, and there is no doubt that the coming demonstration will be the biggest thing of the kind on record. The Rev. George C. Betts, of St. Louis, and James Redpath, the well-known journalist, will be the speakers of the day. In the evening there will be a magnificent display of fireworks. No spirituous liquors will be sold on the grounds, and the best of order will be preserved.

COUNTY-BUILDING.

Deputy-Sheriff Best yesterday sold fifty shares of stock of the Wilmington Coal Company, the property of Stewart & Schenck, to satisfy a judgment in favor of T. S. Ormond, Duncan Rankin, and Fannie Neil.

The legal representatives of the Pullman Palace Car Company were again before the Committee on Equalization of Taxes yesterday endeavoring to secure a reduction in their assessment. The reasons given for this request were that the Assessor of Hyde Park did not get his books completed in time to comply with the law, and that therefore the assessment is illegal. Assessor Hugh Maher says on the contrary that he did have his books completed in time, and he has proposed to make an affidavit to that effect if necessary. The Pullman Company were assessed on a valuation of $600,000. This amount was cut down just one-half, and yet the corporation is not satisfied. The committee state that they will oppose any further reduction of the tax against the company.

The Committee on Town and Town Accounts yesterday recommended the payment of sundry bills amounting to $283.25. A Mrs. Devine, living in the Town of Lake, who has for a long time been receiving assistance from the county, was found to have a well-to-do brother, who is able to take care of her, and the committee resolved to compel him to do so. Wallace Wright, of the Town of Lake, presented a bill for supplies furnished to the poor of that town. County-Visitor Chamberlain indorsed the following on the bill, which caused considerable merriment among those who heard it read.

"Mr. Wright (not the wheelright) could write his name right, but couldn't write this bill right, so a schoolmaster was called on to write it right for Wright, but, though he could write right, he didn't write right for Wright."

A bill was received from Coroner Matson inclosing a statement of charges made by Constable McKenna for serving a subpœna upon a witness to appear before the Coroner's jury in the case of one John Olsen, who was killed by the cars of the Chicago & Alton Road in the Town of Palos. The committee decided to reject the bill on the ground that the Constable had no authority to charge for such services.

THE PARNELL MEMORIAL.

Program of the Demonstration to Take Place Today.

The committee having in charge the arrangements for the memorial meeting for the late Fanny Parnell have made final arrangements. Following is the program:

John Connell, President of Branch No. 1 A. O. H., has been appointed Marshal of the procession. The societies will rendezvous on Adams street, east side of Halsted, and form im promptly at 1:30 p. m. in the following order:

John Connell, Marshal.
Hibernian Rifles, five companies, Clan Na Gael Guards.
Ancient Order of Hibernians, four divisions.
Sodalities.
Temperance societies.
Knights of Labor.
Citizens.

The procession will move south on Halsted to Twelfth, thence to Turner Hall, so as to arrive at the hall at 2:30 p. m., sharp, when the meeting will be called to order by the President of the Committee of Arrangements, Miss Fanny O'Grady, who will introduce the Chairman of the meeting, Mr. J. J. Curran, after which the Secretary will read the names of the Vice Presidents, fifty in number, to be followed by the memorial services, as follows:

Funeral Dirge, by orchestra.
Hymn, by the choir.
Appointment of Committee on Resolutions.
Recitation of Fanny Parnell's appeal to her countrywomen, Miss Lillian Dunstan.
Orations by the Rev. John H. Knowles, the Rev. Thomas Pope Hodnett, the Rev. Thomas F. Cashman, the Rev. M. J. Dorney, Prof. V. B. Denslow, John F. Finerty, John F. Scanlan, and Richard Prendergast.
Reading of resolutions and adjournment.

Front seats and gallery reserved for ladies. The public are requested to be in their seats at 2:30 p. m. sharp. As the number who will attend will be more than the hall can accommodate, arrangements have been made to hold an overflow meeting in front of the hall on Twelfth street, so that all who come can be entertained. The committee hope, in the event of the hall being overcrowded, the gentlemen will give place and seats to the ladies.

THE GAME OF LACROSSE.

Chicago vs. Calumet.

The Chicago and Calumet Lacrosse Clubs played a match game, best three in five, yesterday afternoon at the base-ball park in the presence of about 300 spectators, a goodly proportion being ladies. It was the second public exhibition in Chicago of this little-known sport, and it proved to be exciting and enjoyable to the spectators. The Chicagos were captained by Mr. T. Feron, formerly known as an expert hand-ball player, and the Calumets by Mr. C. Goldsmith, and Mr. Marshall, a well-known lacrosse player of Louisville, officiated as umpire to the satisfaction of all. The first game was played with nine men on a side, and was won in seven minutes by Calumet, Goldsmith "carrying" the goal in fine style in spite of all opposition. The next three games were played with ten men each, and were won consecutively by Chicago in one and one-half, eighteen, and thirty minutes respectively. In the second game O'Neill threw the goal, in the third Gilfoyle, and in the fourth Feron. It soon became evident that the Calumets, though presenting far the better appearance on the field, were overmatched, the Chicago players showing by far the greater agility and skill. Hardy and Goldsmith, of the Calumets, are exceptionally fine players, and with ten of their sort the club would be hard to beat. The game is extremely simple in its elements, but involves an immense amount of activity and endurance, and is full of action and excitement. It is a favorit sport with Canadians and Indians, and in the hands of first-class players there is no reason why it should not become popular in Chicago. A match is to be played at the base-ball park next Saturday between the Ottawas of Grand Rapids, Mich., and the Calumets of this city.

Shamrock vs. Montreal for the Championship of the World.

MONTREAL, Can., Aug. 12.—A lacrosse match for the championship of the world between the Shamrock and Montreal clubs was won by the Shamrocks.

LAKE GENEVA.

Items from That Beautiful Watering-Place.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

LAKE GENEVA, Wis., Aug. 12.—Strong winds have prevailed on the lake most of the week. A sudden squall a few days ago capsized the yachts Florence and Eclipse, but although there were several persons on each boat they escaped with only a slight wetting.

A couple of narrow escapes from drowning occurred recently. Several young ladies were in bathing, when a Miss Phillips, of St. Louis, got beyond her depth. Miss Hattie Spiegel, of Chicago, went to her assistance, but she in turn found the water too deep for her and also cried for help, when Mrs. E. De Benkelaer, of Chicago, who was on the bank, plunged in and waded and swam to the young ladies, and kept them above water until a boat arrived with assistance.

The boys of the choir of the Ascension, Chicago, have been camping this week at Mallory Springs, returning home yesterday. The Rev. Dr. Ritchie was with the party.

Extensive preparations are being made for the Sheridan regatta, which occurs two weeks from today, and the sail-boats are being put in readiness for the occasion.

R. T. Crane's steam yacht Passaic was blown ashore a day or so ago, but was hauled off by the Lady of the Lake without sustaining any damage.

PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The Public Library Board held a meeting yesterday. Librarian Poole submitted his report for July, from which it appears that 28,531 books were taken out of the library during the month, against 26,967 in July last year. Several applications for positions in the library were received and referred to the proper committee. The official bond of Secretary Wickershaw was received and approved. The janitor and the superintendent of the reading-room, it was stated, had both been sworn in as special policemen.

After a cursory discussion of several minor matters in connection with the library, the board adjourned.

ROWDY CHRISTIANITY.

CANON FARRAR ON THE SALVATION ARMY.

LONDON, July 18.—Canon Farrar delivered at Westminster Abbey on Sunday last an eloquent sermon in which he earnestly and valiantly defended the Church of England against the charges of its enemies, and that great body of dissenters who are anxious for its disestablishment. The Church of England is by no means guilty of the sloth and lethargy which are attributed to it, as the Canon ably proved, and the discourse in question was of the greatest interest, bearing as it did upon two points which are already topics of the day in the United Kingdom. But it is doubtful if it ever comes to the notice of the public at large. Had it been delivered in the United States, the full context would have appeared next morning in the columns of our energetic daily press, but in England it is doubtful if the Canon's words ever attain the glory of print unless he publishes them at his own expense. The second topic upon which the learned clergyman enlarged was the "Salvation Army," a religious body that has spread itself throughout the length and breadth of the land, and against which the Canon chose this opportunity of inveighing with all the power at his command. And not without reason, for the Salvation Army is a gigantic monument of fanaticism, ignorance, and absurdity.

Its origin was very humble indeed. A few years since one Booth and his wife, itinerant preachers, obtained a small following among the lower orders by parading the streets and loudly exhorting the passers-by to "come and be saved." They arrayed themselves in a species of uniform, and were accompanied in their peregrinations by individuals carrying brass instruments and gorgeous banners. Booth dubbed himself "General," and appointed a few leading spirits as "Colonels," "Majors," "Captains," "Lieutenants," "Sergeants," and "Corporals," and conducted affairs as nearly as possible upon military lines. This fact and the inspiring music of a quantity of trombones and brassy cornets, together with the constant yearning of the British heart for some title or other, brought an astonishing number of recruits in a very short space of time, and by dint of unceasing contributions on the part of his subordinates, Booth was soon enabled to rent a hall in Whitechapel, which he ambitiously termed the "Barracks." The faith of the recruits—or rather their desire to wear brass badges and buttons, and to be saluted by their comrades—must have been very great indeed, to judge by the amount of their contributions to "the cause," for the "General" and his worthy spouse soon ceased parading the Queen's highways themselves, and were comfortably established at "headquarters," where they directed their attention to organizing branch movements in the country. Their efforts were attended by a truly remarkable success, for at the present moment there is not a city or town or even a village of any consequence in England in which the Salvation Army does not flourish. Its ranks are recruited mainly from the lowest portions of the middle class. Every Sunday is a "field-day" for the army. In the poorer portions of the towns, where the credulity of the inhabitants is more easily worked upon and where the brass bands and banners cannot fail to have the desired effect, the Salvationists take up a position at the street corners after having advanced "in fighting order" through some of the principal thoroughfares, with the men, women, and children shouting at the tops of their voices some "hymn of battle." Their curbstone services are, to say the least, disgusting to any one who prefers even the slightest appearance of dignity in the worship of the Divine, while to the cynic and the skeptic these blatant howlers present themselves as objects of profound contempt.

A robustious green-grocer praying for five minutes in a high key, his arms gyrating like the sails of a windmill; an oily-faced young woman with ignorance, fanaticism, and intolerance written large over her countenance, singing all out of tune some hymn with a lively chorus, in which the bystanders join; a young fellow "with the down upon his lip, less man than boy," with pinched features and small, insincere eyes, who exhorts his "fellow comrades" to "enlist and march on to victory"; these are fair samples of the "commanders" of the small "squads of the attacking forces" sent forth by the Salvation Army. They are often impudent to passers-by, these zealous "soldiers." They thrust circulars and tracts into your hands, they buttonhole you and demand that you shall "come and be saved," insinuating in a manner that is by no means mild that your refusal to obey will be attended by a warmer future than you care to contemplate. Their official organ, the War Cry, is a paper full of intolerance, bad taste, and worse grammar. But the great success of the movement, with its number of followers and its increasing income, is due to the military aspect of everything connected with it. Every "private" hopes to rise and become an "officer," and so vanity and affectation, quite as much as anything else, cause the recruits to come flocking in. Not long ago Mrs. Gen. Booth headed an "army for the invasion of France," and marched through the fair towns of Gaul with an amount of assurance—or, as it would probably be called in America, cheek—that could hardly have been equaled by the Germans in '70. An "Indian expedition" is now being organized, and it is to be regretted that Mr. Gladstone did not instruct his Minister of War to dispatch the Salvation Army to Alexandria, where the sight of Mrs. Gen. Booth at the head of her rapturous youths and maidens, and arrayed in her uniform, with her hymnbook in one hand and her umbrella in the other, would have assuredly soothed the fiery passions of the irate Arabi in a much quicker manner than Admiral Seymour's eighty-one-ton guns have done. At all events the rebel would have undoubtedly beat a hasty retreat.

"Proputty, proputty, proputty" is evidently the motto of the salvation commander, for he is assiduous in investing the dole of his followers in tangible estate for "barrack" purposes, and thinks nothing of bidding £25,000 for a great theatre that is to be turned into a "headquarters" for his gallant troops. "Proputty" being his motto, he has naturally no intention of allowing it to "canter and canter away." With a singleness of purpose which no one will be so foolish as to deny is to his everlasting credit, he refuses to allow his comrades to be troubled with the "army's" matters of finance. He looks after all such matters himself, he considerately takes charge of all moneys, he opens the bank account in his own name, and to save all bother and enable everything to be done in the simplest manner possible, all deeds relative to the large and valuable "proputty" of the army are made out to William Booth. Truly, as an example of devotion and disinterestedness unequaled in history!

But the way of the Salvation Army is not a path strewn with roses. Its periodical processions often serve only as signals for unlimited rioting on the part of the rough element, which detests "Gen." Booth and his soldiery. Yet in such cases the latter never act upon the offensive, and in the past very rarely upon the defensive. With a laudable effort to make martyrs of themselves they have generally either persevered in their march, or if that has been found impossible, through the superior force and muscle of their opponents, they have retreated, but with louder and more vehement exhortations than ever. But of late the "army" has shown a growing inclination to fight the roughs, and the happy consequence is a shower of bricks and stones or any missiles capable of cracking a skull or breaking a leg. Of course these festive proceedings wind up with the appearance of the constabulary or the military upon the scene, and the inevitable reading of the Riot act. The "army" has not been wanting in forcible illustrations of the fact that the loudest praying and most vehement exhorters are not always the most sincere. The "ranks" afford capital opportunities for the exercise of ingenious hypocrisy, and there are not wanting those who hasten to avail themselves of the advantages thus offered. Only a few weeks since, one of the most zealous officers of the London "Brigade" was tried and convicted of a heinous crime.

With such a history, and with such events as happen upon every appearance of the Salvation Army, with the unhappy results that must always attend such a movement, surely Canon Farrar had ample ground for strongly declaiming against it, and for using his magnificent rhetoric to expose the follies that have attended its past, and warning the people against the demoralizing influences that are the outcome of a popular cry founded as the Salvationist movement unquestionably is, upon vanity and bigotry, and appealing only to the vulgar tastes of the ignorant masses. That many worthy and earnest people are connected with the movement, and actuated by motives that if transferred to a really worthy cause would be productive of real and lasting good, I will not take upon myself to deny; but one thing is certain: brass bands, brass badges and buttons, brazen impudence, fanaticism, and red uniforms are not religion, and have nothing to do with it, and a movement like the Salvation Army, relying as it does upon these adjuncts, appealing to the vanity of mobs and rousing the indignation of the lower orders against the Established Church of England, is a movement against which respectable people should set their faces; a movement fully deserving the name this one has earned—"Rowdy Christianity."

THE CARDINAL'S HAT.

ELEVATION OF THE ARCHBISHOP OF ALGIERS.

The elevation to the purple of Archbishop Lavigerie of Algiers—the first African prelate who has worn it for six centuries—is regarded, as he pointed out in his address on receiving the insignia of office, in the light of a reinstatement of Africa as a component unit of the ecclesiastical body politic; and, remarks a high Catholic authority, "as completing the cosmopolitan character already conferred on the Sacred College by the admission of the representatives of America and Asia in the persons of the Cardinal Archbishop of New York and the Cardinal Patriarch of Armenia." "The northern coast of Africa, wrote Gibbon, "is the only land in which the light of the Gospel, after a long and perfect establishment, has been totally extinguished. . . ." About the middle of the twelfth century the worship of Christ and the succession of pastors was abolished along the whole coast of Barbary. After an interval of centuries Christian priests and missionaries were once more found on African soil endeavoring to alleviate the sufferings of Christian captives enslaved by Barbary pirates, and the captivity of St. Vincent de Paul, who was sold as a slave at Tunis, gave a great stimulous to Christian effort. He was bought by a renegade Christian whose Turkish wife told him that the religion he had abandoned was better than that he had adopted, and influenced him to escape with his slave to France. St. Vincent sent to Tunis about 1610 two missionary priests under the title of Chaplains to the French Consul at Tunis. The number of captives and their descendants then on the Barbary coast was estimated at from 25,000 to 30,000. The great stimulus to the Christianization of Northern Africa was given by the French occupation of Algeria. In June, 1830, on the day of the decisive action of Staouch, sixteen French priests, who celebrated mass on the battlefield, took possession of the soil in the name of religion, and Algeria has now 100,000 Christians and three Sees. The Jesuits have eight branches in the country, and the Trappists a flourishing convent at Staouch, on the site of the battle, where they are largely engaged in the cultivation of flowers for the manufacture of perfumes. Female orders also muster largely. The Trinitarians of Valence have thirty-two houses and 300 sisters, who have done excellent service among the sick. Mgr. Lavigerie, who holds the title of Superior of the Algerian missionaries, is the first missionary prelate admitted to the Sacred College. Missionary work has been entrammeled with many restrictions for fear of arousing Mohammedan antagonism, and the North African races are slow to change, but, once converted, have oftentimes proved fervent in the faith to the very death. In 1540 a very young Arab boy was made prisoner and baptized as Geronimo. When about 8 he was recovered by his relatives, but subsequently he returned to the Christians. In 1569 he was taken prisoner and sent to Algiers. Refusing to abjure Christianity, he was sentenced to be thrown into a mold in which a block of concrete was about to be made, and the block containing his body was built into a fort then being constructed. The exact spot was indicated by a chronicler who expressed the hope "that God's grace may one day extricate Geronimo from this place and reunite his body with those of other martyrs whose blood has consecrated this country." On 27th December, 1853, the fort was dismantled, the bones were found as indicated, and liquid plaster being poured into the cavity, an exact cast was obtained not only of the martyr's features, but of the texture of his clothes and the print of the cords that had bound him. This may be seen in the Museum of Algiers. Geronimo's bones lie now in a marble tomb in the cathedral.

THE DUNKERS.

LITIGATION BETWEEN THE ORTHODOX AND PROGRESSIVE WINGS OF THE CHURCH.

There is now pending in the Equity Court at Chambersburg, Pa., a controversy between different factions of the sect of Dunkers, the determination of which will be of interest to this branch of the Christian Church throughout the country. Of recent years many innovations upon the old-time customs have crept in among these people, the younger portion of the church insisting upon education and a paid ministry, the establishment of Sunday-schools, and the like. They have also insisted that they should be allowed to dress according to the customs of the times and be allowed the use of musical instruments in their homes. At a meeting of the annual conference, held at Lanark, Ill., in 1880, a resolution was offered condemning these practices, but so far had the progressivists advanced that the resolution failed to carry. Meanwhile in many of the congregations of the church there are serious dissensions. So bitter has the fight grown in this county that they refuse to worship together.

A bill in equity was filed by the progressive party, in which they ask the court to determine that they are those who practice the faith of the church and that they shall be put into uninterrupted possession of the church property. They assert that their actions are in accordance with the rules laid down by the annual meeting, which they claim is the only court of judicature in the church. The defendants claim that the plaintiffs have departed from the faith of the fathers. They deny the authority of the annual conference and insist that the Bible is their only guide. Four days have been already consumed in taking testimony and the case is likely to occupy many weeks. The town is full of Dunkers, among them being many of the most prominent men of the church. The best legal talent in the county has been secured, and the final settlement of the controversy will doubtless be by an appeal to the court of last resort.

GENERAL NOTES.

St. Mary's Church, Joliet, a new and handsome edifice, will be dedicated Aug. 15.

The beer garden that has been opened on the Mount of Olives is well patronized by tourists.

It is probable that the next General Conference of the Evangelical Alliance will meet in Stockholm, Sweden, in September, 1883. The Queen of Sweden is warmly interested in the work of the alliance.

The portion of the old prison in London known as the Bishop's Hole, in which Cranmer, Ridley, and Latimer were imprisoned prior to their martyrdom, is about to be destroyed to make room for more houses.

There were added to the Southern Presbyterian churches in the year ending May last on profession of faith 6,062 persons, an advance of more than 1,200 over the previous year. There are 6,000 Elders and 4,000 Deacons in the church.

The Presiding Elder who went to conduct the dedication of a new Methodist Church at Grand Rapids did not do it. The debt was not all provided for, and he said he had promised God not to dedicate any more due-bills, mechanics' liens, and mortgages.

A ladies' missionary conference under the auspices of the Woman's Board of Missions of the Interior (Congregational) will be held at Hinsdale Aug. 15, Tuesday next. Misses Collins and Irvine, missionaries from Dakota, will be present; also Miss Pinkerton, from Africa.

Friends of Yale College are endeavoring to raise $25,000 for the erection of a building in which to hold religious meetings of the college and of the branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, which has been established at Yale since Mr. Moody's labors in New Haven.

There was a disgraceful scene on a recent Sunday at the Madeleine, in Paris. One of the church officials found it necessary to expel a troop of British excursionists of the "'Arry" pattern, who were misbehaving themselves grossly during high mass and exciting disgust among the worshipers.

Says the Evangelist: "There are, we believe, only two suicides recorded in the Bible—both bad men. This is due to the fact that the Jews were a very religious people. The most prone to suicide are those who are atheistic, or wanting in faith. It increases in proportion to the decay of religion, and those nations will be found to have the largest number who are most skeptical. This is shown in the rapid increase of suicide in certain countries of Europe. In German countries the increase has been from 90 to 100 per cent.

The pastors of the Methodist Episcopal churches of York, Pa., publish a card giving their reasons for refusing to attend "so-called Methodist camp-meetings." Many of these enterprises, they say, are not under the control of any department of the Church, and are managed by grossly immoral men, who use money to bribe uneducated consciences, and obtain this money by collusion with railroad corporations. "We are in favor of camp-meetings," the clergymen add, "whenever it can be demonstrated that their influence is more helpful than hurtful to the cause of Christ."

The Marriage bill under consideration by the British Parliament provides that marriages may be solemnized at any time between 8 o'clock in the morning and 6 in the evening, with the proviso that no clergyman of the Church of England shall be under any obligation to perform the ceremony after noonday. The law has always been that such rites must be performed in the forenoon, but the reason for the limitation has never been explained. It may have been a tradition received from the Church of Rome, but the older Church, if it ever made the noon limit regulation, abandoned the notion years ago.

All Saints' parish at Cleveland is divided into hostile camps over the question whether fermented wine should be used in the communion service. The Superintendent of the Sunday-school is the leader of the anti-wine party. He denounces the employment of the fermented grape juice in church as an opening wedge to dissipation and drunkenness for the young and weak-headed members of the congregation. A number of young ladies, who attached themselves to his banner, resolved to refrain from attending communion as long as the objectionable liquid was used. Thereupon the Sunday-school Superintendent was dismissed from his position for mischief-making. This step made the feeling more bitter than ever, and the rector found it necessary to state from the pulpit that the use of wine would be continued as long as he remained in his position. And now a petition has been sent to Bishop Bedell requesting his intervention to prevent the controversy from leading to the disruption of the congregation.

The New York Observer says: "Protestants do not sufficiently utilize their large and costly houses of public worship. Many of them are open only twice a week, and then only for two services of one and a half hours each. That would be only 156 hours out of 8,760 hours in a year. During all these long hours, except for a wedding, funeral, or occasional service, the building stands closed. Is there no use to which Christians might put their churches during these days and months? Perhaps the time will come when Christians of the whole world will find it in their minds to offer daily sacrifice of their hearts in the house of God.

A curious illustration of the adage, "Cleanliness is next to godliness," may be seen every day under our windows. Adjoining the Arcade entrance to the Y. M. C. A. building is a saloon where sour mash whiskies are dispensed in the most respectable fashion known to the traffic. Three times a day the saloon pavement is swept, scrubbed, and rinsed until it is as white as an old-fashioned kitchen floor, while the Y. M. C. A. pavement goes black and grimy the whole week through. The cleanliness of the saloon is next to the godliness of the chapel and the prayer-room in point of location, but why should the devil have all the clean paving-stones?—The Signal.

PERSONALS.

The Kentucky evangelist, Mr. Barnes, recently left Dayton, O., for Indianapolis, his new field of labor.

Dr. H. M. Sawders, of New York, will preach at Immanuel Baptist Church, both morning and evening today.

The Rev. Charles Garrett, of Liverpool, Eng., has been elected President of the British Wesleyan Conference.

The Rev. G. H. Peeke has returned from vacation pleasures and again taken up the pleasures of labor and service at Leavitt Street Church.

The pay of Mr. Harrison, the boy evangelist, for his services at the Loveland camp meeting, near Cincinnati, is officially stated by the Treasurer to have been $100 a week and board.

The Rev. Dr. Hugh Miller Thompson, of Trinity Parish, New Orleans, has been induced to withdraw the resignation which he recently sent in upon receipt of a call from St. Luke's Church, Rochester.

The Rev. Charles E. Stowe, son of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, does not get along well with his flock at Saco, Me. Many of his congregation are opposed to his advanced ideas on evolution and kindred topics.

The Dominican Father Bertrand Wilberforce is talked of as a favored candidate for the vacant See of Hexham and Newcastle, England. Should he be appointed, there would be two members of one family wearing mitres in the same cathedral city, for Father Bertrand is a cousin of Ernest Wilberforce, the new (Church of England) Bishop of Newcastle.

The Rev. Dr. D. B. Turney, who is a candidate for Congress in the Sixteenth Illinois District, has caused strips of cloth bearing that intelligence to be nailed on posts at the cross-roads and on trees in the woods. If the same amount of originality, a religious journal remarks, had been used in church work is is doubtful whether he would have all the time necessary for running a political canvass.

Father Ignatius, the English Ritualist, is said to display amazing skill in getting money for the support of his monastery at Llanthony, in the Black Mountains. Among several clerical pilgrims to his shrine for the extraordinary functions during Ascensiontide one benighted individual remained as a monk, and another, before leaving, left behind some £2,000 for the completion of the shrine of the Perpetual Adoration and other works.

The new Canon of Canterbury Cathedral, England, the Rev. William Henry Freemantle, is quite well known and favorably remembered in Episcopal circles in this country. He participated in the meeting of the Evangelical Alliance in New York in 1873, reading a paper on "The Church and the Nation," and assisted at the general communion services which accompanied the meeting. He also officiated in one or two pulpits during his stay.

William Booth, the General of the Salvation Army in England, receives and disburses, with absolute control, $250,000 a year. He owns or rents in his name 250 buildings used for religious meetings, directs the work of 15,000 exhorters, and publishes a paper, the War Cry, which circulates 250,000 copies a month. He is well-educated, very winning as a speaker, clear-headed, and arbitrary in management, and according to general opinion, an honest zealot.

Mr. McAll, from England, began evangelical work in France about ten years since. He now has thirty-two places for religious meetings in Paris, and fifty-seven in the various portions of the country. The meetings are held in halls, or in shops temporarily hired for the purpose, and supplied with benches of the plainest kind. The singing is in the style of the "Gospel Hymns," of Moody and Sankey. Twenty-five meetings for children are held on week days and eighteen on Sundays. Also several medical missions.

PIOUS SMILES.

The Arkansaw Traveler's aged colored person says: "My idea of de better worl' is whar dar is a election goin' on all de time, case den de white folks is allers perlight."

"I guess dad wishes we'd all die and go to Heaven," said a miser's son to his maternal parent. "Why so?" she asked, upon recovering from her astonishment. "Oh, 'cause Heaven's such a cheap place to live in."

From the Rev. Mr. Jackson's sermon on "Faith," in Boston: "Oh! I've got great faith in de Lord," he cried. "Ef de Lord was to say, 'Jackson, go butt yer head agin dat tree,' I've got faith to b'leeve dat de tree 'ud be removed afore I got dere."

"Well, John," said a minister to one of his hearers, "I hope you hold family worship regularly?" "Ay, sir," answered John, "in the time o' year o't." "In the time o' year o't! What do you mean?" "Ye ken, sir, we cannot see in winter." "But, John, you should buy candles." "Ay, sir," replied John; "but in that case I'm afraid the cost might o'ergang the profit."

A clergyman in the country had a stranger to officiate for him one day, and meeting his beadle afterwards, he said to him: "Well, Dougall, how did you like last Sunday's preaching?" "It was a great deal owre plain and simple for me," replied the beadle. "I like sermons that jumble the judgment and confound the sense. Od, sir, I never saw ane that could come up to yourself at that!"

Unsatisfactory arithmetic: Parson—"I wish to complain, Mrs. Diggins, of the conduct of your daughter at the Sunday-school today; it was rude to the extreme." Mrs. D.—"Ah, it's what they taches her at that theer board school as dun it; yesterday she came home and she says: 'Mother, they are a-taching of me vulgar fraxions.' What can you expex after that, sir?" —London Fun.

A Hewletts, Hanover County, letter-writer tells the following anecdote of a preacher near there who is an old widower: "He has recently fallen very much in love with a good, pious lady of his church, and a few days ago he said to her: 'Sister Lizzie, the Lord sent me to this church (meaning his pastoral charge) to marry you.' She blushed and bowed her head a minute or so, and then looked up at him and said: 'The Lord's will be done.'"

A young Chicagoan aged exactly 4 years, who has been spending the summer at Fargo, Dak., was recently taken to church for the first time since he was old enough to notice his surroundings. One evening in the ensuing week he was taken to the theatre, where he highly enjoyed himself. The succeeding Sunday he found himself once more in the house of God, but he protested boisterously that he wanted to go the "curtain church and not to the bare wall church."

"I cannot believe, Mr. Spa," said a Bishop to an English teetotaler, "that under all circumstances it can be wrong for a Christian man to take wine, when the apostle distinctly prescribes it to Timothy 'for his stomach's sake.'" But the man of water was upsides with the prelate. "Hexternal application, my lud!" says he. "Hexternal application!" After hearing this the Bishop was speechless, grew pale, went home, drank aerated waters, rubbed himself morning and evening with champagne, and died.

When he said he had lived in Nevada several years a man who looked something like a church deacon stepped forward and asked:

"My friend, is the Bible respected in that State?"

"Oh, yes."

"Do they have churches?"

"Plenty of 'em."

"And the Lord rules there as well as in New Jersey?"

"Well, I don't know about that," was the doubtful answer. "When I bought mining stocks for 20 per cent of their face value and saw them jump to 50 above par I thought the Lord had a firm grip on the State, but again, when I struck a silver mine worth millions in digging fish-bait, and sold the hole for a gallon of whisky which burnt the soles off my boots, I had a dim suspicion that the devil and Nevada were partners in stocking the cards!"

REAL ESTATE.

A Period of Inactivity in Land Transfers—New Suburbs Contemplated.

A Large Amount of Building in a Small Way—The Michigan Avenue Boulevarders.

A Market of Decreasing Activity.

Although real estate was duller last week than the week before, the continuance of the demand for lots, and the character of the inquiry that was made for investments was such as to indicate a steady strengthening of the market. Few transactions of note are being made, but the opportunity to secure bargains in the absence of competition from the buyers who are away at the seashore or in the mountains is not wholly neglected. A leasehold interest in business property was secured last week for a consideration rising above $100,000 that will net the buyer 12 per cent. Nothing indicates any revival of speculation this fall, but the prospect for a sound, healthy business at advancing prices is considered good by the experienced brokers. Acre property in the Calumet region is very firm in anticipation of the advent of new manufacturing concerns and the early completion of the railroad now in construction. It is reported that all the arrangements have been made for the establishment of new locomotive-works at Pullman. A subject of interest is the point at which the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Road will strike the line over which it will come into the city. It will probably be in the neighborhood of Eighty-fourth street. Real estate south is in such demand that even submerged lands can be sold at high prices, and a liberal offer was made and refused last week for the bed of one of the minor lakes south of the city. Nothing better illustrates the advance of values there than the proceedings before the Committee on Equalization of Taxes to reduce the valuation of the lands about Pullman. These are assessed at $450. The committee refused to reduce the assessment, and the Chairman stated that the lands were worth at least $3,000 an acre. But a little more than two years ago these lands were purchased at prices ranging from $75 to $150 an acre. Surveys are now being made and plats prepared of a tract of 500 acres just across the Indiana line, where it is proposed to establish a suburban town. This land belongs to Gen. John Condit Smith, the contractor, who is building the Chicago & Atlantic Road, and Messrs. C. G. Wicker and J. H. Clough. It is situated on the line of the road, which will be in operation by October. All the trains will stop at this point, and special suburban trains will also be run. The time to Chicago will be less than one hour. The town will be laid out into acre and half acre lots. As it lies in Indiana, the taxation is very light.

In the sales of the week have been 50x90 feet on Fifth avenue, 82 feet north of Adams, $60,000; 20x105 feet on Van Buren, 152 feet north of Fifth avenue, $10,000; 65x109, improved, on Ontario, 160 feet west of Cass, south front, $45,000; 50x143 feet on Michigan avenue, north of Douglas, $13,750; 334x100 feet on State, between Twelfth and Fourteenth, $111,364; 2011 Prairie avenue, with lot 25x177½, $22,500; 198x77½ on Jefferson, southwest corner of Adams, $30,000; 745 Washington boulevard, with lot 60x124, $12,000; and 537x265 on Union street, southwest corner of Fifty-third street, with 175x125 in opposit block, $18,000.

Henry L. Hill reports sale of 106 feet on Michigan avenue, north of Forty-third street, at $100 a foot; also 40 acres southeast quarter Sec. 26, 38, 13, $365 per acre; house and lot on Twenty-first street at $5,000; frame house and lot on Thirty-seventh street, $3,500 cash; two lots on Kossuth street, near Portland avenue, for $1,600.

The Western Avenue Congregational Chapel Society are building a neat church edifice at the corner of Polk street and Western avenue. The building is 40x90 feet, auditorium 40x60 feet, and a chapel 30x40. It is of brick, and will cost when completed, $10,000. The foundations are already laid, and contracts for construction are being let. Quackenbrass is the architect. This society is a mission of the First Congregational Church.

Ira Brown sold eight lots in Glencoe to M. S. Robinson for $800; one lot to N. W. Town, $100; two lots to Anna French, $200; four to James M. Williams, $400; thirty-eight lots in Lakeside to J. C. Tilton, of Pittsburg, $3,800; two in same place to A. M. Gaines, $200.

Active Mid-Summer Building.

The continuous issue of small building permits shows a steady activity, but one that, according to all the experience of those who have tried to find rooms and apartments, falls far behind the demand of our growing population.

One of the notable improvements on the North Side this year is a flat building, 60x75 feet, containing six apartments of nine rooms each, on Pearson street, just east of State. The front elevation, of Bedford stone, is very pretty, and the interior is handsomely finished, a great deal of hardwood being used. Each flat has, in addition to wooden mantels, stationary refrigerator and French range. The interior design is different from that of any other flats in the city. On one side of a wide hallway are double parlors, and on the other two large bedrooms, while in the centre is a dining-room 12x18 feet, and back of this the library, kitchen, girl's room, etc. The owner, Mr. T. H. Traver, drew the plans for the structure, which contains many features that make it very desirable for residence purposes.

W. W. Boyington is engaged on the plan of the new high-school at Evanston. It is to be arranged on what is known as the congregated system, with separate recitative rooms, large laboratory, etc.

D. Adler has let the contracts for the new Hammond Library Building in connection with the Congregational Theological Seminary. It is to be a separate building, built on a somewhat more elaborate style of architecture than the main building, and is to cost $35,000.

James R. Willett has completed arrangements for the erection of the St. Malachi Church, on the corner of Western avenue and Wilmarth street. It is to be a brick structure, and will cost $20,000.

W. L. B. Jenny is making plans for extensive additions and alterations to the Theological Seminary, corner of Halsted street and Belden avenue. Among other things is a new residence for the Professors, which will in itself cost about $50,000. It is impossible at this stage of the work to estimate what the cost of the entire improvements will be, but it is likely to be very large.

The contracts let by the different architects during the week amounted to $493,500, and are largely composed of private residences, ranging in price from $5,000 to $20,000. The architects who let the contracts were C. O. Hansen, $12,000; A. J. York, $17,000; Otto H. Metz, $11,000; James R. Willett, $75,000; W. L. Carroll, $25,000; H. M. Hansen, $8,000; J. H. Huber, $11,000; Dixon & Townsend, $30,000; Cobb & Frost, $60,000; Cass Chapman, $30,000; W. W. Boyington, $25,000, exclusive of Board of Trade building; C. J. Pierce, $7,000; Minard L. Beers, $9,000; L. G. Hallberg, $25,000; A. Smith, $20,000; D. Adler, $70,000; Cudel & Blumenthal, $25,000; E. H. Froman, $5,500; A. M. F. Carlton, $8,000; and Furst & Rudolph, $18,000.

The building permits for the week amounted to $1,258,150, and were chiefly for private residences. The principal ones were the Board of Trade, $1,000,000; a dwelling for G. W. Henry on Prairie avenue, $20,000; and twenty cottages for Jacobson & Tolman on Daniel avenue, to cost $20,000.

Mr. L. Z. Leiter is having a number of plans made for residences on a tract of land owned by him near Riverside. His scheme is to build houses to order and sell them and the land on long time to parties who are trying to get a home of their own.

The principal permit of the week was to the Real Estate Manager of the Board of Trade to erect the new Board of Trade Building, 173x225, at a cost of $1,000,000. Some of the other permits were to St. Malachi's Church, 60x110 feet, on Western avenue and Walnut street, $25,000; J. P. Green, three-story dwelling, 22½x93 feet, No. 3629 Ellis Park, $11,000; Eich Bros., six two-story dwellings, 126x50 feet, Nos. 1074 to 1082 Monroe street, $18,000; Jacobson & Talman, twenty one-story cottages, 20x36 feet on Dania avenue, $20,000.

Four new school buildings will be opened the coming winter. When these are completed the whole number of schools will be seventy-five. The new school at Lawndale will be an eight-room two-story building to accommodate 500 pupils. It will cost $35,000. Another of the new schools is of three stories and twelve rooms, and is located at the corner of West Twentieth and Walsh streets. It will cost $40,000. The two others are at the corner of Sangamon and Indiana streets and on Throop street, near Twentieth. The twelve-room schools will accommodate 750 pupils each. The School Board also has a site at the corner of Wentworth avenue and Thirty-third street and expect to erect a building there next year.

Eight-Hour Men on the Michigan Avenue Boulevard.

Vigorous complaints against the South Park Commissioners are heard from residents of Michigan avenue. Property-owners on the avenue submitted to the heavy taxations necessary to maintain it as a boulevard in order to secure a good roadway and adequate police protection, which they were assured the South Park Commissioners would guarantee them, to say nothing of numberless minor blessings. But now they find the pavement wearing out and its holes and ruts treated by the Commissioners as beauty spots. Heavy taxes are assessed for lamp-posts, but the lamps are not lighted. The policemen are eight-hour men—you may look eight hours without finding one. Last Sunday three heavy goods trucks were allowed to roll over the pavement packed with noisy pleasure-seekers bound for the South Parks. Heavy baggage-wagons are permitted to use the boulevard. Drunken and dissolute characters, runaway horses, and reckless drivers are the characters who appear to have been given the freedom of the new boulevard.

The Cable Road.

The cable road on Cottage Grove and Wabash avenues is being pushed forward energetically. The east track on Cottage Grove avenue has been completed to the city limits and the west track to Thirtieth street. As soon as this street is finished the unfinished parts of Wabash avenue and Twenty-second street will be completed—in fact, work has already commenced on the heavy masonry at the railroad crossing at Sixteenth street.

Our Coney Island.

For several years past the project of establishing a summer resort on the shore of Lake Michigan south of the city has been often under consideration.

A TRIBUNE reporter recently visited Edgemoor, a station on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad some fifteen miles south of the city. Its railroad facilities are good, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern and the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroads touching the place. In the plan proposed the beach, which is a hard-packed level stretch of some two miles in length, will be used as a drive and promenade. Gravel suitable for walks and roadways is found in abundance, and might be used to make the concrete for houses. Within eighty feet of the shore a sufficient depth of water for steamers is obtained, and the place will be within an hour or two of the city by the lake.

Just back from the beach is a grove of pine trees of considerable extent, and further back the land is heavily wooded with oak groves, which afford very desirable building sites. About one mile and a half from the shore winds the Big Calumet River, which is navigable from this point to South Chicago, and could easily be used by excursion steamers. The river also affords good fishing and boating.

"THE CLOSURE."

An American Editor's Letter to an English M. P.

Liverpool (Eng.) Albion, July 25.

A desire to avoid mixing with English politics induced Mr. Medill, when writing to an English M.-P. on the American system of closure, to decline to allow the publication of the communication in question. As the Daily News, London, however, editorially summarized the letter, we are authorized, through our London correspondent, to print the original, with the consent of the writer and the honorable member referred to. Mr. Medill writes as follows:

Referring to the "closure" question, or what Americans call the "previous question"—i. e., question of precedence—question having priority—more than a simple majority is not required in the American House of Representatives (our House of Commons), or in any State Legislature, to order the "previous question," or "closure," on any bill, resolution, or paper requiring a vote of the body.

This rule of a majority of one to order a vote on a bill, as well as to pass it, is a universal custom. It prevails in the National House of Representatives, in the Legislatures of the thirty-eight States and a dozen Territories—i. e., provinces—and in thousands of County Boards, City and Town Councils, and in all popular meetings of whatever description.

In some stages of business, however, a two-thirds vote of the Assembly—that is, two-thirds of those present, they being a quorum—is necessary to put a bill on its passage. This is the case when the supporters of a bill desire to take it out of its regular order on the calendar, and "jump it over the heads" of all the other bills having precedence on the regular order. The rule of the American House of Representatives permit this to be done, as it is the only method whereby a bill low down on the list can be reached before the end of a session. There are many important non-partisan bills which can thus be taken up out of their regular order and passed at any time. Hundreds of attempts to pass bills in this way fail, however, for want of the necessary two-thirds vote.

The "previous question," or "closure," has become an established custom, a part of the common law of American legislative bodies of all kinds—National, State, and municipal. Experience and necessity compelled its adoption. It was found that the majority party responsible for government could not rule without it—could not enact laws opposed by the minority. Obstruction by means of garrulous debate would enable the minority to defeat the bills of the responsible party, and thus institute, negatively, the rule of the minority.

The power conferred by the "previous question," on the demand of a simple majority, in cutting off further debate, is not often abused or used tyranically, as there is a prevailing sense of fairness in Anglo-Saxon legislative bodies—a strong disposition to maintain free, full discussion.

The "previous question," by a mere majority, is the dernier ressort of the majority against minority obstruction. We could not get along without its use. No bill could pass our National House of Representatives, except by the pleasure or sufferance of the minority, were it not for the employment of the "closure" rule requiring a majority merely, as parties are usually pretty closely balanced. This system has been in use in our country for more than three generations, and is regarded as indispensable to the proper progress of business in legislative bodies. Our experience is, that the minority have ample opportunity for debate, and in practice talk quite enough for the good of the country.

The rules of the American Senate do not yet prescribe the "closure," because it is a small body, consisting of but seventy-six members when all are present. And, as the Senate cannot take the initiative on fiscal business, it has more time for debate than the House, because it waits for bills to be sent up to it for concurrence merely; and yet it is admitted that, when a dozen more new States shall be admitted into the Union, enlarging the Senate to 100 or more members, the "closure" may have to be adopted. If the minority of the Senate were in the habit of resorting to obstruction tactics, the "previous question" rule would be adopted in that body now.

That Umbrella.

Detroit Free Press.

During the shower yesterday a citizen carrying a very wet umbrella entered a hotel to pay a call to some one up-stairs. After placing his umbrella where it might drain he wrote upon a piece of paper and pinned to it the sentence:

"N. B.—This umbrella belongs to a man who strikes a 250-pound blow—back in fifteen minutes."

He went his way up-stairs, and after an absence of fifteen minutes returned to find his umbrella gone and in its place a note reading:

"P. S.—Umbrella taken by a man who walks ten miles an hour—won't be back at all!"

AMATEUR SAILORS.

What the Yachtsmen are Doing.

When last heard from, Mr. Weider in his yacht, the Nameless, was at New Mission Point, in Grand Traverse Bay.

The Ariel, Vice-Commodore Weir, has been equipped with a gun, and is now firing the regular sunset gun in the harbor.

Mr. Fisher left Manitowoc in his yacht, the Idler, Aug. 10, bound for Mackinaw, where, it is expected, he will be met by the Countess.

Commodore Griswold reports continual strong north wind and heavy weather. He arrived at Sturgeon Bay in the flagship Cora on Aug. 8.

Owing to the absence of the large yachts of the Chicago Club, the headquarters on Michigan avenue are remarkably quiet. Members of the club who are in town do not seem to take interest enough to at least report occasionally. The regular meeting, which occurs on Aug. 29, will, however, bring out a full attendance.

The yacht-race at Newport on the 8th inst. was a red-letter day in the annals of the New York Yacht Club. The cups sailed for were presented by Mr. Ogden Goelet. There were nineteen starters, and the wind was all that could be desired. Owing to a mistake of the Regatta Committee in neglecting to properly calculate the time-allowances, the question as to who won the race has not yet been settled. The New York Herald in its report of the race says: "The difference between the elapsed time of the Montauk and the Halcyon was 11m. 59s. The Halcyon has not been measured by the new rules of the club, hence the Regatta Committee were unable to make a decision. The Montauk went over the course in 5h. 35m. 39s. time, much less, it is said, than ever before done, and it is likely she will be adjudged the winner. A record of having made the best time over the New York Club course, and also the Newport one, all in one season, and that in her first year is something the Montauk's owner may well be proud of."

The Montauk at the June regatta at New York beat the record of the Idler, now a member of the Chicago Club. On June 8, 1876, the Idler, then owned by S. J. Colgate, of New York, sailed over the New York Club course in 3h. 50m. 40½s., and this time has been the fastest made until the race of June 15 last, when the Montank, the winner of the recent Newport race, made the distance fifteen seconds quicker.

Whether the Montauk can beat the Idler in a competitive race is a question, but the owner of the Idler would probably take pleasure in bringing about a contest. A remarkable fact about the Montauk is that she was built during the present year, and without the slightest alteration has gone to the front as the fastest boat in the New York Club. With the exception of the famous yacht America, she is the only boat built in American waters that has ever made such a record without undergoing material alterations, and the fact is a compliment to American builders.

The cruise of the Ariel on last Sunday to Michigan City, when Vice-Commodore Weir took out a party of friends, will not soon be forgotten by the unfortunate mariners. The run down was made in excellent time, and without the slightest accident to mar the pleasure of the party, but when the Ariel's prow was turned homeward the trouble began. When a few miles out of the harbor at Michigan City the party ran up against a dense fog-bank, and there they passed the time looking out for stray vessels, and longing for home. After several hours spent in inventing language sufficiently scientific to express their disgust at the condition of things, the fog lifted. Then to cap the climax the wind shifted into the wrong quarter, and the voyage was again lengthened out by a long course of tacking. There were several gentlemen who were due in the city early Monday morning, and when they struck terra firma were congratulating themselves that the Vice-Commodore got them home at all. One of the belated mariners, it is said, will write a book based upon the incidents of this remarkable voyage, and will call it "The Cruise of the Aeriel; or, The Vice-Commodore's Revenge."

The most remarkable yacht in American waters is the famous boat America, now owned by Gen. B. F. Butler. Her first signal victory was won in English waters, at Cowes, where she won the Royal Yacht Squadron cup, valued at £100. In this historical race, which established for the first time in the minds of English yachtsmen that American boats were models worthy of imitation, there were nineteen entries, including the best boats of England, and the victory of the Yankee skipper was looked upon as marvelous. There was no second in the race, the entire English fleet being distanced. The America, after creating a revolution in shipbuilding all over Europe, came back to this country crowned with glory. During the War she was captured by the Rebels, and used as a blockade-runner. Several years ago the famous model became the property of Gen. Butler, who had her refitted, and for several years he has been cruising about with her in Eastern waters. This season her owner is creating quite a stir with the America, being at present at Halifax, N. S., on a pleasure trip to the St. Lawrence River and Quebec. Thirty-two years ago the America was launched, and it is said that, notwithstanding the many improvements made during these years in the way of shipbuilding, her model has never been improved upon. Her famous victory in 1851, when she so successfully took the conceit out of the Englishmen, entitles her to a niche in the history of American naval architecture beside the famous war-ship the Constitution, whose fame is world wide and imperishable.

IN MEMORIAM.

For The Chicago Tribune.

The curtain hath fallen—the scene hath closed.
With holy awe, in the darkened room,
I looked on that dear, dead face, so white,
And was all alone in the world that night,
With the shadows of death flitting 'round in the gloom.

Soul-sick and weary, I turned me away,
Heedless that Heaven held the prized part—
Forgetful of aught but the senseless clay
That there in the coffin before me lay,
And the wild, wild grief of a broken heart.

And never again will the Spring-time breeze
Fall on that brow as in days gone by;
And never again o'er the dewy leas,
Neath the sheltering shade of the old oak-trees,
We'll lingering list to the South-winds sigh.

My heart cries out, with a death-knell ring,
For "the voice that is stilled and the vanished hand";
But, beyond the light of yon evening-star,
Thy home is found where the Angels are,
And we'll meet again in that better land.

Liver, Kidney, and Bright's Disease.

A medicine that destroys the germ or cause of Bright's disease, diabetes, kidney and liver complaints, and has power to root them out of the system, is above all price. Such a medicine is Hop Bitters, and positive proof of this can be found by one trial or by asking your neighbors, who have been cured by it.

THE ISLAND-SPRING.

Far from shore, where salt seas only
Fling white storms of angry foam,
Stands an island, bleak and lonely,
Banished from Earth's sylvan home.

Through the warmth of Summer-splendor
Into wakening life caressed,
Not a blade or floweret tender
Nestles to its rocky breast.

But, as pure as from a mountain
Where the sweetest waters start,
Lo! a sparkling crystal fountain
Gushes from its barren heart;

Fresh and clear, though all surrounded
By the briny waters wide;
Never once its laugh confounded
By the ceaseless dashing tide;

Singing always with a spirit
Envying not the high-born spring,
Satisfied to just inherit
Dreams of wayside blossoming.

Canst thou recognize the presage,
O my heart, with better trust?
Canst thou read a heavenly message
On this tablet of the dust?

God will bid a fount of gladness
Spring from out thy rock-bound soul,
Free from every tone of sadness,
Though wild seas around thee roll.

Thou shalt sing the same bright measures
Caroled in Earth's fairest bowers,
Though bereft of Life's green pleasures,
And a world of blushing flowers.

Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass" in Philadelphia.

New York World.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7.—The Rev. Joseph J. Sleeper, Secretary of the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Vice and Crime, said today that the association had under consideration the question of attempting to prevent the sale of Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass." The book is now in the hands of one of the five Directors, and will be examined by each of them. "If they conclude that its offenses against decorum," said Mr. Sleeper, "bring it within the reach of the law, we will complain to the police authorities. The course of the society will be defined within the next two weeks." Mr. Sleeper does not think that Mr. Whitman's intentions are bad, and personally has a high opinion of the gray-haired poet. District-Attorney Graham has heard no official complaint of the book, and can only act when such complaint has been made. Examination of the law bearing upon the subject shows that the Massachusetts statutes are much more strict than those in force in this State.

Fear Not.
All kidney and urinary complaints, especially Bright's Disease, diabetes and liver troubles, Hop Bitters will surely and lastingly cure. Cases exactly like your own have been cured in your own neighborhood, and you can find reliable proof at home of what Hop Bitters has and can do.

BUSINESS.

Stocks Dull and Heavy All Day, Closing with a Slight Rally.

A Considerable Short Interest in the New York Stock Market.

The Produce Markets Slow and Generally Steadier—A Rather Weak Feeling in the Morning,

But More Firmness After Noon—A Better Export Demand for Wheat—Oats Weak.

FINANCIAL.

Stocks were featureless and heavy at the opening. During the day business was almost at a standstill several times. Transactions were very light. The tendency on the whole was toward lower prices, especially for the Wabash and Transcontinental. Room traders hammered the former on account of the reports of strikes by the employés, who make the outrageous demand that their June wages should be paid without further delay. That such a demand should be made upon the managers of a road which has had to suspend dividends, and has had hard scratching to get the money to pay interest on the bonded debt, is a sad illustration of the inability of the laboring classes to understand the intricacies of finance. Oregon & Transcontinental reacted under the natural influence of sales to realize the benefit of the recent great advance in that stock. There was some hammering of the list by room-traders, in spots, and New York advices stated that a considerable short interest had been formed.

Manitoba advanced 2⅛.

Kiernan's Newsletter said that a conference of operators was held Thursday, in a Broad street office, at which it was decided to raid the market heavily, manipulate money, and otherwise secure a decline in prices. This arrangement is said to have been upset, and parties who sold Friday morning bought back their stocks in the afternoon. Members of a prominent New street house offered stocks all day but sold as few as possible, and are alleged to have been very large buyers. The bears said that the market showed signs of heavy realizing, and that Missouri Pacific and Northwestern had been advanced to help sell the rest of the market. A Wall street house estimates that $50,000,000 of stocks are floating about the street on buyers' options. An effort is being made to create the belief that money will naturally work close. Exchange and crop movement are the alleged reasons. Money may be artificially made stringent, but will not be otherwise more than a 6 per cent rate. Demand exchange advanced because bills obtained by prominent operators some time ago fell due and were renewed. Sixty-day bills have weakened.

Wall street gossip reports that Sage said the market had an appearance of selling lower. From what can be learned, the large and leading operators would like to see prices yield considerably, and they complain because the market continues so stubborn and unyielding. Insiders close to the Receivers say that Reading "is all right." The company has 1,000 men at work at the New York Central extension, via Williamsport, and it will be completed by Dec. 1.

By authority of the Governors, the Committee on Stock List of the exchange has added to the list 2,040 Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul bonds of $1,000 each, known as the Chicago & Western Division 5 per cent gold bonds, payable in 1921. They represent twenty-seven miles of additional road completed and a balance for additional rolling-stock of $1,500,169.45. The committee also listed $1,050,000 of Denver & Rio Grande thirty-year 7 per cent first-mortgage bonds on account of new mileage "at $15,000 per mile."

Chicago, Burlington & Quincy earnings the present month are running behind those of last year.

In discussing the foreign exchange market the Post says the movement of securities has been disappointing thus far at least to the extent that it was expected that Europe would freely buy our stocks so soon as the market here was fairly turned toward higher prices and it became apparent that our harvests would be large and that we should have at least an average foreign market for them. Of late in arbitrage operations we have brought back from Europe more than we have sold to them—a fact which in part explains the firmness for demand sterling. Another influence which has tended to make sterling strong is the fact that our large imports of foreign goods are, on account of the general prosperity here, being marketed and the proceeds remitted.

BY TELEGRAPH.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Governments firm.

Railroad bonds dull and irregular.

State securities inactive.

The stock market has been dull, with frequent fluctuations, closing generally about steady, with the general list ⅛@1½ below the closing figures of yesterday, the latter Richmond & Danville. St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba, however, was 2¼ and Louisville & Nashville 1 higher. The Post says: "It is notable that some of those most anxious for a reaction are the strongest bulls and want the market down to get back stocks. Undoubtedly a great amount of long stock was marketed during the week to clinch handsome profits by the rise of the last few weeks. But in most cases sales were made on the calculation that stocks could be bought back at a profit of a few points and interest account, which is important in a bull campaign reduced by turn."

The death of Abraham Hirsch, of the firm of Hirsch & Schwabacher, was announced on 'Change Saturday, and appropriate resolutions adopted in respect to his memory.

The leading produce markets were generally dull Saturday, and steady in price, though the feeling was somewhat unsettled. There was not much doing on outside account in any department. The early feeling was a rather firm one, owing to low temperature. Soon the tone changed with clearing skies and the promise of larger receipts of grain. The later feeling was firm, in sympathy with a better shipping demand for wheat here and in Milwaukee. The inquiry for futures was slow all round, and provisions were really dull.

Mess pork closed steady, at $21.30 bid seller September and $21.42½@21.45 for October. Lard closed 2½c lower, at $12.37½ for August and $12.40@12.42½ seller September. Short ribs closed 2½@5c lower, at $10.70@10.75 seller September. Red winter wheat closed 1¼c higher, at $1.02½ for August. Regular wheat closed ⅜@1½c higher, at $1.01¼@1.01⅜ seller August and 98¼@98⅜c seller September. Corn closed easier, at 77⅛c bid for car-lots and 77¼@77⅜c for September. Oats closed ¼c lower, at 40⅞@41c for August, 36⅛@36¼c for September, and 35¼c for the year. Rye closed unchanged at 68c cash, 69½c for September, and nominally 70½c for October. Barley closed unchanged for No. 2 at 90c for the September delivery, and ½c lower for No. 3, at 69½c for the same month. Hogs were steady at $7.65@8.45 for light, and at $7.70@8.90 for heavy. Cattle were firm at $3.50@8.00 for natives, and at $3.50@5.25 for Texans. The receipts for the week were 27,000 cattle, 57,000 hogs, and 7,000 sheep; against 29,743 cattle, 90,573 hogs, and 4,853 sheep for the corresponding week last year.

A fairly active demand for dry goods existed. The season, which is opening rather earlier than usual, bids fair to be an exceptionally active one as a result of big crops. Boots and shoes are moving in a liberal way, and increased activity in clothing, hats and caps, and millinery goods is also apparent. Groceries continue in good demand and average firm and steady. In the dried-fruit market continued quiet is complained of, but prices keep well up, holders having confidence in the future. Fish remain firm under light stocks and a fair demand. Butter and cheese are again quoted firm, the tendency in the latter being rather upward. There was a steady market for oils, and unchanged markets for bagging, leather, coal, and pig-iron.

In green fruits blackberries were more plenty, 4,000 cases having been received from Michigan, sales being made at $1.25@1.40 per case of 16 quarts. Watermelons were off, selling at a range of $8.00@11.00 per 100. Eggs showed no change. There were no new features in hides, grease, or tallow, quietness being the distinctive characteristic in these lines. Building materials continue active, common building brick being half a dollar higher, and all others remaining steady and firm. Potatoes are steady, both in demand and price. Wool is unchanged. Hay was a trifle more active and steady at about Friday's figure. Seeds were strong for timothy, cash being quotable at $2.30@2.33, August selling at $2.27@2.30, the former old seed; September at $2.15, and October at $2.12½. Flax seed was steady at $1.25.

Lake freights were fairly active at 1¾@2c on corn and 2@2¼c on wheat to Buffalo, the rates to Kingston on wheat being 4½c. The engagements up to the close of 'Change aggregated 200,000 bu wheat and 104,000 bu corn.

Rail freights were reported steady on the basis of 25c per 100 lbs on grain and 30c on provisions from Chicago to New York. Through to Liverpool was in light demand and dull at about 40c.

The receipts of wheat at Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Toledo, and Detroit, reported Saturday, aggregated 193,000 bu. The shipments from the same points were reported at 330,000 bu. The shipments reported from New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore were 472,000 bu.

The sensation in oat circles Saturday was the understanding that Monday's receipts will be fully 300 car-loads, and big cars at that. The current receipts showed an increase, and one consignment of 4 car-loads was noted which contained 4,200 bu. This, however, is an exceptional case. Still it is estimated that the receipts of this fall will average not much less than 800 bu to the car-load. Such big loads are embarrassing to the inspectors, and it is no wonder if they sometimes make a mistake on the grading of oats when they cannot get into the car.

A lot of 5 bags of new No. 2 corn from Texas arrived in St. Louis Saturday, and is reported to have sold at $6.75 per bu. One may well be puzzled to think what the buyer wants to do with it at such a price. It is not ornamental enough to put in a show-window.

A shipping order for 80,000 bu No. 2 corn came here Friday afternoon, and could not (then) be filled. The bulk of the cash corn now here is understood to be held on account of Eastern factories, and is not on the market. Buying orders have to be filled from the current receipts of each day.

Some parties in Toledo have recently had a great deal to say about the wheat trade of this city. The superior character of the men who do business in Toledo is, of course, duly hinted at in these diatribes. They are especially interesting to those who remember the wheat deal of July, 1873, in that city. The last day of that month the market opened at $1.75, and advanced to $2.00. On that rise several men sold out their spot holdings, and delivered them, while defaulting on their contracts to deliver at lower prices. A committee was appointed to fix a price, and decided on $1.56.67, the decision being confirmed on appeal to another committee. It was notorious that the men setting on these committees were interested on the short side of the deal, and really passed judgment on their own case. It looks very much as if the Toledo men might with advantage heed the Gospel injunction, "Let him that is without sin among you cast the first stone."

Indianapolis telegraphs that grain receipts there are light, and expected to continue so for the present.

After much communing, and the harmonizing of the many conflicting views on the subject, the flaxseed dealers have formulated an entirely new set of rules for the government of that trade. The most important point agreed upon is the provision, which will be voted on by the Directors, making this commodity deliverable on warehouse receipts.

It was erroneously stated that August oats sold on Friday as low as 40c. The lowest price paid for that delivery was 40⅝c.

PROVISIONS.

HOG PRODUCTS—Were quiet and easier, but steady in tone. Liverpool was quoted 6d lower on lard, which probably meant nothing more than that it was overstated the previous day, or supposed to have been so. The local hog market was unchanged, and there were very few outside orders. The local feeling was understood to be entirely dependent upon the movement in grain. The shipping movement was dull, but that for the whole week was rather large in volume. The summer packing in this city to date was reported as 1,225,000 hogs, against 1,770,000 to same time last year, and 1,249,000 to do in 1880. The packing at Milwaukee is a little larger than for the same time last year.

MESS PORK—Declined 7½@10c per brl, and closed about the same as on Friday afternoon, at $21.30 asked for round lots spot or seller the month. Sales were reported of 250 brls seller August at $21.30, 6,000 brls seller September at $21.27½@21.37½, 14,750 brls seller October at $21.35@21.47½, 1,750 brls seller the year at $19.50@19.55, 4,000 brls seller January at $19.90@19.92½, and 1,000 brls seller February at $20.00@20.05. Total 27,750 brls. The following gives the range of the day on the leading deals, including the call transactions:

	Closed Friday bid.	Range Saturday.	Closed do. bid.
August	$21.27½	$ 21.30	$21.27½
September	21.30	21.22½@21.37½	21.30
October	21.42½	21.35 @21.47½	21.42½
The year	19.52½	19.50 @19.55	19.50
January	19.87½	19.90 @19.92½	19.90

LARD—Declined 5@7½c per 100 lbs, and closed 2½c below the leading prices of Friday at $12.37½ bid for round lots spot or seller the month. Sales were reported of 1,250 tcs seller August at $12.37½@12.40, 5,250 tcs seller September at $12.37½@12.45, 4,000 tcs seller October at $12.45@12.52½, 2,500 tcs seller November at $12.40@12.42½, 1,250 tcs seller the year at $12.32½, 1,500 tcs seller January at $12.30, 3,000 tcs seller February at $12.40@12.62½, and 250 tcs seller March at $12.47½. Total 19,000 tcs. The following table gives the range of the day, including the call transactions:

	Closed Friday, bid.	Range Saturday.	Closed do. bid.
August	$12.40	$12.37½@12.40	$12.37½
September	12.42½	12.37½@12.45	12.40
October	12.52½	12.45 @12.52½	12.47½
November	12.35	12.40 @12.42½	12.40
January	12.35	12.30	12.30

MEATS—Declined about 5c per 100 lbs from the latest prices of Friday, and closed steady. Sales were reported of 50,000 lbs short clears at 13¾c; and 1,300,000 lbs short ribs at $12.70@12.75 seller September, $12.65@12.70 seller October, and $10.85 seller January. The prices of the leading cuts were as follows at the close of trading:

	Shoulders.	Short ribs.	L. & S. clears.	Short clears.
Loose, part salted	$9.50	$12.75	$12.80	$13.25
Do. boxed	9.75	13.00	13.05	13.50
September, loose	9.50	12.72½	12.80	13.25
October, loose	9.50	12.65	12.80	13.30

Short ribs closed at $12.70 bid seller September and $12.65@12.67½ seller October. Long clears were quoted at $12.62½ loose and $12.87½ boxed; Cumberlands, 12¾@13⅛c boxed; long cut hams, 13¼@14c; sweet-pickled hams quoted at 13@13¼c for 16 lb averages; green hams, same averages, 12@12¼c.

Bacon quoted at 10¾@11c for shoulders, 13⅜@13¾c for short ribs, 13⅝@14c for short clears, 14½@15c for hams, all canvased and packed. Sweet pickled shoulders 10@10¼c.

BEEF—Was quiet at $12.25@12.50 for mess, $12.75@13.00 for extra mess, and $19.00@19.25 for hams.

BREADSTUFFS AND SEEDS.

FLOUR—Was more active in small lots, chiefly to the local trade, as shippers were holding off. There was no material change in prices. Sales were reported of 525 brls winters at $5.00@6.25; 350 brls and 800 sacks springs at $5.37½@7.75; 400 sacks low grades and 100 brls rye flour, both on private terms. Total equal to about 1,800 brls. Winter flours were quoted at $6.25@6.75 for choice, $5.75@6.25 for good, $5.25@5.75 for new, and $4.50@5.25 for supers; springs were quoted at $6.25@6.75 for good to choice. Minnesota patents at $7.50@8.25, and rye flour at $4.00@4.25.

OTHER MILLSTUFFS—Were quiet and firm, with only moderate offerings. Sales were reported of 5 cars bran at $13.50@14.50; and 2 cars middlings at $22.75. All per ton.

REGULAR WHEAT—Was dull and steady. The market for next month advanced ¼@⅜c, then declined ½c, and closed ⅜c above the latest prices of Friday; while this month closed 1½c higher. London reported a decline of 3d per quarter, and our receipts were somewhat larger, but with the shipments of the week about double the income here. The weather was steadier, and more favorable to a movement of wheat out of first hands. This made local operators rather bearish in the early part of the day, especially as there was an almost utter absence of outside orders. Towards noon some export orders were received here and in Milwaukee, which made cash wheat advance, and this reacted decidedly on the price for August, the shorts for this month wakening up when they saw that there is not likely to be any pressure to sell stuff between this and September. This affected somewhat the longer futures. Seller September opened at 98c, sold up to 98⅜c, fell off to 97⅜, improved to 98c asked, and closed at 98⅛c bid. Seller the month was 2c above August early, and fully 3c premium later. Seller October ranged ¼@⅜c below September, and the year was ⅜c below October. The following table shows the range of the day on the leading deals:

	Closed Friday, bid.	Range Saturday.	Closed do. bid.
Seller August	.99¾	$1.00 @1.01½	$1.01¼
Seller September	.97⅜	97⅜@ 98⅜	98⅛
Seller October	97⅜	97⅜@ 98⅜	98
Seller the year	96⅜	96⅜@ 97¼	97

WINTER WHEAT—Was much stronger, closing 1¼c higher than on Friday. The market was tame till towards noon, and then started up under a good export demand, being especially strong on receipts in special houses, where there is enough in store to permit receipts for a cargo to be obtained without much trouble. Car lots of No. 2 closed at $1.03 bid in ordinary houses. Seller August was in better demand, at $1.01½@1.02½, closing at the outside. Seller the year sold at $1.00¼. The other futures were neglected. Spot sales were reported of 1 car long-berried red at $1.07; 12,300 bu and 45 cars No. 2 red at $1.02@1.03½; 5 cars do at $1.03½; 21 cars No. 3 at $1.00@1.01; and 22 cars by sample at 88c@$1.08. Total about 50,000 bu.

SPRING WHEAT—Sales were limited to 1 car No. 2 at $1.05, 1 car No. 3 at 90c, and 7 cars by sample at 65@92½c. Total, about 4,000 bu. Seller August was quoted at $1.03, and other futures were unmentioned.

CORN—Was slow and irregular, though generally called steady. The market for next month advanced ⅜@⅜c, but closed about the same as on Friday afternoon. Liverpool was quoted dull but unchanged, while our receipts showed some increase, but with a moderate volume of shipments. There was a tame feeling in the near futures, though some parties professed to be apprehensive of a deal in this month. The longer futures were irregular, November being in fair demand and strong, till stopped by liberal offerings for May. The year was easy on account of increasing confidence in the yield on the new crop, and May was quite weak for the same reason. Otherwise the later market was firm in sympathy with wheat. Car lots of No. 2 closed at 77⅛c bid, with high mixed at 79c bid, and rejected at 75c. Spot sales were reported of 7,000 bu and 57 cars high mixed at 79@79½c, 40,000 bu and 90 cars No. 2 at 77¾@78¼c, 10,000 bu and 50 cars rejected at 74⅜@75c, 2 cars do at 73½c, 12 cars by sample at 74½@80c on track, and 33 cars do at 75@83½c free on board. Total about 185,000 bu. Seller September opened at 77½c, sold at 77¾c, and declined to 77¼c bid at the close. Seller month ranged ⅛@⅜c above September, and October was about 1c below September. Seller the year ranged 8⅜@8⅝c below October, and May declined from 69c early to 67c later, closing at 67c bid. The following table shows the range of the day on the leading deals:

	Closed Friday, bid.	Range Saturday.	Closed do. bid
Spot, fresh receipts	77¼	77½@78¾	77¾
Seller August	77⅛	77⅜@78¾	77¾
Seller September	77⅛	77⅛@77¾	77¾
Seller October	76⅝	76⅛@76⅞	76⅝
Seller November	73⅝	73⅛@73⅝	73⅝
Seller the year	68⅜	67⅛@68¼	67⅛

OATS—Were fairly active and irregular, spot No. 2 selling down 2c and seller the month fluctuating frequently, advancing at one time ⅛c over Friday's call price, and closing ¼c below the latest figure of the day previous. The gradually increasing receipts, together with the continued weakness of this grain in St. Louis, were the leading causes of the declining tendency. Cash oats sold early at 44c, closing weak at 43c. Seller the month ranged at 41@42½c, closing at 40⅞@41c. September sold at 36⅛@36½c, closing at 36⅛@36¼c. October ruled at 35⅛@35¼c, closing at 35⅛c. Seller the year ranged at 35¼@35⅜c, closing at 35¼c. Samples were active and lower. Cash sales were made of 10 cars at 43@44c for No. 2 in store; 10 cars by sample at 40@46c for new rejected mixed; 57@62c for old rejected white, and 60c for old No. 2 white on track; 60 cars at 45@45½c for new rejected mixed; 50@60c for new rejected white; 60@63c for old rejected white; 45½@46½c for old No. 2, and 64c for old No. 2 white free on board. Total equal to about 52,000 bu. The following shows the closing price on Friday, with the range on Saturday:

No. 2 oats.	Closed Friday, bid.	Range Saturday.	Closed do. bid.
Spot, new	.45	43 @44	43
Seller August	41½	41 @42½	40⅞
Seller September	36⅛	36⅛@36½	36⅛
Seller the year	35⅜	35¼@35⅜	35¼

RYE—Was quiet and steady, No. 2 spot selling at 68c, September at 69½c, closing at 69½c bid, with October nominally at 70½c, and 67½c bid for the year. Cash sales were made of 5 cars at 68c for No. 2 in store; 3 cars by sample at 69c for No. 2, and 64@65c for rejected on track; 1 car at 65½c for rejected free on board. Total equal to about 4,800 bu.

BARLEY—Was steady, No. 2 for September delivery selling at 90c, and No. 3 for the same month at 69½@70c, closing at the inside price. Cash sales were made of 1 car by sample at 70c for new No. 3 on track.

SEEDS—Timothy was firm, with a fair business in cash and for future delivery. Prime seed was quotable at $2.30@2.33, August delivery selling at $2.27@2.30 (the former for old), September at $2.15, and October at $2.12. Flaxseed was steady at $1.25, and clover nominally quotable at $4.50@5.00 for common to choice. Sales were made of 1 car common cloverseed at $4.50; 12 cars and 211 bags timothy seed at $2.00@2.32½ cash, and futures as above given; 4 cars flaxseed at $1.25@1.26, the latter delivered.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

Proposals for Sewer.

Public notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Village Clerk of the Village of Hyde Park, Cook County, Illinois, will receive up to 4 o'clock p. m. of Monday, Aug. 14, 1882, at his office, in the Village-Hall in said village, sealed proposals for furnishing the material and laying and constructing a brick sewer in Fifty-sixth-st. from Lake Michigan to Woodlawn-av. in accordance with the plans and specifications now on file in the office of the Village Engineer; said sewer to be cylindrical in shape and fifty-four (54) inches internal diameter between Lake Michigan and the west line of Woodlawn-av.

Payment for said sewer to be made in special assessment warrants drawn against Special Assessment Fund No. 100, on the back of which the village shall be released from all reliability.

Each bid must be accompanied with a certified check for five hundred ($500) dollars, which check will be retained till contract is completed.

The village reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

EDWARD W. HENRICKS,
Village of Hyde Park. Village Clerk.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Public notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Village Clerk of the Village of Hyde Park, Cook County, State of Illinois, will receive up to 4 o'clock p. m. of Monday, August 21, A. D. 1882, at his office in the Village Hall of said village, sealed proposals for the laying of a cast-iron water supply pipe of 12 inches internal diameter and a weight of 85 pounds per lineal foot along a line 40 feet west of and parallel with the west line of the Illinois Central Railroad right of way, from a point 10 feet south of the center line of One Hundred and Fifteenth-st. to a point 10 feet south of the center line of One Hundred and Eleventh-st.

Bids will also be received up to time as stated for the furnishing of the pipe to be laid as above.

Bids for laying and furnishing to be separate and a deposit of $250 to accompany each bid until contract is completed.

All work to be done according to plans and specifications on file in the Engineer's office at the Village Hall.

All bids must be marked on the outside, and the Village reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

EDWARD W. HENRICKS, Village Clerk.
Village of Hyde Park, Ill.

PROPOSALS.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Commissioners of Cook County until 12 o'clock m. Monday, Aug. 21, for grading and filling the roadbed for railroad to County Farm from a point about 100 rods west of Galewood, on the Pacific Branch of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway. The profile for grading and filling may be seen at the office of the Clerk of the Board, Room 35, new Court-House. Bids to be accompanied by a bond in the penal sum of $1,000, and addressed to the Board of County Commissioners, Room 35, Court-House.

E. F. C. KLOKKE, Clerk.

PROPOSALS

Will be received for the erection of a School-House at Sixty-fifth-st., in Town of Lake. Plans can be seen at office of O. J. PIERCE, Architect, 155 La Salle-st., from 16th to 18th inst.

Dramatic and Musical Notes Here and Elsewhere.

Reopening of Hooley's Theatre by the Kiralfy "Michael Strogoff" Company.

It was but natural that the Chicago public, to which Mr. Hooley has so long acted in the capacity of amusement caterer, should turn out in full force last evening to the reopening of his theatre, which has been closed for several weeks and undergone a regular transformation. The audience was limited only by the capacity of the house, and the brilliant toilets of the ladies were set off to advantage by the rich colorings of the theatre's interior decorations.

In regard to the improvements which have been made in the house, and of which an extended notice appears elsewhere, it may be said briefly in this place that there is now no prettier theatre in the West, if indeed, in the country, than Hooley's. The attraction last evening, as stated above, was "Michael Strogoff," a spectacle which has been given in this city before under the same management, and in the presentation of this class of amusements the Kiralfys have no superiors. The dramatization of Jules Verne's story affords ample opportunity for the introduction of mechanical and spectacular effects, and this opportunity has been taken advantage of at every point. The battle scene, always popular, is produced with even better effect than on previous occasions, while the ballet is an exceptionally good-looking and well-drilled one, the dancing of De Rosa being as graceful and artistic as ever. "Michael Strogoff" will be continued during the week.

THE DRAMA.

Notes and Announcements.

Gustave Frohman arrived from San Francisco last night.

"Taken from Life" will continue on the boards at McVicker's this week.

Mr. John P. Smith will manage the tour of the Vokes Family the coming season.

Mr. George Thompson will play Joe Saunders next season with Aldrich and Parsloe's "My Partner" company No. 2.

Charles Frohman left for New York on Friday, to return by the next departing train—which should bring him into Chicago again tomorrow.

The old-time favorite series of entertainments known as the "Star Course" will this season be revived at Central Music-Hall under Mrs. George B. Carpenter's auspices.

Haverly's Colored Minstrels, who are to consolidate here with Callender's company on the 28th inst., are due at New York today by the steamship Arizona from Liverpool.

Mr. Edward Arnott has been substituted for Mr. Harry Courtaine in the cast of "American Born," which is to be played at the Grand Tuesday evening, Mr. Courtaine being unwell.

Robert Filkins, formerly general representative of Haverly's enterprises, has been engaged in the same capacity for the contemplated consolidation of the Callender and Haverly colored minstrel organizations.

The next volume of the American Actor Series is to be Miss Kate Field's "Charles Albert Fechter." Miss Field's personal reminiscences of the actor as well as her careful study of his powers promise to make this a most entertaining volume.

The latest addition to the Marinorama is a double quartet of jubilee singers, under the direction of Prof. T. S. Boston. A grand benefit for the Russian refugees is announced, under the auspices of Hiller and Herder Lodges, I. O. B. B., in conjunction with Engelhardt's entertainments, on Friday, Aug. 25.

Mrs. John Wood wears three beautiful gowns in "Money" at the Vaudeville, London, in which play she takes the part of Lady Franklin. A dinner dress of ruby brocade is the handsomest; a gown of white lace and blue brocade the most graceful; and one of pink moiré and some soft stuff the most becoming.

Louise Raymond, the actress, was thrown from her horse while riding at Saratoga recently, but not seriously hurt. To her personal friends she is Mrs. Hattie P. Ayres, the widow of Charles Wesley Ayres, whose marriage, separation, and death, which all occurred before the honeymoon was over, attracted much attention about a year ago.

Miss Hettie Bernard and Mr. Charles W. Chase were married on Monday last in this city by Justice C. L. Woodman, at the residence of Mr. H. J. Bernard, the father of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Chase are well-known here in dramatic circles, having played in nearly all of the theatres here, and have made Chicago their home for a number of years.

A recent caller on Mr. Harry Bascom in the hospital at Hartford found him cheerful and happy, his general health good, the stumps of his amputated legs entirely healed, and he acquiring proficiency in the use of the artificial feet furnished him from the actors' fund. It is expected that he will be admitted to the Forrest Home, near Philadelphia, before long.

Next Tuesday evening the Baldwin Theatre Company, from San Francisco, will produce at the Grand Opera-House "American Born," an adaptation by Mr. David Belasco of Henry Pettit's new drama. The company includes Miss Ada Ward, Mr. John Dillon, Miss Jean Walters, Mr. M. A. Kennedy, Miss Abbie Pierce, Mr. Harry Courtaine, Miss Rellie Deavres, Mr. George Osborn, and Mr. John Francour.

With a laudable desire to correct the somewhat poor opinion British play-goers pretend to entertain of the American drama and its interpreters, Mr. Charles Backus has followed in the wake of Mr. Booth, his brother tragedian, and is now showing cockney admirers of the histrionic art his versatility as an exponent of Shakspeare in many languages. Mr. Backus and his mouth are, or were a short time ago, taking part in the entertainment of the Moore & Burgess Minstrels at St. James' Hall, London.

Abbey had engaged Lionel Brough, the famous comedian, thought in London to be unrivaled as Tony Lumpkin, Touchstone, and Blenkinsop, to support Mrs. Langtry in this country. He was to be paid $500 a week, but, when Mrs. Langtry objected to having his name printed in as big type as hers, he backed out. It is just as well for the actress perhaps, for he is an actor and she is a novice, and the chances are that he would have become the real star of the company. His place has been filled by the engagement of James Taylor, a comedian of good parts, now playing a leading character in "Boccaccio" at the London Comedy.

Fred Vokes tells a good story of Tom King, the great tragedy whacker, who bellowed in a round of Shakspearean characters several seasons ago at Robinsons' Opera-House. King was playing the leading part in a blood-and-thunder drama at the time alluded to at the Adelphi Theatre, London. In the last act the hero dies by his own hand, a dagger being the ready instrument, and always placed conspicuously on a table in his prison cell. The curtain lifted and Tom, says Fred, "was discovered behind the bars scraping away with a file in a fruitless endeavor to release himself. Finally in despair he determines to put an end to his own existence, and rushes to the table. Imagine his surprise and consternation when he finds the property-man has forgotten the dagger. 'Ah ha!' said he, 'Foiled at last. Ah ha! I have it. I will not be outwitted so,' and up goes the file to his mouth with a make-believe effort of swallowing. 'Ah ha! I have swallowed the file, and de-eth [death] shall set me f-r-e-e!'"

MUSIC.

Local and Foreign Gossip.

Miss Rose Temple does not go with the Grau & Snyder Opera Company, as reported. As yet she has accepted no offers for next season.

A meeting of the ladies of the May Festival chorus will be held in Fairbank Hall tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Mr. Tomlins will submit matters of importance for their consideration.

London Truth: "Mr. Solomon, I do not doubt, is a clever musician. His 'Billee Taylor,' now playing at the Gaiety, has considerable merit; but I suppose some one has told the young man that he is a Mozart or a Mendelssohn, and unfortunately he believes it."

A concert will be given in Baum's Pavilion, corner Twenty-second street and Cottage Grove avenue, this evening, under the direction of Prof. Kerker, who will lead an orchestra of twenty-five pieces. Tomorrow evening the Hyer Sisters' Opera Company will begin a week's engagement.

Manager Neumann, who, with Richter, conducted the recent German operatic performances in London, has been making inquiries as to the outlook for a season of Wagnerian opera in New York. If a subscription of $100,000 for forty performances is guaranteed and a suitable house can be found, the prospects are that his company may appear here after the holidays. So far no suitable theatre has been offered. The Academy is too much occupied by ball-givers in February to allow time for a German season between the two seasons of Italian opera.

Christine Nilsson is at Divonne, a watering-place in the south of France, but will return to England in September to fulfill engagements at Birmingham, Nottingham, Brighton, and other towns. She will give a farewell concert at Albert Hall in London Oct. 12, at which she will have the assistance of Sims Reeves and many well-known artists, and two days later she will sail from Liverpool for New York.

Miss Hope Glenn, the contralto, who is to appear with Nilsson during the coming season, has made her reputation principally in England, where she has been singing for several years. Miss Glenn formerly lived in Chicago, where, before going to Europe, she was a pupil of Mr. Fred W. Root. While abroad she studied with Viardot and Wartel in Paris, Lamperti in Milan, and Randegger in London. Her voice is said to be remarkable in quality as well as in compass and volume.

Musical circles in the northwestern part of the city are very much interested in the wonderful performances on the violin by Andreas Christian Yttrup, a young Dane, who was born in Skiva, Yuttland, Denmark, in 1855. A Danish paper states that he bought a violin with his first savings, and at the age of 18 years was a pupil in the Danish Musical Conservatory, under Prof. Tafte, remaining there three years. He was given the first diploma and extra honorary mention, and shortly afterwards came to America.

It is announced that the new opera for which Darling, the young composer of "Twelve Jolly Bachelors," is writing the music, is to be called "Don Filibusto." The words are by Edgar M. Bacon, of the Boston Advertiser, and the scene is said to be laid on the Mexican border, and to mix up cowboys, United States cavalry, Spanish dancers, priests, and Indians in picturesque confusion. One scene represents a group of Indians gathered about a camp-fire in a gloomy cañon. The story is called pretty and humorous, and the songs piquant, effective, and full of local color.

THE SCHOOL CENSUS.

An Increase of Nearly 60,000 in Two Years.

The school census, completed yesterday, shows that there are 71,177 more people in Chicago than there were two years ago, not including the 7,000 or 8,000 sailors and others who make their living on the lakes and were on board vessels away from home when the canvassers were at work. It will be remembered that the figures of the Board of Education in 1880 fell some 19,000 behind those of the United States census, as the count this year is believed to be under rather than over the actual population, especially since no estimate was made for the men and women afloat on the lakes.

The total population is 562,693, of whom 321,000 are over 21 years of age, 54,518 between 16 and 21, 100,648 between 6 and 16, and 86,527 under 6.

The ward totals are as follows, as compared with those of the United States census of 1880:

	1882.	1880.
First	10,342	14,771
Second	15,870	20,127
Third	17,960	16,850
Fourth	30,107	28,035
Fifth	56,956	47,483
Sixth	48,551	40,881
Seventh	41,492	37,454
Eighth	38,776	37,135
Ninth	20,205	17,558
Tenth	17,643	15,720
Eleventh	24,854	22,357
Twelfth	31,493	27,896
Thirteenth	23,489	20,853
Fourteenth	64,814	56,467
Fifteenth	32,984	28,751
Sixteenth	25,405	23,777
Seventeenth	27,962	24,669
Eighteenth	27,709	22,269
	562,693	503,053

There are in the North Division 57,982 white males and 56,122 females; total, 114,000. In the South Division, 67,054 males and 64,181 females; total, 131,235. In the West Division, 160,741 males and 150,496 females; total, 311,237. The colored people number 5,812, the South Division containing 4,267, the West 1,387, and the North 158; and the total Chinamen is 349, distributed thus: North, 140; South, 146; West, 63.

Of those under 21, 47,503 are in the North Division, 22,896 being males and 24,507 females; 53,308 in the South Division, 26,476 males and 26,732 females; and 139,418 in the West Division, 69,871 males and 69,547 females. The colored people under 21 number 1,564. Total, 241,693.

Of those under 16, the South Division has 43,258—21,583 males and 21,675 females; the North Division, 38,911—19,084 males and 19,827 females; and the West Division, 103,745—males 56,814, females 56,931. Colored, 1,271. Total, 187,175.

Of infants under 6, the North Division has 17,019—males 8,097, females 8,922; the South Division, 18,560—males 9,275, females 9,285; and the West Division, 50,397—males 25,066, females 25,331. Colored, 551. Total, 86,527.

Allowing 7,500 for sailors, vessel cooks, etc.—a small estimate—the population is a little over 570,000.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

A Loses.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—A wipes the sweat from his face and says, "I transpire freely this warm weather." He then bets B that his use of the word transpire is correct, according to Webster. Who wins? M——.

Leather Medals for Congress.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Some persons may feel indignant enough to send the Senators and Congressmen who voted for the River and Harbor steal back to the walks of private life. But I feel like rewarding not only those who voted for the bill, but those who left Washington and thus permitted the bill to become a law. And the way I propose to reward these public servants who voted away so many millions which didn't belong to them is to strike off the requisit number of medals, in brass or leather, and give one to each Senator and Congressman. Let Nast or some other artist be employed to devise suitable inscriptions for the medals and have them executed as soon as possible—at least before any of the macadamized creeks named in the appropriation bill shall have run dry. Let not one faithful Congressman go unrewarded. M.

West Division Railway Annoyances.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—The West Side Street Railway Company do not accommodate people visiting the parks as much as even decency requires. Men, women, and children are huddled, after long waits, into small transfer cars not half large enough to hold the perspiring victims. This cramming process takes away much of the pleasure which should attend a visit to the parks, and many are deterred from going there on Sunday and other days because of the jam to which the car company subjects them. Another thing, the company exacts double fare from those going to Garfield Park who happen to get on a Randolph instead of a Lake street car. These two streets converge at Union Park, and there is no sense or justice in this petty extortion on the part of so rich a corporation as the West Division Railway Company. B. C.

The Smoke Nuisance.

To the Editor of The Chicago Tribune.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Why is it that the smoke nuisance cannot be abated on the North Side as well as in other sections of the city? In the vicinity of Chicago avenue and Larrabee street is just the location where the smoke ordinance will do a great deal of good to the North Side, as well as the people who reside in the surrounding dwellings. Shufeldt & Lynch's distillery is the establishment which is the chief offender. All day long nothing but thick, black smoke is issuing from its chimney, full of heavy soot, which very likely comes from burning the worst kind of soft coal. It is annoying to the neighbors, as it prevents them from opening their windows for fear of the smoke issuing in and covering the rooms with the black soot. I often hear people ask if the city authorities were taking an everlasting vacation, or if they ever visit the North Side. Now, why cannot the law take its course, and this be prohibited. Furthermore, concerning this establishment, which is a public nuisance, is the buzzing noise from an exhaust steam-pipe located on the roof in the open air. This heartrending and disagreeable noise does not occur alone in the day time, but till late in the night, when the workingmen want their rest, and it also disturbs the public from their slumbers. This exhaust could be made to lead into the river, and thus prevent the annoyance of the public. This ought to be attended to immediately. A NEIGHBOR.

THE NEW ORTHODOXY.

For The Chicago Tribune.

The new religion groweth from the old;
For sinful man has, and must have, a creed,
While human nature spurns the better deed,
Turning to myths supernal manifold.
But there shall dawn a day of greater worth,
When man shall, far above the mystic sphere,
Discern one law of Truth in all the Earth,
Both new and old pervading everywhere.

O man, wouldst know this law to make thee blest?
Ask not with trembling, "Shall I be forgiven?"
Be true within, and in thy spirit's rest
Find still in Righteousness the hope of Heaven,
Nor ask of men or systems for a cure:
The true shall stand—the just for aye endure!

Matrimonial.

Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock Miss Julia Weber and Mr. Louis W. Stayart were married in a quiet manner at the Church of the Holy Name, the Rev. Father Conway officiating. The bridesmaids were Miss Annie Weber, Miss Kittie Meara, and Miss Gertie Simon. The attendants of the groom were Messrs. Charles P. Miller, Joseph Hoffman, and P. J. Dohue. At the conclusion of the ceremony the newly-married couple formally received their friends at the residence of the bride's parents, at No. 239 Burling street. The presents were numerous and costly.

Among the quiet and interesting events of the week was the wedding of Mr. F. H. Prince to Miss Marie A. Grenier, which occurred on the 10th inst. The contracting parties left immediately for an extended trip through the East, to be absent till about the 1st of September, after which they will be at home, No. 38 Hammond street.

On Aug. 7, at Atchison, Kas., Miss Virginia Stockton, late of Otero, N. M., and Nicholas Francis Cooke Jr., of Colfax County, New Mexico, were married, the Rev. Peter Kosseus performing the ceremony.

A very pleasant wedding occurred at Frankfort, Ill., Aug. 2, the contracting parties being Miss Emma, only daughter of B. Baumgartner, Esq., of Frankfort, and Mr. Augustus Grunewald, of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Grunewald left on the evening train for an extended Eastern trip.

Thursday evening Miss Ella Riehl, daughter of Mrs. George Bernard, of Millington, Ill., and Mr. W. H. Kelly, of Oswego, were married at the bride's home in the presence of none but relatives, the Rev. Dr. Robertson, of Sandwich, performing the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly left on the evening train for their future home in La Salle.

Mr. O. B. Williams and Mrs. J. F. Farnham, of Whitewater, Wis., were quietly married by the Rev. Mr. Sewell last Tuesday morning, and took the train for their wedding tour. On arriving in this city they went at once to the residence of Dr. T. C. Duncan, No. 670 West Monroe street. In the evening, as if in honor of the event, Mrs. Duncan's night-blooming cereus put forth three large elegant blossoms. A large party of friends called to pay their compliments and congratulations.

Last Sunday afternoon Miss Lizzie Moll and Mr. Joseph Teague were quietly married in presence of a few friends and relatives at the residence of the bride's parents, No. 453 Hubbard street, the Rev. Henry G. Perry, of All-Saints' Parish, officiating after the form of the Episcopal Church.

The engagements of Alfred Isaacs and Hannah Nathan and Alexander Levison and Eva Diamond, all of this city, are announced.

The betrothal of Alexander Isaacs and Miss Fannie Geider is announced. No cards.

The engagement of Miss Carrie McElroy, eldest daughter of the late Solon McElroy, and Mr. Joseph P. Cooper, of St. Louis, is announced. The wedding, which will be strictly private, will occur in a few weeks.

General Society.

Thursday last the Oakland Social Circle went into camp at Riverside. The party is composed of the following people: Mrs. Buckley, Mrs. Brown, the Misses Buckley, the Misses Brown, Miss Childs, Miss G. Harding, Miss Donigan, Messrs. H. Rossiter, A. R. Clark, W. G. Clark, P. Buckley, W. Hurlburt, E. Tolman, and H. Downs.

Chapter No. 313 of the Agassiz Association surprised Otto Stein at his home, No. 51 North Sheldon street, Tuesday evening last, it being his birthday. Mrs. Stein and her daughter, Miss Anna, who had adroitly planned a complete surprise for Master Otto, dispensed the hospitalities of the evening with charming grace. It was an event long to be remembered by the young "naturalists."

Master Van Gelder Brower, of University Place, entertained some of his little friends Thursday afternoon from 4 until 7, it being the occasion of his fourth birthday.

Wednesday evening a private reception was tendered Miss Mollie E. Mott, teacher of elocution in the high school, Minneapolis, Minn., at the residence of M. D. Kendall, No. 211 Thirty-first street. The guests were entertained with a varied program by Prof. Walter C. Lyman, with whom Miss Mott has been studying for several months. Mrs. Lyman and Miss Mott also gave recitations by request.

A party of Chicagoans are sojourning and enjoying the fine fishing and boating at Eagle's Nest, Port Sherman, Mich. The party comprise Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Birmingham, Miss Birmingham, Misses Jo and Grace Reed, Miss A. Morrison, and Miss M. A. Crotty.

The Social Club at the beautiful little suburb of Wilmette gave what they termed "a midsummer-evening entertainment" at their cozy little hall Friday evening last, under the direction of Prof. J. Prosinger, of Chicago. The company consisted of Miss Emma Crocker, with the Criterion Opera Company, soprano; Mr. Edward Schultze, the well-known tenor, of Chicago; Miss Kate Oesterle, reader; and Miss Gracie Lloyd, accompaniest. An unusually good program was offered, which was crowned with complete success, as testified by the frequent and hearty applause of a brilliant and numerous audience. Prof. Prosinger's playing on the violin, piano, and zither won unqualified praise of his skill. The Social Club, by the way, seems to be a successful organization, occupying their neat new hall, and, with its handsome furnishings, decorations, etc., is as cozy and comfortable as a parlor.

Pointed silk gauze jabots, reaching from the throat to the belt, are novel and dressy.

Faille has completely regained its former popularity—its pliability and softness adapting itself to every style of trimming, as well as to the skirt and bodice themselves.

Artistic jewelry of antique silver, quaintly chased, is very fashionably worn, and silver chatelaines in the moyen-age style are much sought after, as are also brooches, lace-pins, and agrafes of the same description.

Basques with crenelated edges are greatly in favor with many leading modistes, and they admit of a great variety of style. Some have a fall of lace or a kilting under the tabs, others have the square pieces piped and lined with a deeper shade or a contrasting color and fabric.

Stylish young ladies with evening dress twine row after row of pearl or iridescent beads around their dainty throats, until one might take them for ladies of quality in islands barbaric—in the land of the Fiji. Some of these beads are very grotesque in shape and design, and the more so the better in present estimation.

Very large, oddly-colored Oriental handkerchiefs of silk, to be had only at leading houses, are worn with lawn-tennis and other outdoor costumes. They have mostly self-colored backgrounds, with brocaded designs in bright contrasting colors of gold, silver, orange, scarlet, and very dark green intermingling in the brocaded pattern in entirely new devices, and all in high art shades.

Some of the latest imported pattern dresses of white nainsook, batiste, or organdie have extremely elegant embroideries edging the deep flounces to the depth of ten or twelve inches, with narrow ruffles and bands for trimming, and a solid embroidered piece for the waist and sleeves. These goods are manufactured in Switzerland, and the exquisite designs wrought upon them resemble very closely the finest patterns of Honiton, Irish point, guipure, old Venetian point, cart-wheel open-work, and a great variety of purely floral designs.

The "Esmeralda" costumes, introduced by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, and now adopted by many ladies, although highly unique and artistic, cannot be worn with any degree of grace by women at all inclined to stoutness; and a very stout person would be a ridiculous object to behold in a dress which falls in heavy unbroken folds from a yoke over the shoulders to the hem of the garment—this robe being buttoned all the way down the back, from the neck to the foot of the skirt—and devoid of a line or a curve to mark the outline of the figure.

The gauzes, grenadines, and other elegant transparent fabrics introduced this season are legion. The damassé and velvet broché gauzes make most attractive toilets, especially when trimmed with a profusion of jet and lace. Grenadines with broad satin stripes, trimmed with satin sash and bows and long, graceful loop of satin ribbon, plain sewing-silk grenadines over plain silk or moiré skirts, are all very much in vogue, and admit of much variety of style and trimming. These cool-looking fabrics, and the charming wash-dresses in their myriad varieties, constitute the most becoming and suitable of summer dresses.

There was a stylish costume worn at Manhattan Beach not long since. The skirt was made of finely checked woolen fabric, having as trimming a double box-plaited flounce half a yard deep, above which was an extremely long-pointed apron tunic caught up on either side quite to the hips, and held by loops and long, floating ends of satin ribbon; the drapery then fell in straight folds in the back. The check was a mixed one—a sort of greenish-gray and gold—yet it harmonized well with a navy-blue jacket worn above it. It was unique in one respect: the basque was cut excessively short, certainly not more than eight inches in length, and was cut up to the belt in square blocks, simply bound with silk braid and finished down the front with tiny buttons of sage-green, gold, and blue enamel. The Gypsy hat was of straw of the same greenish-gray tint, lined with navy-blue silk, and trimmed with surah a darker shade than the hat, and pale-gold plumes.

Rowing costumes are getting to be in lively demand for ladies who are fond of this healthful pastime, and some of the latest models are startling indeed. Witness a costume with a skirt of cream-white vigogne, with a Jersey bodice of vermilion-colored stockinet, broad Tuscan yellow sailor hat, trimmed with bright red band and bow of satin. Another dress shows a skirt of terra-cotta flannel, with a sash of cardinal, belted, not tied, around the waist, and a "smuggler's" hat of cardinal straw, trimmed all around the crown with silk pompons. Striped jerseys are also worn by women who row. Some of these stripes are narrow and unobtrusive, others quite the reverse. Two ladies lately seen rowing in jerseys formed of yellow and black broad stripes looked therein uncommonly like two big wasps. Several other ladies were jauntily attired in dark navy-blue serge dresses, having the very short skirts kilted all the way up, with broad sashes of the same draped far below the hips, loose blouse waists, cut with immense large sailor collars, and dark blue cricketing hats to match. Over the close coat sleeves of the dress were drawn loose rowing gloves of pale yellow undressed kid.

The latest lawn-tennis hats are made of felt in various colors—marine blue, stone, dark ruby, terra-cotta, cream color, laurel green, and cardinal. These shades are all pretty, but the shapeless form of last year again prevails. Upon the side of the crown of each is worked an emblematic or fantastic design—a short peacock's feather adorns one hat, a pair of rackets, with the handles crossing each other, is worked in outline stitch upon another, and again floral designs are plentifully represented, ladies and gentlemen alike wearing this curious headgear. Very full linings, instead of the usual straight ones, materially assist in keeping them on the head when the wearer is engaged in the activities of this popular game. Much has been said and written in regard to lawn-tennis costumes, the advisability of a uniform club dress, and the like, but no restrictive measures have yet been taken to confine individual taste. One very great disadvantage of a uniform costume would be that it would rob the game of much of its picturesque and gypsy-like effect, as under the present freedom in choosing the dress to suit each wearer's particular fancy great scope is given to both the style of the dress and its colorings, tones, and semi-tones, a tennis lawn now presenting a scene as bright and varied as a tulip bed in full blossom. One thing, at least, should be recommended, and that is the choosing of some thin woolen fabric, like summer cashmere, veiling, or nuns' cloth, serge or flannel, which is light, yet safe; for when heated by the violent exertions of the game it is unwise to stand about or sit and rest in a dress of muslin or other delicate material. A pretty tennis costume is made up of golden fawn-colored nuns' veiling, with square-cut bodice and chemiset let in beneath of scarlet, green, and gold brocade, with apron and tunic of the same gay fabric. Pale pink and ruby serge is made up in like manner, and white flannel dresses, with marine blue, scarlet, or dark green trimmings are very much worn. A very handsome costume worn by a brilliant-looking brunet was of maize-colored cashmere, with deep hollow plaitings of the same upon the short skirt, showing glimpses of cardinal silk between the interstices. Three cardinal silk handkerchiefs were sacrificed to make a very jaunty apron, shirred in at the belt; the two deep pockets were beaded by a shirring, which covered a broad elastic band designed to keep the balls in place while in the pockets. Over the shoulders of the bodice was laid a fourth handkerchief which was knotted loosely in front a la sailor-boy. This costume was both artistic and highly becoming to the wearer, whose face was of the Spanish type.

THE PROHIBITIONISTS.

Yesterday's Proceedings at the Lake Bluff Convocation.

The Lake Bluff Prohibitionists held their meeting according to program yesterday. They had fine weather, though it is beginning to feel like autumn. The gathering of the clans is slowly increasing. About all the Northwestern States are now represented by prohibition advocates, who have come to the Bluff to see and be seen, to speak and to listen.

Mr. George Woodford remarked at the evening meeting that the Germans were not the only obstacle to prohibition. In Iowa several German districts voted for the amendments, and in one place settled by Germans there were only seven votes against it, and of these five were Americans. In La Salle County, Illinois, German votes had carried one town against license. It was not the German drinker, but the German manufacturer and vendor who most opposed the prohibition cause. The American who had been brought up accustomed to liquor was the hardest man to reform. He thought more than the estimated 5,000 Germans in Iowa voted for the amendment, and said many Irish voted for it. The amendment passed, not on account of thorough organization, for it was not there, but because good men, ministers and teachers, voted for it. He was confident Indiana would adopt prohibition, but doubted if Illinois was ready for it.

The Rev. J. S. Norris said that in his city—Joliet—the increase in the license-fee had reduced the number of saloons from 110 to fifty. He told a story about a Chicago lawyer who went to his town to defend a man charged with murder in a drunken row. The lawyer, he continued, went to the hotel-table "pretty full," and after telling the waiter he might bring the whole bill of fare fell asleep. Soon his eyeglasses fell off, next his false teeth dropped out, and then, after giving further signs of falling to pieces, he was carried out.

The Rev. O. M. McNiff, of the Yellowstone Valley, Montana, said prohibition was at a very low ebb in that part of the territory. Saloons were the only restaurants, and army sutlers run what he called United States saloons. The Chinese appeared to be the most respectable element there. A lady rose later and said she knew a better state of affairs existed in some of the MINING TOWNS OF THE TERRITORY.

The Rev. A. A. Knappen spoke yesterday morning on "The Hindrances to Success in Temperance Reform." The leading hindrances mentioned were, the general indifference and apathy, short-sighted policies of temporizers, the movements of the rum-sellers, movements of the old political parties, the influence of conservative churches, and popularity-seeking preachers, and the idolatry of party. He remarked that the old political parties had outlived their usefulness and should give place to a new one—to-wit: the Prohibition party, organized for the express purpose of promoting the interests of temperance. The Republican party would not advocate prohibition, and the Democratic side, he remarked, of course would not, hence the necessity of a new party which was willing and prepared to work out this reform. The Republican party had more temperance men in it than the other, but it would not do the work the prohibitionists wanted done.

The afternoon meeting was entertained by impromptu speakers, the lecturer announced being unable to be present, hygiene and alcohol were discussed, the Rev. Dr. Williamson, who is also an M. D., and Dr. Parkhurst taking the lead in the talk, which, of course, denounced alcohol as a beverage, and very nearly as a medicine. Dr. Williamson told them it acted as a solvent on brain matter, and habitual use of it destroyed men's mental powers. Dr. Parkhurst did not assume to speak from medical knowledge, but as a minister he believed alcohol was the devil's counterfeit of the Holy Ghost. The questions sent forward after the talk were numerous, and it seemed to be rather hard work to answer some of them.

Mr. M. J. Fanning, of Jackson, Mich., arrived yesterday. He says he made about forty-three speeches during the Iowa campaign, and has come to Lake Bluff to rest and look on. Mr. Fanning says about Michigan: "I think the Republicans will insert a plank favoring the submission of a prohibition amendment to the people. It is certain to carry by a larger majority than they had in Iowa.

IF THE REPUBLICANS INDORSE

this amendment they will get the support of the alliance, and if they do not they are likely to be beaten without the temperance vote, for there is a fair prospect of a coalition of the Democrats and Greenbackers. The Democrats will be invited to insert a prohibition plank in their platform, but they are not likely to do it. If neither party does, there will be a new one—the Prohibition party."

Among the arrivals were R. G. Patton, of Monmouth; Mrs. T. B. Sweet, Topeka, Kas.; the Rev. L. Meredith, Freeport, Ill.; the Rev. William Libberton and Mr. and Mrs. J. Corbin, of Durand, Ill.; the Rev. F. E. Lee, of Sparta, Wis.

LILIAN NORTON.

An American Girl's Debut at the Grand Opera, Paris.

She Achieves a Great Success as Gounod's "Marguerite."

Americans Who "Assisted" at the Triumph of Their Countrywoman.

Special Correspondence of The Chicago Tribune.

PARIS, France, July 24.—We Americans in Paris have been enjoying of late a novel and interesting experience—that is to say, such amongst us as have not turned into bogus Europeans, but remain faithful in our allegiance to the Stars and Stripes. For, to any of us who is genuinely interested in the progress made by American students of art or music in Europe, there was a strong and peculiar interest attached to the début of an American girl on the stage of the Grand Opera of Paris—an institution the approaches to which are guarded with jealous care from the intrusion of any performer not of French nationality, or at least educated by a French professor. And, when Miss Lilian Norton—known by her stage-name of Mlle. Nordico—first signed her contract with the manager of the Opera, there were many persons, even amongst her own countrypeople, who doubted if she would ever be suffered to make her début. For the Paris Opera is a national institution; it is supported by the State at a cost of $160,000 per annum; it is the ambition of every French singer to appear upon its boards; and it is the theatre on whose stage the winners of the first prize for singing at the Conservatoire are privileged to make their début. This was the case with Miss Griswold, the only other American who has ever sung at the Grand Opera. She received her musical education at the Paris Conservatoire, and, when she won her first prize, she was entitled by the charter of the establishment to make three appearances at the Grand Opera. But with Miss Norton the case was very different. No tie, either of birth or training, linked her to France, and the strong French jealousy against the introduction of a foreign element into theatres of the State had in her case an unchecked sway. That the young artiste was able to overcome so potent an adverse element is a conclusive evidence of her remarkable talent, even if such evidence had not been rendered needless by her marked success on Friday last, when, in the sympathetic but much personated character of Marguerite, in "Faust," she made her first appearance before a Parisian audience.

The ordeal was a trying one, even to a young prima donna with the plaudits of the audiences in St. Petersburg and Milan still ringing in her ears. It was peculiarly trying to Miss Norton, who has all a true artist's diffidence respecting her own powers. The house was crowded to its utmost capacity, despite the midsummer season and the absence of most of the habitués of the Opera from Paris. French audiences never give to a performer what is technically known in stage-parlance as a "reception"—namely: a round of applause—on his or her first appearance; so it was in the midst of a silence so intense as to be actually terrifying that Marguerite made her first entrance upon the stage. The personal appearance of Miss Norton told at once in her favor. Tall and graceful, with soft brown eyes and profuse chestnut-brown tresses, a lovely expressive mouth and well-formed brow, she presents a very charming realization of a tender and womanly style of beauty. This first favorable impression was deepened and confirmed by her admirable rendition of the opening phrase: "I am no lady, neither am I fair," etc., which literally brought down the house; and from that moment the success of the new Marguerite was a fixed fact. She sang very charmingly in the garden-scene, though her vocal powers were half paralyzed by stage-fright; and she was enthusiastically recalled at the conclusion of the act. But it was in the church-scene that her greatest triumph was achieved. The natural alarm of the débutante had subsided before her evident success, and she sang and acted in that most difficult and trying scene as no prima-donna has done at the Grand-Opera since the days of Christine Nilsson, excepting possibly the stout and elderly Krauss, who, by age and physique, is prevented from numbering Marguerite amongst the permanent rôles of her répertoire. The scene of Valentin's death was also admirably rendered; and the débutante was again summoned before the curtain and overwhelmed with applause. The beautiful ringing notes of the fresh young voice told with fine effect in the concluding trio, and the curtain fell on the most brilliantly successful début that I have ever witnessed at the Grand-Opera.

Miss Norton is a genuine Yankee girl, having been born at Farmington, Me. She is just 23 years of age. Her voice is a soprano of good extent, and of exceptional loveliness of quality. There is a peculiar ringing sweetness about certain of the high notes, that, as one enthusiastic musician remarked, reminded the hearer of the sound of a silver trumpet. The voice is also remarkably even and perfect in tone. There is none of the unpleasant quaver and uncertainty about it wherewith the ear is often annoyed in the singing of a less perfect artiste than is Miss Norton. Her musical organization is faultless. With her remarkable vocal qualifications she possesses dramatic ones of an equally high order. She sings with a depth and fervor of expression that are wonderful in so young a prima-donna, and one whose stage-experience extends over scarcely three years. Her attitudes, her gestures, and the excellence of her by-play proclaim the born actress. Thus gifted, and with her foot securely planted in the first difficult step of the ladder that leads to fame and fortune, she has only to continue as she has begun to take her place, in a not far-distant future, as one of the world's acknowledged queens of song.

The American colony and the American tourists in Paris were largely represented on the occasion of Miss Norton's début. Consul-General Walker and Mrs. Walker occupied a box in company with the United States Vice-Consul and family. Chicago was well and worthily represented by Mrs. H. O. Stone (whose interest in the débutante has been most warm-hearted and sincere) and by Mr. and Mrs. Medill, lately arrived at the Continental Hotel. Another group comprised Mr. and Mrs. E. Brooks Scovel and Mr. Dulon Hessenbruck, of the firm of Drexel, Harjes & Co. Mrs. Scovel (formerly Miss Marcia Roosevelt, of New York) was one of Miss Norton's earliest and firmest friends. Miss Fanny Reed, sister of Mrs. Paran Stevens, of New York, and one of the most noted of amateur prime-donne, accompanied Mrs. Pell and Miss Boker, who are also New-Yorkers. Mr. Ryan, of the New York Herald; Mr. Jordan, the new American tenor; and Mr. Grinnell, nephew to Mrs. Morton, the wife of our Minister, were also among the audience. Mr. and Mrs. Morton were not present, having left Paris some ten days ago for San Moritz. They were literally driven from their seaside villa at Dieppe by the cold weather and the persistent rains.

WANTED—LADIES AND GENTLEmen to call and examine the new method of painting in water colors. The Russian Art Company will teach any person how to paint a beautiful picture by their new process in one lesson. No previous knowledge of painting required. As strange as this may seem, the Russian Art Company guarantee that anybody who will take one lesson of them in this art can paint a first-class picture, and to show their good faith they do not ask their pupils to pay one cent unless they can after one lesson paint a No. 1 picture. With the knowledge of this art any person of ordinary intelligence can earn from $30 to $40 per week at home. You can paint photographs, engravings, or lithographs; you can decorate your own home; you can use the art for business by teaching others or painting pictures to order. After you have taken instructions we put no restriction on you. Do as you please with it. You may look for business until you are gray and you cannot find anything that will pay you as much in return for the amount invested as a few dollars in the Russian art. The Russian method as taught by us in one lesson gives you a business from which you earn $30 or $40 a week. It gives the accomplishment of the day. It is a new art. No glass, no transferring; no transparency required. See the pictures of Margaret Mather in front of Verges, Ruhling & Co.'s store, No. 138 State-st. You can paint pictures as good as they are after taking one lesson from us or we will not ask you to pay us a dime. Call and see specimens at Room 33, Dore's Block, elevator, 75 Madison-st.

TAKE LINCOLN-AVENUE STREET-CARS.

One of the most pleasant rides in the city, passing in front of Lincoln Park and along a finely-shaded avenue

The location is unexcelled, fronting on the two great main avenues just north of the city limits, Lincoln and Diversy-avs., with high, dry, and rich ground, good drainage, good water, near schools, churches, parks, and street-cars. Only a pleasant ride from the centre of the city. Lots the same distance out on the South Side, and not nearly as pleasantly located, cost from five to ten times more. Those who buy now will soon double their money. The lots are surrounded by a double row of trees, and full-width sidewalks, and many fine buildings are in process of erection on all sides of the property.

We shall make it a Fine Success and Model Subdivision before the summer is over.

SUBURBAN REAL ESTATE.

FOR SALE—BY FRED M. WOODS, AT Downer's Grove: Beautiful building lots, 50x180, $2 to $4 per foot; land high and rolling. Downer's Grove is on the C., B. & Q. Road, 15 miles from the west limits of the city; has hourly trains each way; fare 11⅛ cents. The land is 180 feet higher than Chicago, very rolling; streets are nicely graded and lined mostly with sugar maple trees. Lying adjacent on the west is a sugar maple grove of 300 acres, protecting the town from the west winds so prevalent in the other unprotected suburbs. It has the best school in the county, 4 churches, 20 good business houses. About 100 people go in and out daily. It is conceded by all that Nature has done more for this suburb than any other on the road. Being surrounded by one of the richest farming communities in the State, living costs only about one-half as much as in the nearer suburbs. The town has a fine butter and cheese factory, where the best dairy products can be had at manufacturers' prices; also fresh buttermilk always on hand, and pure cream. Fuel is cheap; the best of summer wood can be laid down at your door for $3.50 per cord, and sugar maple at $6. If you are looking for a home compare all these advantages with those offered by other dealers. We don't offer lake breezes to breed rheumatism, but the substantials of life cheap to appease hunger. Instead of cheap poetry we give you cheap pork, mutton, or beef, as your appetite craves. I also have some fine residence property; one special bargain, new 8-room house and ¼ acre land, 2 blocks from depot, only $1,500; will sell on payments monthly or will rent. Address FRED. M. WOODS, Downer's Grove, Ill.

FOR SALE—I HAVE CONCLUDED TO sell 450 feet of my property, adjoining my residence at South Park, between Fifty-seventh and Fifty-eighth-sts., Washington and Madison-avs.

300 feet of this property fronts east on Washington-av. and 150 feet of it west on Madison-av., being within two blocks of the fine South Park depot, and the most attractive part of the east division of the South Parks; this is undoubtedly the finest residence property south of Twenty-second-st. I hold 200 feet of the Washington-av. front at $50, the remaining 100 feet at $45, and the Madison-av. front at $40. One-half of the purchase money may remain upon the premises for five years at 6 per cent semi-annual interest. This property will certainly double in value within five years.

BUSINESS PERSONALS.

PERSONAL—A SNORING WOMAN, like an owl, is the most horrible thing that is harmless. A lone man within hearing of either in the deep solitude of night feels there is little to choose between being scared to death and torn limb from limb. Only one thing is more dreadful—a snoring man. None die from snoring; if they did many husbands—but I must not suggest. No man need lie awake curling his mustache, sweetly meditating how soon he can shy around the hired girl after burying the fond one by his side whose every snore seems to tear away and fling to the winds some vital function. She don't sign the deeds that way, she is simply growing fat.

HOW TO PREVENT SNORING is not my hobby, but duty. First, lie awake to catch yourself snoring; take no one's word. While awake you won't snore. If you hear yourself, turn on your chest. If your partner snores, tie up her or his chin. If the whole family snore, get a lusty baby with lots of colic and no soothing-sirup. If a boarding-house has it, get a mockingbird, a piano, and a beginner. The piano will go till 12, the mockingbird will work the rest of the night, and the beginner will practice at 5. If anybody snores after this move out. A beautiful woman snoring may please the eye if she don't the ear, but heaven help a homely one with wrinkles, sallowness, moth, or freckles, which my Skin Bleacher removes safely with no soreness; or black heads, which my Lotion removes instantly; or pimples, which I cure for $5; or superfluous hair, which my Depilatory kills permanently; or gray hair and faded brows and lashes, which my Colors and Bleachers remedy. They are safe and permanent, unlike any others; or wrinkles about the eyes removed by my Spanish Balsam. Then there are my beautifiers—Tiger Lily, Ranges, and Pencils, absolutely unrivaled. I always show how they are used. I remedy all defects cheaply. Consultations free. Come while we have time. Call at Palmer House, parlor floor, follow halls from elevator to the right to 117. DE LA BANTA.

PERSONAL—"AND STILL THEY come," and as long as the present rush continues we shall make our Cabinet Photos at $3 per dozen. Our new sky-light is just splendid. We have in times past made as fine photographs as were ever produced by living artist, but the Cabinets we are now making are superior to any we have ever done. We have no objections to your paying $5, $6, or $8 per dozen for your pictures. You may have more money than you know what to do with, and you might just as well give it to some photographer to put on style with as anybody else, but if you want the best work that can be done, we will guarantee to give you as fine Cabinet Photos at $3 per dozen as can be produced on this continent at any price. 103 Dearborn-st., corner of Washington. J. R. STEVENS.

PERSONAL—"OIL OF BEAUTY."—Magical complexion beautifier. Creates unfading personal charms. Makes the skin marvelously clear, white, pure, smooth, bewitchingly lovely, the ladies' supreme delight, winning unbounded admiration. Perfectly harmless, delightfully fragrant and refreshing. "Oil of Beauty," the only healthful, permanent complexion beautifier in the world! Tested free. 167 South Clark-st., up-stairs, Room 21.

PERSONAL—"HAIR GIFT" FOR THE hair; wonderful grower, delightful dressing; will not straighten crimps. Headquarters 167 South Clark-st., up-stairs, Room 22.

MARINE NEWS.

An Active Demand Yesterday from Shippers for Vessels to Carry Grain.

Room Taken for 314,000 Bushels of Grain for Buffalo and Kingston.

An Interesting Letter from a Passenger on the New England Line Passenger Steamer Oneida.

Dock and Other Notes—Vessels Passed Port Huron—Vessel Charters—Around the Lakes—Port List.

Lake Freights.

There was an active demand yesterday from shippers of grain for vessel-room, especially to Buffalo and Kingston. The rates to the former port advanced to 2 cents a bushel on corn, but the rates to the latter port for wheat showed no improvement. The only protection nowadays to vessel-owners in the way of freights is the fact that the big steam transportation lines will not take grain to Lake Erie ports for less than 2 cents a bushel. One of the peculiarities of the carrying business this season has been this. Freight rates would gradually advance until they reached, say 3 cents a bushel on wheat, and vessel-owners would swell up with great expectations. A big fleet would arrive, and for a day or two the demand for carriers from shippers would drop off, most probably because of light receipts by rail. Then a panic would set in, and each vessel-owner rushed to his agent and gave orders to him to put his craft in at any price that could be obtained from shippers. The consequence has been that each time that this epidemic of "buck ague" has set in freight rates have dropped down to figures at which vessels could not take grain to Lake Erie ports and come out whole at the end of the trip. This has been the case the past week, and did the big steam transportation lines pursue the same policy, sailing vessels would have to be tied up to the docks and allowed to rot. Sooner or later all the grain transported by water will be carried in steam vessels or vessels towed by steam, and the action of the owners of sail craft in cutting rates can only result in loss to themselves. But it is useless to argue the question; experience is the only teacher that the world heeds, and owners of sail vessels can only learn from experience. Yesterday's engagements comprised the following vessels:

For Buffalo.	Bushels.
Propeller Scotia, wheat	56,000
Propeller Idaho, corn	25,000
Propeller Vanderbilt, corn	25,000
Propeller Dean Richmond, corn	32,000
Propeller Russia, wheat	40,000
Propeller Russia, rye	15,000
For Erie.
Propeller Delaware, wheat	60,000
For Kingston.
Schooner West Side, wheat	22,000
Schooner Oliver Mitchell, wheat	22,000
Schooner George B. Sloan, wheat	22,000
For Midland.
Propeller Tecumseh, corn	38,000
Schooner Sligo, corn	22,000
Total capacity	374,000

The New England Line of Passenger Steamers.

We have received the following letter from a passenger on the steamer Oneida, Capt. Charles McInnes, of the New England Steamboat Line. We give it place, because what applies to the Oneida also applies equally to the other steamers in the line—the magnificent St. Paul, Capt. Fall; the staunch Toledo, Capt. Scott, and the neat little Canada, Capt. McGiffin. The New England Line is not excelled by any steamboat line on the lakes, either for safe and comfortable boats or gentlemanly and careful officers. As an evidence of the popularity of the line, the St. Paul, which left last night, had to refuse passengers, and already half the staterooms on the Oneida, which leaves Tuesday evening next, have been engaged. Everything our correspondent says regarding the Oneida and her officers is deserved:

Special Correspondence of The Chicago Tribune.

MACKINAC, Mich., Aug. 7.—In coming from Chicago to this or any other lake port the voyager this summer learns the great value of the fog-whistles. On Sunday last, on Capt. McInnes' propeller, the Oneida, at the entrance to the port of Milwaukee, the fog-whistle saved us at least three hours of anxiety and suspense. Sunday night the Manitou Island fog-whistle again directed our course, and we thanked the wise men who had the whistles established. There has been, I am told, more fog on Lake Michigan this year than for many seasons. However, on the afternoon of Sunday the passengers on the Oneida, I doubt not, were the spectators of as fine a scene as there is in the whole world. In the middle of the lake, with water as smooth as glass, and with clouds making fantastic shores on all sides, much like the mountains at Harper's Ferry, we passed through the sunshine actually as though we were in a balloon. The air was as balmy as the first day of spring. The schooners stood in the calm loaded with lazy sails—"painted ships upon a painted ocean"—and even the great good-hearted mate, Mr. Buie, said he had very "seldom seen so fine a smoky calm." Talk about Lake Como, Lake Maggoire, and all that—why it needed nothing but halcyons to have transported us to that time when spring was eternal! And so we landed at St. Ignace. The Captain kindly took us up to a church, where a snickering friar showed us the famous painting brought thither by Père Marquette, and a registry of baptisms, which is the "anteekest" book I ever saw. The first child baptized was born the 5th of April, 1695! There was the book, its leaves as brown as a mummy, and the dates running continuously from 1695 to about 1821, I think. A priceless book—and the friar snickered and tee-heed like an idiot.

Mackinac is a delightful spot. Everybody says so.

Of the Oneida I can truthfully say she is a solid craft, and the smoothest running steamer I ever rode on. Capt. McInnes and his wife, Mr. Buie, the mate, and Clerk McKay did all they could to make a journey in foggy weather agreeable. The Captain tells me he will soon cut away the crew's part of the cabin, and make a full cabin for passengers. If he should do this, no one who had a choice of boats would run the risk of a shaking when he could be eating dinner on the Oneida, and ask if the boat had not stopped somewhere, as several did. My little daughter was the only child on the boat, and when we left (I think it was entirely on her account) nearly every one of a particularly pleasant company of people expressed regret, especially Mr. Buie. He seemed to love the little one as though she were his own. Two very big-hearted men in this world go through it without any bairns. **

Dock and Other Notes.

The steamship Wallula went to the Central elevators yesterday afternoon to load.

The steam-barges Tempest and Colin Campbell arrived yesterday, both lumber-laden.

The passenger propeller Idaho, of the Western Transportation Line, leaves for Buffalo Tuesday evening.

Late yesterday afternoon the wind changed to the northeast, and a good-sized fleet is expected to arrive today.

The Canadian steam-barge Tecumseh arrived from Georgian Bay yesterday with a cargo of 17,500 cedar ties.

The waterlogged schooner Emma was pumped out yesterday, and in the afternoon was towed to a dry-dock for repairs.

The schooner Telegraph came out of Miller Brothers' dry-dock yesterday, where she received a general overhauling.

The usual religious services for the benefit of tugmen and sailors will be held at the lumber market today, weather permitting.

The big propeller Colorado got a log in her starboard wheel yesterday, and it required the services of a diver to get it out. Joseph G. Falcon was sent for and after an hour's work succeeded in removing the log.

It is said that Capt. Peterson wants some one to raise the sunken schooner Nimrod. Capt. Peter Falcon, of this port, is a good man for the job, and any communication to him in care of THE TRIBUNE marine reporter will reach him.

Among the vessels chartered yesterday to bring lumber to this port were the following: Steam-barge Tempest, from Muskegon; steam-barge Buckeye, from Ludington; steam-barge Starke, from Garfield; schooner George A. Marsh, from Manistee; schooner Westchester, from Pensaukee.

A serious accident happened in the river yesterday. In attempting to get alongside the schooner Thomas P. Sheldon the tug Alpha ran into the schooner's starboard side, badly damaging her. A mistake of the signals by the engineer of the tug is said to have been the cause of the accident.

Capt. Peter Falcon, the submarine diver, has returned to this city. It will be remembered that Capt. Falcon left two or three weeks ago to make an examination of the steam-barge Brunswick, sunk in Lake Erie. On his arrival Capt. Falcon found that the schooner Carlingford, which was also sunk in the collision with the Brunswick, was lying in 108 feet of water, while the Brunswick lay in at least 120 feet, the deepest pit of Lake Erie. He pronounced the recovery of the Brunswick impossible at that depth.

While off Grosse Point yesterday afternoon the Captain of the tug F. S. Butler sighted a schooner flying a flag of distress. On going out to her she was found to be the little schooner Laura Johnson, laden with slabs, from South Haven. Her centreboard and the tiller to her rudder were both gone. The Johnson left South Haven a week ago yesterday, and had been drifting about the lake helpless ever since, having lost both centreboard and tiller shortly after putting to sea. The Captain of the Johnson deserves praise for going to the Johnson's relief.

Gifford, schooner Montana, schooner John Wesley, schooner J. B. Kitchen, schooner W. H. Rounds, schooner Unadilla.

The yachts Viking and Cora touched here on a cruise.

Wind northeast, light.

Port of Buffalo—Coal Freights—Vessel Charters—Other News.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Arrived from Chicago—Schooner North Cape, corn; schooner John Kelderhouse, corn. From Duluth—Propeller Northerner, copper.

Cleared for Chicago—Propeller B. W. Blanchard, rails, etc.; schooners George Murray and John Kelderhouse, coal. For Duluth—Propeller Oscoda, rails; propeller Northerner.

Lake receipts for the week: Corn, 428,900 bushels; wheat, 1,294,650 bushels; flour, 40,100 barrels; lumber, 8,000,000 feet; ties, 45,550. Shipments: Coal, 34,000 tons; cement, 4,420 barrels; rails, 2,150 tons; salt, 600 barrels. Canal shipments for the week: Wheat, 1,311,600 bushels; corn, 37,000 bushels; rye, 8,200 bushels. Rail shipments for the week: Wheat, 234,380 bushels; corn, 255,510 bushels.

Coal freights continued firm at 75 cents to Chicago and Milwaukee. Receipts have not been free enough to warrant an advance in rates, though vessels still are scarce. The schooner North Cape was engaged to load for Chicago at 85 cents, but she will be obliged to wait several days, and then load from canal boats. The straight charters were as follows: For Chicago—Schooners B. F. Bruce and John Kelderhouse, coal at 75 cents. For Milwaukee—Propeller Northerner, coal at 75 cents. For Duluth—Propeller Oscoda, rails at $1.25.

Canal freights were again depressed and rates declined from a fourth to a half cent. Wheat was shipped at 5¼ to 5½ cents to New York, with but little offering. The nominal rate on corn was 5 cents.

The propeller Gordon Campbell was in the Union dry-dock today to get one of her wheels keyed.

The steamship John B. Lyon came out of Mills' dock last night with a new wheel. She was loading coal for Chicago today and will get away with her consorts the Hutchinson and Wells tomorrow.

Capt. Robert Todd and Mate Robert Dick were honorably acquitted of the charge of assault on Charles Smith, a seaman, on the schooner J. M. Hutchinson. It appeared that Smith got into an altercation with Dick, and Todd acted the part of peacemaker.

Capt. Charles Gilbert's examination for assaulting Mary Smith, cook of the schooner B. F. Bruce, is not yet finished.

There has been a strong wind all day from the west. A large number of vessels are waiting for fair weather, among them the schooners George Murray, Pathfinder, John Kelderhouse, E. P. Beals, Sea Gull, J. E. Bailey, Erie, Stewart, Venus, propeller Alpena and consort Winona, and the tows of the steam-barges James P. Donaldson, S. D. Caldwell, Missouri, Germania, Jenness, and J. M. Masters.

Items from Milwaukee.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 12.—The new steam-barge Lewis Pabloa was inspected for the insurance register today. Her rating is A1 and her valuation placed at $35,000. She will be ready to go into commission the latter part of next week.

The schooner H. A. Kent, which was seized for seamen's wages yesterday, was released today on the claim being paid, and she left for Escanaba.

Iron-ore freights today were quiet. Shippers were offering $1 on ore from Escanaba to Ohio points, but the inquiries were few.

The schooner Champion came out of dry-dock today, and her place was taken by the schooner G. H. Foster for recaulking. The schooner R. J. Skidmore was also docked for recaulking.

Arrived from below—Steam-barge Business, coal-laden.

Cleared for Escanaba—Schooners P. V. R. Watson and Selkirk.

Entered and Cleared at Erie.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 12.—Entered—Steam-barge Kate Butteroni, from Marquette, ore; propeller Merrick, from Cleveland, light; propeller Lycoming, from Chicago, wheat and merchandise; propeller Gordon Campbell, from Chicago, wheat; steamship City of Rome, from Escanaba, ore.

Cleared—Steam-barge Empire, steam-barge J. R. Whiting, steam-barge Jarvis Lord, schooner Ganges, schooner A. M. Moss, schooner Groton, schooner Guiding Star, schooner J. N. Foster, schooner Zama Belle.

Passed up—Propeller Peerless.

Passed down—Propellers Japan, Arizona, and Arctic.

Vessels Passed the Welland Canal.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., Aug. 12.—Passed down—Schooners Bangalore and J. R. Noyes, Chicago to Kingston, wheat.

Passed up—Schooner Jamaica, Fairhaven to Chicago, coal; propeller Ocean, Montreal to Chicago, general cargo.

The schooners D. G. Fort, M. Fillmore, M. L. Higgie, W. I. Preston, and Jamaica, all bound to Chicago, are lying here wind bound.

A Tug Badly Damaged by Fire.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 12.—The tug James Amadeus, while towing a schooner eight miles northeast of this port today, caught fire in the forward hold. Four harbor tugs responded to her signals of distress, and finally succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but not until a large part of the tug was destroyed, including the pilot-house, engine-room, and forward deck.

Port of Cheboygan.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., Aug. 12.—Cleared—Propellers Lawrence and Champlain, tug J. W. Bennett, steamers Keweenaw, Flora, and City of Cleveland.

Arrived—Steamer Dor and propeller Van Raalte.

Wind northwest, brisk. Weather pleasant.

"FOR NIGHT COMETH."

For The Chicago Tribune.

The curtains of the night fall low,
And softly shade the golden glow
That hangs above the setting Sun;
The Night is coming—Day is done.
The birds' last song is hushed to rest;
A bright star glimmers in the West;
And 'cross the sky the white clouds roam,
Like angel-forms from heavenly home.

Mother, art thou waiting there?
Canst thou hear my earnest prayer?
Keep me from all stain and sin!
Help me all Life's goal to win!
Not Ambition's lofty dream,
Or idle sail on flow'ry stream;
Not that life for me shall be
From care, or toil, or sorrow free;
But help me to endure it all,
Until for me Life's night shall fall.

Through danger, loneliness, or grief,
In happy hours, sweet as brief,
Dear Mother, leave me not alone!
Thy spirit near me will atone
For all the world can give or take,
Should fortune smile, or friend forsake;
For thou wast tried, and still found pure;
So help me, Mother, to endure! ALLEN.

SUPERIOR TO ALL.

The Conrad Seipp Brewing Co. have gained a world-wide reputation for their celebrated bottled lager beer. Those wh have neglected to keep it heretofore should send their orders direct to the factory.

MICA
GREASE
Patented
1874

Composed largely of powdered Mica or Isinglass, is the BEST and CHEAPEST lubricator, in the world—the BEST because it does not gum, but forms a highly polished surface over the axle, reducing friction and lightening the draft; the CHEAPEST because it costs NO MORE than inferior brands, and one box will do the work of two of any other make. Answers as well for Harvesters, Mill Gearing, Threshing Machines, Corn-Planters, Carriages, Buggies, etc., as for Wagons. GUARANTEED to contain NO Petroleum. Sold by all dealers.
